

The Private Sector in Development

*Entrepreneurship,
Regulation, and Competitive Disciplines*

Michael U. Klein

Bitá Hadjimichael

THE WORLD BANK
Washington, D.C.

Contents

Foreword	vii
Acknowledgments	viii
Abbreviations and Acronyms	ix
1 The Private Sector and Poverty Reduction	1
A New Swedish Model?	1
Openness and Competition	4
Individual, Institutional, and Social Capability	7
Market-Type Disciplines for Tax and Donor-Funded Assistance	9
Winners, Losers, and Markets	9
Notes	15
2 The Investment Climate	17
The Engine of Growth and Poverty Reduction	17
Establishing Competitive Markets: Entry, Choice, and Exit	33
Institutional Infrastructure for Markets	42
Notes	69
3 Public Intervention to Promote Supply Response	71
Market Failure and Information Asymmetries	71
Public Financing for Private Firms	74
Public Support to Business Development Services for Private Firms	80
Overall Implications for Special Public Support Schemes to Private Firms	83
Note	86
4 Private Participation and Markets for Basic Services	87
Private Participation and Markets in Infrastructure	87
Private Participation and Markets in the Social Sectors	109
Notes	125
5 Private Sector Development and Pro-Poor Policy Design	127
Mechanisms to Promote Diffusion of Best Practice	127
Mechanisms to Enhance Service Delivery	128
Subsidies and Choice	129
Provision of Subsidized Service and Competition	131
Contracts for Efficient Service and Subsidy Delivery	132

6 Private Sector Development and Sustainability	135
Private Markets and the Environment	135
Private Markets and the Social Fabric	141
Notes	153
7 Policy and the Country Context for Reform	155
Basic Thrust for a Private Sector Development Policy	155
A Taxonomy of Private Sector Development Interventions	156
Timing and Sequencing	157
No Cookbook	159
Establishing Credibility	160
Policy Dilemmas	161
Disciplines on Aid Agencies	161
Note	166
8 Conclusions	167
References	171
Index	211