

Creating Business Value with Information Technology: Challenges and Solutions

Namchul Shin
Pace University, USA

IDEA GROUP PUBLISHING

Hershey • London • Melbourne • Singapore • Beijing

Creating Business Value with Information Technology: Challenges and Solutions

Table of Contents

Preface	vii
Chapter I. Investigating the Relationship between Strategic Alignment and Information Technology Business Value: The Discovery of a Paradox	1
Paul P. Tallon, Boston College, USA
Kenneth L. Kraemer, University of California, Irvine, USA
Chapter II. Information-Induced Strategic Alignment: Toward a Semiological Analysis	23
Ra'ed M. Shams, University of Bahrain, Bahrain
Frederick P. Wheeler, University of Bradford, UK
Chapter III. Inventory Productivity Impacts of IT-Enabled Supply Chain Coordination in Manufacturing Environments	50
Kristina Setzekorn, Oakland University, USA
Arun Rai, Georgia State University, USA
Arlyn J. Melcher, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale, USA
Chapter IV. Information Technology Spending Association with Organizational Productivity and Performance: A Study of the Mexican Banking Industry, 1982–1992	89
Carlos J. Navarrete, California State Polytechnic University, USA
James B. Pick, University of Redlands, USA

Chapter V. An Empirical Analysis of Productivity Gains from Information Technology's Reduction of Coordination Costs	125
Namchul Shin, Pace University, USA

Chapter VI. Information Technology Spending and the Value of the Firm: The Case of Mexican Banks	146
Carlos J. Navarrete, California State Polytechnic University, USA
James B. Pick, University of Redlands, USA

Chapter VII. Creating Business Value through E-Commerce	166
Jatinder N. D. Gupta, University of Alabama in Huntsville, USA
Sushil K. Sharma, Ball State University, USA

Chapter VIII. The Moral and Business Value of Information Technology: What to do in Case of a Conflict?	187
Bernd C. Stahl, University College Dublin, Ireland

Chapter IX. Establishing the Business Value of Network Security Using Analytical Hierarchical Process	203
Susan J. Chinburg, Oklahoma State University, USA
Ramesh Sharda, Oklahoma State University, USA
Mark Weiser, Oklahoma State University, USA

Chapter X. Increasing Business Value of Communications Infrastructure: The Case of Internet-based Virtual Private Networks	220
Bongsik Shin, San Diego State University, USA
Daniel C. Kinsella, Jr., Deloitte & Touch LLP, USA

Chapter XI. An Optimization Model for Telecommunication Systems	236
Bahador Ghahramani, University of Nebraska at Omaha, USA

Chapter XII. Web Initiatives and E-Commerce Strategy: How Do Canadian Manufacturing SMEs Compare?	259
Ron Craig, Wilfrid Laurier University, Canada

Chapter XIII. Management's Contribution to Internet Commerce Benefit—Experiences of Online Small Businesses	275
Simpson Poon, Charles Sturt University, Australia & The University of Hong Kong, HK
Chapter XIV. Electronic Commerce Opportunities, Challenges and Organizational Issues for Australian SMEs	295
Mohini Singh, RMIT University, Australia
About the Authors	313
Index	320