SECTION I: OVERVIEW	1
1 Exploring the Mediascape	3
Chapter Preview	3
What's It All About?	3
What Are the Major Topics?	3
What Special Terms Are Used?	4
Introduction	4
Communication Domains	4
Mass Communication	5
Media Studies	6
Mediated Communication	7
Scholarly Communities of the Mediascape	11
Science and Scholarship	11
Scientific, Proprietary, and Personal Research	12
Understanding Methodological Differences	12
Methodologies	13
The Empirical	13
The Metric	14
The Hermeneutic	14
The Critical	15
Epistemological Foundations	15
Assaying the Differences	20
Moving On	21
Reflections	21
What Are Some Points to Remember?	21
Why Does It Matter?	21
What Else Could We Talk About?	22
What Else Might Be Interesting to Read?	22

Mapping the Mediascape

Consequences	34
Character	34
Moving On	35
Reflections	36
What Are Some Points to Remember?	36
Why Does It Matter?	36
What Else Could We Talk About?	36
What Else Might Be Interesting to Read?	36

Methods of Exploration: Asking Questions

37

Chapter Preview	37
What's It All About?	37
What Are the Major Topics?	37
What Special Terms Are Used?	38
Introduction: Primacy of the Problem	38
Preliminaries	39
Commonalities	39
Creating Public Knowledge	39
What About the Truth of the Matter?	39
Theory and Method	40
The Process of Research	41
Initiating Issues and Preliminary Investigations	43
Refining the Problem	49
Literature Review	58
Problem Statement	59
The Ethics of the Problem	60
Moving On	61
Reflections	62

What Are Some Points to Remember?	62
Why Does It Matter?	62
What Else Could We Talk About?	62
What Else Might Be Interesting to Read?	62

T¹ Methods of Exploration: Finding Answers

63

Chapter Preview	63
What's It All About?	63
What Are the Major Topics?	63
What Special Terms Are Used?	64
Introduction	64
An Introduction to Empirical Methods	65
Cataloguing Methods	66
Metric Methods	67
Interpretive Methods	70
Hybrid Methods	73
Mixed Methods	75
Considering Purposes Beyond Method	76
Moving On	79
Reflections	79
What Are Some Points to Remember?	79
Why Does It Matter?	79
What Else Could We Talk About?	79
What Else Might Be Interesting to Read?	80

SECTION II: FOUNDATIONS OF RESEARCH PRACTICE

81

D From Concepts to Data

83

Chapter Preview	83
What's It All About?	83
What Are the Major Topics?	83
What Special Terms Are Used?	84
The Foundations of Argument in Research	84
Assumptions Prior to Data	85
Assumptions About Media/Texts/Audiences	85
Assumptions About Culture/Society/Individuals	87
Summary of Assumptions	89
Postassumptive Theory	90
Theory Types	90
Levels of Approach	91
Initiating Concepts	91
Epistemic Divisions	91

Concepts and Constructs	92
Engagement, Evidence, Claim, and Trustworthiness	93
Metric Evidence	94
Metric Trustworthiness: Reliability, Precision, Accuracy, and Validity	99
Interpretive (and Hybrid) Evidence	100
Interpretive Trustworthiness: Coherence, Resonance, and Vraisemblance	104
Moving On	104
Reflections	105
What Are Some Points to Remember?	105
Why Does It Matter?	105
What Else Could We Talk About?	105
What Else Might Be Interesting to Read?	105

Research Questions and Hypotheses

106

Chapter Preview	106
What's It All About?	106
What Are the Major Topics?	106
What Special Terms Are Used?	107
Creating a Research Study	107
Things and Properties: Questions of "What?"	108
Methods and Practices: Questions of "How?"	108
Causes and Consequences: Questions of "Why?"	109
Character and Value: Questions of "So What?"	109
Research Questions and Hypotheses	110
Metric Studies	110
Interpretive Studies	111
Hybrid Studies	111
Community-Based Research	112
Proprietary Research	113
Contemporary Examples	113
Questions of Properties	114
Questions of Praxis	117
Questions of Consequence	119
Questions of Character	122
Implications for Developing Research Questions	124
Anticipating Institutional Review	125
Competent Scholarship	126
Informed Consent	127
Informed Consent and Interpretive Studies	127
