

Grasping the Nettle

Analyzing Cases of Intractable Conflict

Chester A. Crocker,
Fen Osier Hampson,
and Pamela Aall

UNITED STATES INSTITUTE OF PEACE PRESS
Washington, D.C.

C o n t e n t s

Foreword ix
Richard H. Solomon

Preface xiii

Contributors xvii

The Intractable Conflicts Experts Group xxiii

1. Introduction: Mapping the Nettle Field
Chester A. Crocker, Fen Osier Hampson, Pamela Aall

Understanding Intractability

2. Comparative Studies of Long Wars 33
Roy Licklider

3. Analyzing Intractability 47
/s. William Zartman

4. Nature, Dynamics, and Phases of Intractability 65
Louis Kriesberg

5. Mediation in the Most Resistant Cases 99
Jacob Bercovitch
6. Negotiating Intractable Conflicts:
The Contributions of Unofficial Intermediaries 123
Diana Chigas

Cases of Intractable Conflict

7. Can Sudan Escape Its Intractability? 161
J. Stephen Morrison and Alex de Waal
8. Intractability and Third-Party Mediation in the Balkans 183
Steven L. Burg
9. Angola: The End of an Intractable Conflict 209
Paul Hare
10. Third Parties and Intractable Conflicts:
The Case of Colombia 231
Cynthia J. Arnson and Teresa Whitfield
11. The Uses of Deadlock: Intractability in Eurasia 269
Charles King
12. Kashmir: Fifty Years of Running in Place 295
Howard B. Schaffer and Teresita C. Schaffer
13. "Intractable" Confrontation on the Korean Peninsula:
A Contribution to Regional Stability? 319
Scott Snyder
14. Intractability and the Israeli-Palestinian Conflict 343
Stephen Cohen

Contents

15. Beyond Resolution? The Palestinian-Israeli Conflict 357
Shibley Telhami

When Endless Conflicts End

16. Conclusion: From Intractable to Tractable—
the Outlook and Implications for Third Parties 375
Chester A. Crocker, Fen Osier Hampson, and Pamela Aall

- Index 387