Negotiating the International Criminal Court

By

Fanny Benedetti
Karine Bonneau
John L. Washburn

MARTINUS NIJHOFF PUBLISHERS

LEIDEN • BOSTON
2014
CONTENTS

Preface xi
Acknowledgements xiii
List of Abbreviations xv
List of Interviewees xvii

Introduction 1
  I. The Story 1
  II. Period Covered 2
  III. Methods, Processes, and Techniques of the Negotiations 4

1. Why a Court, and How 7
  I. The Internal Politics of the ICC Negotiations 10
  II. The Place of Victims and Gender in the Negotiations 11
    1. Victims’ Rights 11
    2. Gender-Related Crimes 12

2. Negotiating the International Criminal Court 15
  I. Historic Background 15
  II. The Influence of the United Nations 16
  III. Negotiating Styles and Strategies 18
  IV. The Meeting Halls 20
  V. The Ad Hoc Committee (1995) 22
    1. First AHC Session (3-13 April 1995) 24
    2. Trends in Government Positions at the First AHC Session... 29
  VI. The Sixth Committee 34
  VII. The Preparatory Committee (1996-1998) 39
    1. First Session (25 March-12 April 1996) 39
    2. Second Session (12-30 August 1996) 41
    3. Third and Fourth Sessions (11-21 February, 4-15 August 1997) 43
    4. Fifth Session (1-12 December 1997) 45
    5. Sixth Session (16 March-3 April 1998) 47
  VIII. The Draft Text for Rome 49
3. The Main Actors of the Negotiations 57
   I. The United Nations Secretariat 57
      1. Key Actors in the UN Secretariat 59
      2. Kofi Annan 63
   II. Governments and their Delegations 64
   III. Civil Society 68
      1. Key NGO Actors of the Negotiations 68
      2. The Ottawa Process 74
   IV. The Growth of the CICC 75
      1. William R. Pace 76
   V. The Like-Minded Group's Partnership with NGOs 79
      1. Interesselional Regional Meetings 82
      2. Like-Minded Group Leadership 83
      3. Common Ground 84

4. The Rome Diplomatic Conference 87
   I. The Final Preparations 87
      1. The FAO Building 88
   II. A New Chairman at Rome 90
   III. Conference Procedures 91
   IV. Opening Statements 94
   V. The Committee of the Whole: 'The Substantive Work' 96
      1. Outstanding Issues in the Draft Statute 97
      2. Working Groups 98
   VI. The Drafting Committee 100
      1. Cherif Bassiouni 101
   VII. The First Stages of Negotiations 103
   VIII. David Scheffer and the Position of the United States 106
   IX. The French Delegation 109
   X. The Canadian Delegation and Conference Leadership 112
   XI. NGOs 114
   XII. The UN Secretariat and Support Staff 116

5. The Drama of the Final Days 119
   I. Final Breakthrough 121
      1. The First Set of Questions 126
      2. The Second Set of Questions 128
   II. The Final Vote 136
      1. The Complex Implications of the U.S. Defeat 140
CONTENTS

6. Major Results of the Negotiations and the Evolution of International Criminal Law
   I. Definitions of Crimes
      1. Genocide and Crimes against Humanity
      2. War Crimes
   II. Crimes of Sexual Violence and Gender Balance
      1. Crimes of Sexual Violence
      2. Gender Balance and Expertise in the Court
   III. Victims' Rights
      1. The Right to Participation
      2. The Right to Reparation
   IV. The Debate on Penalties and the Death Penalty
   V. ICC Jurisdiction
      1. States' Consent and Trigger Mechanisms
      2. An Independent Prosecutor
      3. The Role of the Security Council
   VI. The Key Role of States

Afterword
   I. The Rapid Entry into Force of the Statute
   II. The Work of the Preparatory Commission
   III. The CICC Evolution
   IV. The United States: From Aggressive Opposition Toward Cooperation
   V. As of Today

Concluding Remarks: Toward a New Multilateral Diplomacy

A Note on Sources and Research Methods

Appendix A Tables
   I. Drafting the International Criminal Court Treaty
   II. UN Authorizations and Resolutions
   III. Last Two Weeks of the Rome Diplomatic Conference

Appendix B SADC Principles
Appendix C Dakar Declaration
Appendix D NGO Basic Principles
Bibliography
  I. Books and Nonperiodic Materials  211
  II. Articles and Periodical Materials  218
  III. Other Sources  240

Index  241