

Rethinking Marketing

Towards Critical Marketing Accountings

edited by

Douglas Brownlie, Mike Saren, Robin Wensley
and Richard Whittington

SAGE Publications

London • Thousand Oaks • New Delhi

Contents

Contributors' Notes	vii
Acknowledgements	xiii
1 Marketing Disequilibrium: On Redress and Restoration Douglas Brownlie, Mike Saren, Robin Wensley and Richard Whittington	1
Part I Marketing Philosophy	23
2 Postmodernism: The End of Marketing? Stephen Brown	27
3 Commentary Gibson Burrell	58
Part II Redefining Markets	62
v 4 From Marketing to Societing: When the Link Is More ▼ Important than the Thing Bernard Cova	64
5 Exchange, Institutions and Time Luis Araujo	84
6 Commentary Robin Wensley	106
Part III Reframing Consumers	110
n, 7 Symbolic Meaning and Postmodern Consumer Culture Richard Elliott	112
8 It's a Matter of Time: The Significance of the Women's Market in Consumption David Knights and Pamela Odih	126
9 Commentary Morris B. Holbrook	145
Part IV Marketing Ethics	152
10 Morality and the Marketplace: An Everyday Story of Consumer Ethics Robert Grafton Small	154

11	Theory, Ethical Critique and the Experience of Marketing William P. Hetrick and Hector R. Lozada	162
12	Commentary Peter Binns	177
13	Commentary Stephen Fineman	183
	Part V The Marketing Profession	186
14	The Process of Interprofessional Competition: A Case of Expertise and Politics Pdivi Eriksson	188
15	On the Idolization of Markets and the Denigration of Marketers: Some Critical Reflections on a Professional Paradox Hugh Willmott	205
16	Commentary Michael Thomas	223
	Part VI Marketing Pedagogy	227
17	Research, Rhetoric and Reality: Marketing's Trifid Sally Dibb and Philip Stern	230
18	Research in Marketing: Some Trends, Some Recommendations Gilles Laurent and Bernard Pras	245
19	Commentary Gerald Zaltman	262
	Index	268