

Globalization and the Postcolonial World

The New Political Economy of Development

Second Edition

palgrave

List of Figures and Tables	x
Preface to the Second Edition	xi
Acknowledgements	xviii
PART I HISTORICAL STRUCTURES
Introduction	3
International political economy	6
The critical theory of Robert Cox: historical structure	10
Historical structure and stage theory	12
1 The History of Capitalist Expansion	14
The political nature of the capitalist worlcheconomy	15
The dialectical development of capitalism as a world system	16
A periodization of capitalist development and expansion	16
The mercantile phase of European expansion	17
The colonial phase of European expansion	18
Marxist theories of capitalist imperialism	21
Critiques of Marxist theories of imperialism	25
2 Neocolonialism, Modernization and Dependency	29
Global economic pressures	29
Domestic tensions	32

Geopolitical relations	33
Modernization theory	34
Dependency theory	37
3 Crisis and Restructuring: The New International Division of Labour	43
Material capabilities: global Fordism	44
Neocolonial economic relations	46
Economic nationalism in the Third World	47
Changing geopolitical relations	50
Critical theory: diversity and micro-studies	52
Gender and development	53
'Dependency associated' development theory	56
Postimperialism and world system theories	57
 PART II CRISIS AND TRANSFORMATION
Introduction	63
4 From Expansion to Involution	67
World trade: long-term trends	67
Foreign direct investment (FDI) and the growth of multinational enterprises	77
World capital flows: other resource flows	80
Global financial deepening and the structural position of the Third World	85
Core-periphery: from structural exploitation to structural irrelevance	89
Conclusion	91
5 Flexibility and Informatiionalism	94
Pathways out of Fordism	95
Informational production and the network enterprise	103
The New Economy	109
Theorizing the transition	113
Conclusion	118

6 Globalization	120
The sociology of globalization	121
Roland Robertson: world compression and global consciousness	122
David Harvey and Anthony Giddens: time and space	123
Manuel Castells: The global, informational network society	126
The economics of globalization	131
A global market discipline	131
A new global division of labour	135
Financiarization	139
Conclusion	142
7 Global Governance: Regulation and Imperialism	144
Global governance and the internationalization of the state	148
Globalization and globalism	153
Globalization and US strategic dominance	155
Imperialism and hegemony	159
Conclusion	162
PART III THE POSTCOLONIAL WORLD
Introduction	165
The postcolonial: condition and discourse	166
Postcolonial formations	171
8 Africa: Exclusion and the Containment of Anarchy	173
Debt and developmentalism	176
Debt, globalization and the neo-liberal agenda	178
The role of the IMF and the World Bank	180
Structural adjustment in Africa: the social and economic record	181
Structural adjustment: intensifying global relations	183
Democracy and economic reform	185
Economic reform and anarchy	187

Imperialism and resource wars	189
The reverse agenda of aid and global management	191
NGOs and the politics of exclusion	193
Humanitarian relief and complex political emergencies	194
Conclusion	195
9 Islamic Revolt	197
Spiritual renewal	200
The West confronts Islam	203
Education and Orientalization	206
The failure of dependent development	208
The rise of Islamist new intellectuals and the politics of anti-developmentalism	211
Conclusion	214
10 The Developmental States of East Asia	216
The role of the state in economic development	218
Theories of the developmental state	220
Comparative political economy	222
International political economy	223
Globalization and the limits of the East Asia developmental model	226
Regionalization: the next lap?	229
The crash of '97	232
Conclusion	238
11 Democracy, Civil Society and Postdevelopment in Latin America	239
The Latin American intellectual left	240
Postwar developmentalism and dependency theory	242
Military regimes, internationalization and US imperialism	244
The dance of the millions	246
The new democracy: state, civil society and market reforms	248
Civilian rule and political democracy	249
The new social movements and civil society	252

Imagining postdevelopment , 254

Conclusion 256

Conclusion 258

Reconstructing universalism, regional mercantilism or postdevelopment? 261

The global and the local 264

Notes and References 268

Index 311