Contents:

Contents v
List of questions to be answered vii
List of inno- and investment management rules derived viii
List of definitions ix
List of lemmas x
List of figures xi
Introduction and abstract xv
How to read and use this book xvii

1. The innovation process model - definitions and lemmas 1
1.1 The macroscopic view - the filter paradigm or the pipeline/system layer 1
1.2 The microscopic view - the logical proof tree paradigm or the project layer 7
1.3 The mesoscopic view - the control paradigm or the management layer 9
1.4 Intermediate summary 1 - the inno-gem 13

2. The macroscopic view on real world innovation pipelines 17
2.1 From inno-projects to inno-pipes - how to construct IP(TtM (t)) 18
2.2 The multiple-entry (gated or phased) inno-pipe 20
2.3 General economic optimization rules for innovation pipelines 21
2.4 How to design optimal innovation pipelines? 27
2.5 Design and optimization rules for cascaded innovation-pipelines IP 32
2.6 Design rules for cascaded inno-pipes - the pharma example 37
2.7 Logical paralleling - the ultimate optimization method 41
2.8 Intermediate summary 2 - the inno-gem and innovation-pipeline design 45

3. The mesoscopic view - control of real world innovation pipelines.. 47
3.1 Basic control properties of innovation pipelines 48
3.2 Temporal control properties of innovation pipelines 50
3.3 Topical control properties of innovation pipelines - quality gate systems 55
3.3.1 Results obtained from the inno-gem 55
3.3.2 How to measure an inno-pipe's success - innovation quality gate systems 57
3.4 Dealing with latency - the inno-phase control approach 62
3.5 Basic design of an information system for innovation-phase control 66
3.6 The inno-phase control approach - application examples 71
3.7 Intermediate summary 3 - the inno-gem and inno-pipe control 84

4. The microscopic view - control «&management of inno-projects.... 87
4.1 The magic quadrangle of innovation - how to do the right things right....88
4.2 The correlation of individual project success patterns within inno-pipes....93
4.2.1 T-push inno-strategies and their peculiarities....93
4.2.2 D-pull inno-strategies and their peculiarities....99
4.2.3 Incremental innovation strategies and their peculiarities....102
4.3 Basics of knowledge management - learning from failures/successes....105
4.3.1 The value-of-knowledge concept and its consequences....107
4.3.2 The two most basic kinds of inno-knowledge....112
4.3.3 The proposed most basic structure for an inno-knowledge space....119
4.4 Costs & benefits of knowledge - the economic value of experience....123
4.5 IT infrastructure for a sophisticated inno-knowledge management....127
4.6 Intermediate summary 4 - the inno-gem and inno-project management....132

5. The integration of finance and innovation management....135
5.1 Preconditions and basics....136
5.1.1 Financial and structural consequences of the innovation definition....136
5.1.2 Innovation phases and the residual value problem....137
5.1.3 Financing and sequential inno-processing....141
5.1.4 From investment to sales, profit etc. for steady state inno-pipes....144
5.2 Inno-pipe financing - balance sheet accounting problems....146
5.3 Inno-pipe financing - optimal budgeting principles....156
5.4 Inno-pipe financing - dealing with incomplete pipelines....161
5.5 Inno-pipe control - from promise to profit (a look inside the pipe)....170
5.6 Inno-pipe control - Q-gates to get from promise to profit....176
5.7 Inno-project control -project-risk and project-budget design principles....179
5.8 Inno-project control - inno-success economy of project- and pipe-exits....182
5.9 Intermediate summary 5 - integration of finance & inno-management....185

6. Summary and Benchmarks....187

7. Acknowledgment....195

8. Literature and references....197

9. Subject index....199

10. Function and variables index....201
