

Migration, Mobilities and the Arab Spring

Spaces of Refugee Flight in the Eastern Mediterranean

Edited by

Natalia Ribas-Mateos

Universitat Autònoma de Barcelona, Spain

Edward Elgar
PUBLISHING

Cheltenham, UK • Northampton, MA, USA

Contents

List of contributors	vii
Foreword: membership and its instabilities by Saskia Sassen	xii
PART I MAPPING KEY CONCEPTS AFTER 2011
1 Eastern Mediterranean mobilities after the Arab Spring: transformations over time or sudden change? Natalia Ribas-Mateos	3
2 The role of diasporas, migrants and exiles in the Arab revolutions and political transitions Claire Beaugrand and Vincent Geisser	35
3 Euro-Mediterranean relations in the field of migration management: contrasting Morocco and Turkey as case studies Hafsa Afailal	50
PART II UNDERSTANDING MOBILITY AND ENCLOSURE IN THE EUROPEAN UNION
4 The reconfiguration of Mediterranean migration routes after the war in Syria: narratives of the 'Egyptian route' to Italy (and beyond) Chiara Denaro	71
5 Refugees from Syria as 'guests' in Germany: the moral economy of German refugee policy in 2014 Christoph H. Schwarz	105

PART III RESEARCHING BORDER ZONES: NEW
MOBILITIES AND TRANSNATIONAL NETWORKS OF HUMANITARIAN RESPONSE

- 6 The field before the battle: Palestinian mobilities and the Gaza-Israel-Egypt triangular border before (and after) the 2011 Egyptian uprising 127
Lorenzo Navone
- 1 Listening to the voices of Syrian women and girls living as urban refugees in northern Jordan: a narrative ethnography of early marriage 142
Ruba Al Akash and Karen Boswall
- 8 Palestinian refugees and the current Syrian conflict: from settled refugees to stateless asylum seekers? 158
Kamel Dorai
- 9 The question of governing Syrian refugees: an ethnography
of Lebanon's humanitarian regime 174
Susanne Schmelter
- Index* 191