

MENA DEVELOPMENT REPORT

Unlocking the Employment Potential in the Middle East and North Africa Toward a New Social Contract

THE WORLD BANK
Washington, D.C.

Contents

Foreword	xvii
Acknowledgments	xix
Acronyms and Abbreviations	xxi
Overview: Creating 100 Million Jobs for a Fast-Growing Work Force	1
1. Introduction	17
Labor Market Outcomes in the Post-World War II Period	17
Scope and Methodology of the Report	18
Structure and Organization of the Report	19
Findings in Comparative Perspective	21
2. Evolution of State-Labor Relations in the Middle East and North Africa	23
Legacy of the Social Contract	23
Definition of the Social Contract	24
Characteristics of the Social Contract	25
Context That Produced the Social Contract	26
External Factors That Contribute to the Social Contract	27
Domestic Factors That Influenced the Social Contract	28
Rise of Mass Politics	28
Mass Politics and the Nationalist Movement	29
The Changing Political Arena	31
Codification of the Social Contract	31
The Social Contract and Labor Markets	33
State Regulation and Intervention Were Extensive	3
Economic Growth Marks the 1960s and 1970s	36
Oil Helps Sustain the Social Contract	36
The Social Contract Addresses MENA's Deficiencies	38

The Social Contract Is under Strain: The 1980s and 1990s	39
Oil Prices Collapse and Economic Crisis Occurs	39
Governments Respond to Economic Difficulties	39
Vulnerability to External Shocks Increases	42
Adjustment Challenges the Social Contract	42
Costs of the Redistributive Preference Are Rising	43

3. Demography, Labor Growth, and Employment Outcomes	45
MENA's Demographic Transition	45
Mortality Rates Have Declined Rapidly	46
Fertility Transition Was Slow	46
Differences within MENA Are Significant	47
Determinants of Fertility Must Be Understood	48
MENA Conforms to Global Patterns	49
Orientation of Government Policies Has Changed	50
Age Structure Is Changing Rapidly	50
Demographic Burden Becomes a Demographic Gift	54
Effect of Delayed Transition on Labor Force Growth	55
Demographic Transition Drives Labor Force Growth	56
Labor Force Participation Rates Have Been Rising	57
Migration Fuels the Expansion of Labor Supply in Oil-Exporting Countries	58
Patterns of Demographic Transition Determine Country Profiles	60
Rural Migration Contributes to Urbanization	60
Effect of Young Working Adults Is Growing	62
Gender Profile of the Labor Force Is Changing	63
Labor Force Is Increasingly More Educated	66
Gender Gaps Are Narrowing by International Standards	67
Education Matters More for Female Labor Participation	68
Labor Market Outcomes in the 1990s	71
High Unemployment Emerges	71
Real Wages Have Stagnated or Declined	73
Many Factors Lead to Adverse Labor Market Outcomes	73
Employment and Output Trends Are Linked	74
MENA's Growth Performance Needs Closer Examination	77
MENA Had Exceptional Performance before the 1980s	78
Oil Bust Signaled the Beginning of Economic Crisis	79
Stabilization and Reform Programs Followed	79
Crisis in Accumulation Deepened	81
Investment by the Public Sector Is Not the Answer	81
Response of Private Investment Was Limited	82
External Instability Correlates Negatively with Private Investment	83

Insecurity Affects Labor Markets Directly	85
Toward a Fuller Understanding of Labor Market Outcomes	86

4. Structure of Employment and Earnings in the 1990s 89

Structure of Unemployment	89
Youth and Female Unemployment Are High	90
Unemployment and Education Are Strongly Linked	92
Public Sector Employment in the 1990s	94
Dynamics of Public Sector Employment	96
Efforts to Downsize: Some Countries Falter, a Few Succeed	98
Gender and Occupation in the Public Sector	99
Role of the Public Sector Reinforced by Education	101
Structure of Labor Markets	101
Agriculture Declines While Manufacturing Is at a Standstill	102
Services Are the Most Dynamic Sector	104
Mixed Patterns Exist in Job Creation	104
Informalization of Work in the 1990s	106
Challenge of Measuring the Informal Sector	106
Dynamic Informal Sector or Informalization?	107
Expansion of Informal Employment for Everyone	108
Gender Equity in Access to Labor Markets	111
Real Wages and Wage Formation	114
Flexibility Suggested among Trends in Real Wages	114
Higher Returns to Education in the Public Sector	116
Decline of Public-Private Wage Differences	116
Measurement of the Gender Wage Gap	118
Income Inequality That Remains Moderate	120
Growth and Redistribution Protect Welfare Gains	121
Wage Inequality Remains Greater than in Other Regions	121
Poverty Rates Are among the Lowest in the World	122
Poverty Is Not Associated with Unemployment	124
What We Have Learned	126

5. Labor Market Reforms:

Opportunities and Constraints	127
Reforming the Labor Market in a Dynamic Setting	127
Rationalizing the Role of the Public Sector	129
Wage Bills Are High but Productivity Is Low in the Public Sector	129
Public Sector Reforms Are Critical for Reducing Unemployment	131
Wages and Benefits Drive Preferences for Public Employment	131
Menu of Policy Options Is Large and Flexible	132

Rationalizing the Public Sector Has Effects	134
Looking at Labor Market Institutions in the Private Sector	137
Social Protection That Balances with Flexibility	139
Strong Dynamic Effects of Labor Market Regulations	142
Hiring and Dismissal Procedures That Influence Employment	144
Uneven Progress with Labor Reforms	145
High Indirect Labor Costs	145
Quantifying the Effects of Labor Reforms	150
Political Economy of Labor Market Reforms	150
Aggregate Effects of Reforms: Positive but Modest	151
Using Active Labor Market Policies in MENA	153
Upward Trajectory in the Use of Active Labor Market Policies	154
Wide Use of Public Works Programs	155
Increases in Microfinance and Unemployment Lending	155
Training and Retraining Programs for the Unemployed	157
Evidence of the Limitations of Active Labor Market Policies	158
Considering the Special Case of Labor-Importing Countries	159
Labor Force Nationalization Policies Are Gaining Momentum	159
Effectiveness of Policies Is Unclear	162
Subsidies Are Potentially Effective but Expensive	163
Similar Considerations Apply to All Active Labor Market Policies	164
Taking Stock of What Has Been Learned	165
Appendix	165
6. Foundations of Future Growth and Job Creation	171
Traditional Engines of Employment Growth	171
Option of Public Sector Employment Will Diminish	171
Future Role of Regional Migration Is Limited	173
Migration to Europe Is Constrained by Policy	173
MENA's Need for New Engines of Job Creation	175
Foundations of New Development Policies	176
Reinvigoration of the Private Sector	177
Necessity for Integration into the World Economy	180
Improved Management of Oil Resources	182
Better Governance Needed to Complete the Three Transitions	183
Road to Completing the Transitions	185
Initial Conditions and Country Groupings	185
Transition in Resource-Poor Countries	187 ;
Transition in Resource-Rich, Labor-Abundant Countries	189 j

Transition in Resource-Rich, Labor-Scarce Countries	190
Sequencing of Reforms and Adjustment of Costs	191
Strengthening of Governance Aspects of the Transition	195
Role of Human Capital in the Transition	195
Maintaining and Expanding Access to Education	196
Building on Past Success	197
Improving Educational Quality and Addressing the Skill Mismatch	199
Facing the Challenges Ahead	203
7. Toward a New Social Contract	205
MENA Needs a Vision of the Future of Its Labor Markets	205
Successful Reform Requires a New Social Contract	207
What Needs to Be Done Is Widely Acknowledged	209
Reforms Have Been Too Limited and Too Slow	211
Overcoming the Obstacles to Reform Is Critical	211
Soft Budget Constraints and Political Challengers Have Impeded Reform	212
Governments Have Decoupled Economic and Political Reform	214
Today, Economic and Political Reforms Must Be Linked	215
Support from External Partners Is Critical	218
Main Responsibility Rests with MENA	219
Statistical Appendix	221
Bibliography	231
Index	253
Boxes
2.1 Egypt's Employment Guarantee	35
2.2. Effect of Oil on Labor Markets in the Gulf Cooperation Council	3 7
3.1 Measuring Fertility Determinants	51
3.2 Family Planning in the Islamic Republic of Iran	52
3.3 Evolution of the Labor Force in the Gulf Cooperation Council	58
3.4 Volatility and Economic Performance in MENA	84
3.5 Border Closings and Unemployment in the West Bank and Gaza	85
4.1 Profiles of the Unemployed in Morocco and the Arab Republic of Egypt	93

4.2	Special Conditions of the Oil-Exporting Countries	96
5.1	Unemployment Insurance in Algeria	136
5.2	Effects of the Minimum Wage in Morocco	142
5.3	Labor Reform in the Arab Republic of Egypt	146
5.4	Labor Regulation Reforms in Morocco and Tunisia	147
5.5	Community-Driven Development and Microfinance for the Poor in the Republic of Yemen	156
5.6	Labor Force Nationalization Programs in the Gulf Cooperation Council Countries	160
5.7	Subsidies to Private Employment: General Equilibrium Effects	164
6.1	Is Migration a Substitute for Trade?	175
6.2	Aspects of the Investment Climate in Algeria, the Arab Republic of Egypt, the Republic of Yemen, and the Gulf Cooperation Council	179
6.3	Cross-Market and Interactive Effects of Product and Labor Market Policies	192
6.4	Effect of Globalization on the Labor Market	193
6.5	Effect of Technological Change on the Labor Market	197
7.1	Elements of a New Social Contract: Lessons from World Bank Research	208
7.2	Path to Reforming Labor Markets in MENA	210
7.3	Economic Foundations of Political Liberalization	216

Figures

2.1	Income and Land Inequality in Egypt, 1900-45	27
2.2	Trade Union Membership in Egypt, 1950-60	30
2.3	General Government Employment as a Share of Total Population	34
2.4	Average Annual Change in Real Gross Domestic Product Per Capita, by Region	36
2.5	Average Years of Schooling, by Region	38
2.6	Real Oil Price, 1976-2003	40
2.7	Economic Stabilization in the 1990s, by Region	41
2.8	Structural Reform in the 1990s, by Region	41
2.9	International Comparison of Unemployment Rates, 2002	43
3.1	Population Trends and Projections in MENA, 1950-2025	46
3.2	Infant Mortality Rates in Developing Regions, 1955-2025	47
3.3	Total Fertility Rates in Developing Regions, 1955-2025	48
3.4	Total Fertility Rates in MENA (Selected Countries), 1970 and 2000	49

96	B	3.5	Actual and Projected Dependency Ratios in
136	B*		Developing Regions, 1950-2025	53
142	1	3.6	Dependency Ratios in MENA (Selected Countries),
146	I		1980-2000	54
147	1	3.7	Gross Domestic Product Per Capita Growth and the
	B		Demographic Gift, 1965-90	55
156	1	3.8	Actual and Projected Labor Force Growth in
			Developing Regions, 1970-2010	56
160	1	3.9	Dynamics of Labor Supply in MENA Countries,
			1950s-2010s	57
164	I	3.10	Actual and Projected Average Annual Growth in the
175	I		Labor Force of MENA Countries, 1970-2010	61
		3.11	Actual and Projected Share of Young Adults
179	I		(Ages 15-29) in MENA's Population and Labor Force,
			1950-2010	63
	I	3.12	Actual and Projected Growth of Young Adults
192	m		(Ages 15-29) in MENA, 1950-2010	64
193	m	3.13	Female Labor Supply in MENA, 1950s-2010s	64
197	B	3.14	Female Labor Participation Rates in MENA,
			1970 and 2000	65
200	B	3.15	Schooling by Year of Birth in Egypt and Morocco,
20	1		1926-76	67
216	1	3.16	Female Education in Developing Regions, 1960-2000	68
	1	3.17	Female Labor Force Participation in Egypt,
			by Education Level, 1998	69
27	1	3.18	Female Labor Force Participation in Morocco,
30	1		by Education Level, 1999	69
		3.19	Male Labor Force Participation in Egypt,
34	I		by Education Level, 1998	70
	1	3.20	Male Labor Force Participation in Morocco,
36	I		by Education Level, 1999	70
38	1	3.21	Labor Force Growth versus Employment Growth
40	I		in the 1990s	72
41	I	3.22	Unemployment Rates in MENA	72
41	.	3.23	Average Annual Growth in Output per Worker
			in MENA Countries, 1990s	73
43	B _I .		Average Annual Growth in Gross Domestic Product
			per Employed Person, by Region, 1990s	74
46	1I	3.25	Youth Unemployment and Youth Population as a
			Share of Total, 1990s	75
47	Ii	3.26	Adult Unemployment and Youth Unemployment
			Rates, 1990s	75
48	1i		Changes in Unemployment and Output, 1980-99	76
	1I		Public and Private Investment in MENA as a Share
49	1I		of Gross Domestic Product, 1980-2000	83

4.1	Youth Unemployment as a Share of Total Employment in MENA Countries	90
4.2	First-Time Job Seekers among the Unemployed in MENA Countries	91
4.3	Unemployment Rates in MENA Countries, by Gender	91
4.4	Distribution of the Unemployed, by Level of Education	94
4.5	Size of Government around the World in the 1990s	95
4.6	Public Sector Employment as a Share of Total Employment in MENA Countries	98
4.7	Contribution of the Public Sector to Total Employment Growth in MENA Countries	99
4.8	Female Employment in the Public Sector as a Share of Total Female Employment in MENA Countries	100
4.9	Informal Sector Employment as a Share of Nonagricultural Employment, 1994-2000	107
4.10	Probability of Informal Employment in Egypt, by Gender, 1990 and 1998	109
4.11	Probability of Informal Employment in Egypt, by Education Level, 1990 and 1998	109
4.12	Share of New Entrants into Formal and Informal Employment in Egypt, 1969-98	110
4.13	Real Hourly Manufacturing Wages in MENA, 1980-98	115
4.14	Crude and Corrected Gender Wage Differentials in Egypt, by Sector of Ownership, 1988 and 1998	120
4.15	United Nations Industrial Development Organization (UNIDO) Theil Measure of Wage Inequality, by Region, 1965-97	122
4.16	Wage Distribution and Public Sector Employment in Egypt and Morocco, by Quintile	124
5.1	Gross Domestic Product Per Capita Growth and the Demographic Gift, by Labor Market Rigidity	128
5.2	Average Government Wage Bill as a Share of Gross Domestic Product in MENA Countries	129
5.3	Central Government Wage Bill as a Share of Gross Domestic Product, by Region	130
5.4	Public Sector Wage Bill in Gulf Cooperation Council Countries, Late 1990s	130
5.5	Public versus Private Wages, by Region, Late 1990s	132
5.6	Labor Market Regulation in Developing Regions	138
5.7	Labor Market Regulation in MENA Countries	139
5.8	Labor Regulation and the Informal Economy	140
5.9	Unemployment and Employment Regulation	141
5.10	Labor Force Growth and Unemployment in Asia and Latin America and the Caribbean	143

Contents	Contents
tent	90	I
	91	I
ider	91	I
ition	94	1
s	95	1
	98	1
fment	99	1
	100	I
	107	1
	109	B
	109	S
	no	B
j	ii5	1
	120	I
hion	122	B
i	124	B
ft	128	I
	129	I
	130	B
[130	I
I	132	I
Os	138	1
	140	1
	141	1
	143
	5.11	Share of Temporary Employment in Morocco, by Enterprise Size 144
	5.12	Share of Temporary Employment in Morocco, by Sector 145
	5.13	Simulation Results for a Reduction in Payroll Taxes 149
	5.14	Share of Unionized Workers in Algeria, by Enterprise Ownership 151
	5.15	Share of Unionized Workers in Algeria, by Enterprise Size 151
	5.16	Simulating the Effects of a Reduction in the Bargaining Power of Labor Unions 152
	5.17	Replacement of Expatriate Workers by Nationals in the Gulf Cooperation Council, 1990-2000 162
	A5.1	A Stylized View of the Labor Market in Labor-Exporting MENA Countries 167
	6.1	Current and Forecast Unemployment in MENA, Assuming Past Trends 172
	6.2	Net Population Increase in the European Union and North Africa, 2000-10 174
	6.3	Private Sector Contribution to Gross Domestic Product in MENA Countries 178
	6.4	Firm Entry Costs, by Region 178
	6.5	Contract Enforcement Duration, by Region 180
	6.6	Trends in Trade Integration 181
	6.7	Share of Foreign Direct Investment Inflows into MENA 182
	6.8	Per Capita Oil Exports in MENA Countries, 1980-2000 183
	6.9	Per Capita GDP in MENA and the Rest of the World 184
	6.10	Trends in Employment and Trade in Morocco, 1980-99 194
	6.11	A Program to Enhance Governance 196
	6.12	School Enrollment Rates in MENA Countries, Most Recent Year 198
	6.13	Education Pyramids 199
	6.14	Distribution of Labor Force in Tunisia, by Educational Attainment, 2001 201
	6.15	Distribution of Labor Force in Egypt, by Educational Attainment, 1998 201
	7.1	Oil Exports, 1990s 213
	7.2	Net Remittances as a Share of Gross Domestic Product 213
	7.3	Share of the Middle Class 219

Tables

2.1	Trade Union Membership in Selected MENA Countries before 1960	29
2.2	Right to Work and State Responsibility Are Intertwined: Excerpts from the Constitutions of MENA Countries	32
3.1	Government Policies on Fertility and Access to Modern Contraceptives, 2000	50
3.2	Rural and Urban Population in Selected MENA Countries	62
3.3	Average Years of Schooling in Developing Regions and Countries (Adults Age 15 and Older), 1960-99	66
3.4	Growth in Output, Capital, and Total Factor Productivity, by Region	78
3.5	Growth in Output, Capital, and Total Factor Productivity in MENA, 1970s and 1980s	80
3.6	Change in Growth in Output, Capital, and Total Factor Productivity in MENA between the 1980s and 1990s	81
4.1	Unemployment Rates in MENA Countries, by Gender and Education Level	94
4.2	Structure of Employment and Production in MENA Countries	102
4.3	Employment Growth in Egypt, Morocco, and Tunisia	105
4.4	Decomposition of the Change in the Female Share of Nongovernmental Paid Employment in Egypt, 1988-98	112
4.5	Decomposition of the Change in the Female Share of Nongovernmental Paid Employment in Morocco, 1991-99	113
4.6	Rates of Return to Schooling in MENA Countries, by Gender and Sector	117
4.7	Decomposition of Gender Wage Differentials in Selected MENA Countries	119
4.8	Gini Coefficient and Share of the Poor in Income, by Region	121
4.9	Poverty in Developing Regions, 1990-99	123
4.10	Percentage of Working Adults (Ages 15-64) in Each Work Status Who Are in the Lowest Per Capita Income Quintile	125
5.1	Severance Legislation in MENA Countries	135
5.2	Effect of Changes in Government Employment and Wages—Policy Experiment: 5 Percentage Point Reduction	137

29	1	5.3	Summary of Effects of Employment Protection Regulations	143
	1	5.4	Financial Indicators of Pension Funds in MENA Countries	148
	1	5.5	Tailoring Active Labor Market Programs to Objectives	154
	1	5.6	Job Creation as a Result of Public Works Programs	155
	1	5.7	Microfinance Programs and Unemployment Lending Programs in MENA Countries, 1999	157
80	1	6.1	Distribution of the Labor Force in Kuwait, by Arab and Asian Origin	173
62	1	6.2	Country Groupings Based on Resource Endowments in MENA	186
66	1		Student Performance Expectations in France and MENA	202
78	1	A.1	Total Labor Force Participation, Ages 15-64	222
	1	A.2	Male Labor Force Participation, Ages 15-64	223
80	1	A.3	Female Labor Force Participation, Ages 15-64	224
8	1	A.4	Total Labor Force	225
	1		Male Labor Force	226
	1	A.6	Female Labor Force	227
94	1	A.7	Total Labor Force Growth	228
	1	A.8	Male Labor Force Growth	229
	1	A.9	Female Labor Force Growth	230

112

113

117

119

121

123

137