

NEW COMPETITION

FOREIGN DIRECT INVESTMENT AND INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT
IN CHINA

Nieuwe Competitie
Buitenlandse directe investeringen en industriële ontwikkelingen in China

Thesis
to obtain the degree of Doctor from the Erasmus University Rotterdam
by command of the Rector Magnificus
Prof.dr. S.W.J. Lamberts and according to the decision of the Doctorate Board the public defence shall be held on Thursday November 18, 2004 at 16:00 hrs

by Guoyong Liang
born in Jinan, China

Contents

Preface	///
Acknowledgements	x
Abbreviations and acronyms	xi
PART I INTRODUCTION	1
1 The context	3
1.1 The economic performance of China in the reform era: a miracle in the making?	3
1.2 China's economic transition: a comparison	9
1.3 The internationalisation of the Chinese economy	20
1.4 Industrialisation, Chinese style	28
1.5 The Chinese model of economic development: follower or forerunner?	34
2 Problem definition	45
2.1 Competition and the Chinese model of economic development	46
2.2 Sustaining the Chinese model: roles of market-supporting institutions	60
2.3 FDI, competition and government policy: implications for the Chinese model of economic development	80
PART II THEORETICAL UNDERPINNING	94
3 Competition and economic development: theoretical and policy concerns for developing countries	96
3.1 Competing concepts of competition: from Smith to neo-Schumpeterians	97
3.2 Competition policy: objectives, instruments and implementation	100
3.3 Competition and development: exploring the rationale of competition policy for developing countries	111
3.4 The necessity of competition policy for developing countries	122
4 FDI, competition and industrial development	134
4.1 FDI and economic development: from macro to micro perspective	135
4.2 FDI and market structure: the static approach	148
4.3 Determinants of market shares of MNCs: a dynamic extension of the static approach	157
4.4 FDI, technology transfer and the sectoral system of innovation: the dynamic approach	165

PART III	EMPIRICAL STUDY	178
5	FDI, competition and the development of Chinese industries: an overview	180
5.1	FDI in Chinese industries	181
5.2	FDI, competition and industrial development in China	191
5.3	Methodological considerations for case studies on specific industries	213
6	Passenger car industry: FDI and the determinants of market structure	221
6.1	China's automotive industry: the industrial context	222
6.2	FDI and competition in the passenger car industry	235
6.3	Determinants of market structure: hypothesis development	250
6.4	Test, results and discussion	256
7	Telecom equipment industry: FDI, competition and innovation	264
7.1	China's electronics and ICT industry: the industrial context	265
7.2	FDI and competition in the telecom equipment industry	280
7.3	Determinants of innovation: hypothesis development	292
7.4	Test, results and discussion	297
PART IV	CONCLUSION	300
8	Conclusions and policy recommendations	302
8.1	FDI, competition and industrial development: domestic policy challenges	303
8.2	International business and competition issues: international policy challenges	316
8.3	Competition policy, Chinese version	326
	Bibliography	348
	Appendixes	386