

Trust

within reason

MARTIN HOLLIS

Professor of Philosophy in the School of Economic and Social Studies, University of EastAnglia

CAMBRIDGE
UNIVERSITY PRESS

CONTENTS

Preface vii

- 1 The paradox of trust 1
 - Truth, virtue and happiness 5
 - The problem of trust* 9
 - The Enlightenment Trail* 13
 - Promises, promises: nature's paradoxical task 18
- 2 The peril of prudence 26
 - Plan of the book* 26
 - Fear* 29
 - Sympathy* yj
- 3 The centipede's sting 44
 - Three views about moral psychology* 47
 - Centipedes and backward induction* 54
 - Conclusion: prudence in peril* 60
- 4 A remedy in the judgement and understanding? 63
 - Perils of strategic choice* 66
 - Impartiality and fairness* 71
- 5 Fairness and morality 82
 - Playing fair with Kant* 84
 - Contractarians* 91
 - Morality in trust* 98
- 6 All in the game 10;
 - Prelude: Enlightenment football* 106
 - The games of social life* 110
 - Reason and obligation* 117
- 7 The bond of society 126
 - Problems of coordination* 128
 - Trust in miniature: teamwork*
- 8 Trust in the light of reason 1
 - Reciprocity* 144
 - 'A remarkable change in man'* 1
 - The moral and political sciences*
 - Citizens of the world?* 159
 - Bibliography* 164
 - Index* 169