

The Cambridge Companion to

MEDIEVAL PHILOSOPHY

Edited by

A. S. McGrade

CAMBRIDGE
UNIVERSITY PRESS

CONTENTS

Notes on contributors	page xi
Preface	xv
Abbreviations and forms of reference	xvii
Introduction A. S. MCGRADÉ	I
Entry points	2
Otherness	3
What is medieval philosophy?	4
Going further	7
A final image: medieval philosophy and freedom	8
1 Medieval philosophy in context	10
STEVEN P. MARRONE
Emergence of medieval philosophy in the late Roman Empire	11
Monastic discipline and scholarship	16
Islam	19
The rise of the West and the reemergence of philosophy	21
Rationalization in society: politics, religion, and educational institutions	28
Aristotle and thirteenth-century scholasticism	32
The contested fourteenth century	36
The place of authority in medieval thought	40
Philosophical sources	43
Genres	43

2	Two medieval ideas: eternity and hierarchy	51
	JOHN MARENBN ON AND D. E. LUSCOMBE
	Eternity	51
	Hierarchy	60
3	Language and logic	73
	E. J. ASHWORTH
	Sources and developments	73
	The purpose and nature of language and logic	77
	Signification, conventional and mental language	81
	Paronymy and analogy	85
	Reference: supposition theory	90
	Truth and paradox	92
	Inference and paradox	93
4	Philosophy in Islam	97
	THERESE-ANNE DRUART
	Philosophy, religion, and culture	100
	Psychology and metaphysics	108
	Ethics	113
5	Jewish philosophy	121
	IDIT DOBBS-WEINSTEIN
	The roots of knowledge – Saadiah Gaon	122
	Universal hylomorphism – Ibn Gabirol	126
	The limits of reason – Moses Maimonides	128
	A purer Aristotelianism – Gersonides	137
	Jewish-Christian interactions	141
6	Metaphysics: God and being	147
	STEPHEN P. MENN
	Physical and metaphysical proofs of God	147
	Avicenna's argument and some challenges to it	150
	Essence and existence	154
	Only one necessary being?	157

Challenges to essence-existence composition	158
Challenges about God and esse	160
Univocity, equivocity, analogy	162
7 Creation and nature	171
EDITH DUDLEY SYLLA
Creation	173
Nature as epiphany: natural philosophy through the twelfth century	174
Astronomy and astrology	177
Scholastic natural philosophy	179
Interactions of natural philosophy and theology	187
8 Natures: the problem of universals	196
GYULA KLIMA
Exemplarist realism: universals as divine reasons	196
Common natures, singular existents, active minds	201
Common terms, singular natures	204
9 Human nature	208
ROBERT PASNAU
Mind and body and soul	208
Cognition	213
Will, passion, and action	221
Freedom and immortality	224
10 The moral life	231
BONNIE KENT
Augustine and classical ethics	232
Happiness and morality	235
Evil, badness, vice, and sin	243
Virtues, theological and other	246
11 Ultimate goods: happiness, friendship, and bliss	254
JAMES McEVOY
Augustine and the universal desire for happiness	255

	Boethius: philosophy has its consolations	259
	Thomas Aquinas	261
	Happiness in the intellectual life	266
	Theories of friendship	271
	Happiness and peace at the end of history: Joachim of Fiore	273
12	Political philosophy	276
	ANNABEL S. BRETT
	The one true city	278
	Reason, nature, and the human good	280
	Election and consent	285
	Hierarchy and grace	288
	History, autonomy, and rights	290
	Conclusion	295
13	Medieval philosophy in later thought	300
	P. J. FITZPATRICK AND JOHN HALDANE
	The Renaissance and seventeenth century	300
	Current engagements	316
14	Transmission and translation	328
	THOMAS WILLIAMS
	Channels of transmission	329
	Three case studies	334
	Translating medieval philosophy	338
	Pairs and snares	341
	A word of encouragement	343
	Chronology of philosophers and major events	347
	Biographies of major medieval philosophers	350
	Bibliography	360
	Index	398