

Alter-Politics

Critical Anthropology and the Radical
Imagination

Ghassan Hage

MELBOURNE
UNIVERSITY PRESS

0

Contents

Acknowledgements	ix
Introduction	1
Part I
1 The globalisation of the late colonial settler condition	13
2 On stuckedness: The critique of crisis and the crisis of critique	33
Part II
3 Critical anthropological thought and the radical political imaginary today	49
4 The Arab social sciences and the two critical traditions	79
Part III
5 On ethnography and political emotions: Hating Israel in the field	91
6 Alter-political rationality and anti-political emotions: The case of Fanon	120
Part IV
7 On narcissistic victimhood	145
Appendix to chapter 7: I don't write poems but, in any case, poems are not poems.	164
8 The unoccupied	165
9 Recalling anti-racism: Towards a critical anthropology of exterminability	173
Appendix to chapter 9: Against colonial rubbishing	193
10 Dwelling in the reality of utopian thought	200
11 Other belongings	211
Notes	221
Bibliography	227
Index	235