

US-CHINA TRADE DISPUTES: RISING TIDE, RISING STAKES

Gary Clyde Hufbauer, Yee Wong, and Ketki Sheth

INSTITUTE FOR INTERNATIONAL ECONOMICS
Washington, DC
August 2006

Contents

Preface	ix
1 Introduction	1
Forces Larger than China	2
China in Global Trade and Investment	4
US-China Bilateral Trade Friction	4
Overview of Trade Disputes	9
2 The Revaluation Debate	11
Section 301 Petition	13
Key Players	13
The Legal Case, Part 1: GATT Article XV (4)	16
The Legal Case, Part 2: IMF Article IV	24
Evaluation	27
3 Textiles and Clothing	29
The Brassiere Case	29
The End of the MFA	30
Sources of China's Comparative Advantage	34
Evaluation	36
4 Intellectual Property Rights	39
Accomplishments	42
Evaluation	44
5 The CNOOC Case	47
CFIUS Review	48
Evaluation of the Case	50

Dubai Ports World Case	53
Conclusion	53
Semiconductor Chips and Automobile Parts	55
Semiconductor Chips	55
Automobile Parts	61
Antidumping Disputes	63
Nonmarket Economy Status	63
Furniture	70
Color Televisions	73
Conclusion	74
Conclusion	75
Comparison with Japan	76
Lessons from History	77
The Bottom Line	80
Appendix A Tables	83
Appendix B Safeguards and Antidumping Remedies Against Textile and Clothing Imports	95
Appendix C Short History of US-Japan Trade Frictions	97
References	101
Index	107
Tables
Table 1.1 US trade with the world and current account balance, 1999-2005	5
Table 1.2 US-China trade, 1999-2005	6
Table 1.3 China's merchandise trade balance with selected partners, 2004
Table 1.4 Comparison of China's export growth with other Asian economies
Table 1.5 Summary of US-China trade disputes, 2005
Table 2.1 Current and prospective US bilateral trade with Asian partners, 2005	28
Table 3.1 US-China textile and clothing trade, 2000-2005	35
Table 6.1 US electronics and information industry trade with China and Japan, 1997-2005	58
Table 8.1 Comparison between US-Japan and US-China trade, 1986 and 2005	77
Table A.I Statistical relations between US manufacturing employment, output, and trade	83

Table A.2	Significant US congressional bills and resolutions concerning Chinese trade and currency practices	84
Table A.3	Official and unofficial proposals for renminbi revaluation	91
Table A.4	Selected international treaties signed by China dealing with intellectual property	94
Boxes
Box 1.1	US manufacturing and the US trade deficit	3
Box 3.1	Limits to textile and clothing liberalization: The MFA quota phaseout	31