

REFORMING KOREA'S

Industrial Conglomerates

Edward M. Graham

Institute for International Economics
Washington, DC
January 2003

Contents

Preface	ix
Acknowledgments	xiii
1 Introduction	1
2 The Miracle with a Dark Side: Korean Economic Development under Park Chung-hee	11
Prologue to the Miracle	11
Military Coup, and the Miracle Begins	14
The HCI Drive	26
The End of the HCI Drive, and an Evaluation	38
Appendix 2.1: Might Industrial Policy in a Developing Country Succeed for Reasons Not Explained by Classical Economics?	47
3 The Miracle with a Dark Side: The Chun and Roh Years, 1980-92	51
Chun Doo-hwan Takes Over	51
Economic Reform under Chun	56
Further Efforts to Reform the Chaebol	62
Vestiges of Industrial Policy Remain During the Chun and Roh Eras	67
Mistakes Mount in the Second Half of Roh Tae-woo's Presidency	74
Taking Stock; to See the Forest Through the Trees	79

4	From Full-Blown Democracy to Disaster: The Kim Young-sam Years, 1993-97	89
	Reform and Growth in the Early Years of the Presidency of Kim Young-sam	89
	The Second Half of Kim Young-sam's Administration	98
5	The 1997-98 Crisis and Its Aftermath	105
	The Crisis in Korea Unfolds	105
	Financial Sector Reform	109
	Erratic Reform in the Industrial Sector	116
	The Collapse of Daewoo	130
	The Near Collapse and the De Facto Breakup of the Hyundai Group	136
	Will 1999 Be Remembered as a Repeat of 1990?	144
5	Conclusions	147
	A Tale of Two Countries?	147
	The Need for Reform in Korea Has Not Ended	150
	To Conclude the Conclusion	173
	References	175
	Index	183
	Tables
Table 1.1	The ten largest chaebol in Korea, 1983	7
Table 2.1	Interest rates, by category, in Korea during the HCI period	40
Table 2.2	Estimated subsidy component in policy loans of Korean banks and ordinary income reported by Korean manufacturing firms, 1963-82	41
Table 2.3	Real growth rates, nominal wage increases, inflation rates, and real wage increases in Korea during the HCI and Chun periods	43
Table 2.4	Exports, imports, and trade balance as a percentage of GDP in Korea, 1961-79	44
Table 3.1	Share of assets on nonbank financial institutions owned by chaebol in Korea, 1990	64
Table 3.2	Shares of deposits and loans in Korean institutions, 1980, 1985, and 1990	65
Table 3.3	Preferential loans in Korea for "equipment of export industry" and total preferential loans, 1985-90	70
Table 5.1	Top 30 chaebol in Korea, June 1997	110
Table 5.2	Public funds used for Korea's financial sector restructuring, January 1, 1998-June 30, 2001	116
Table 5.3	Estimated interest coverage rates, 10 largest chaebol in Korea, early 1998	118
Table 5.4	Debt-to-equity ratios of the five largest chaebol in Korea, 2000	129