

Capital, Profits, and Prices

An Essay in the Philosophy of Economics

DANIEL M. HAUSMAN

New York Columbia University Press 1981

Contents

Preface	ix
Introduction	1
Chapter 1. Capital Theory and Classical Value Theory	9
1. What Is Economics About?	9
2. What Is a Capitalist Economy?	11
3. The Theory of Exchange Value	14
4. Do Exchange Values Reflect Physical Costs?	15
5. The Labor Theory of Value	17
6. Capital, Distribution, and Exchange Values	20
Chapter 2. Capital Theory, Utility Theory, and Economic Equilibrium	22
1. Marginal Utilities and Exchange Values	22
2. Equilibrium	27
3. Exchange Value as Determined by the Constrained Balancing of Marginal Utilities	32
4. Problems with Capital and Interest	33
Chapter 3. Neoclassical Theories of Capital and Interest	35
1. Capital and Waiting	37
2. Wine and Grape Juice	40
3. Models and Theories in Economics	44
4. Special Case Models	48
5. Wood and Axes: The Basic Model	52

6. The Austrian Theory	55
Appendix: Wicksell's and Lange's Austrian Models	56
Chapter 4. The Cambridge Criticisms of Neoclassical Capital Theory	65
1. Outline of the Criticisms	67
2. The Wage-Profit Frontier	69
3. Reswitching and Capital Reversing	74
4. Interpretation and Tentative Conclusions	80
Chapter 5. Intertemporal General Equilibrium Theory	84
1. Intertemporal General Equilibrium	85
2. Own Rates of Return	87
3. The Rate of Interest	88
4. Is There Such a Thing as the Rate of Interest?	89
5. An Intertemporal Model	93
6. Austrian and Intertemporal Models	98
Chapter 6. On the Interpretation of General Equilibrium Models	102
1. Some Misconceived General Criticisms	102
2. Equilibrium Theory and the Basic Equilibrium Model	107
3. General Equilibrium Theories and General Equilibrium Models	112
Chapter 7. Philosophical Assessment of General Equilibrium Models	116
1. Explanation	116
2. Inexact Laws	120
3. Inexact Laws in Economics	133
4. Simplifications and the Application of General Equilibrium Models	139
5. Models and Idealizations in Economics	146
6. Inexact Explanation in Principle	148
7. The Merits of General Equilibrium Models	150

Chapter 8. Sraffa and Neo-Ricardian Value Theory	157
1. Sraffa's System	157
2. Sraffa and the Critique of Neoclassical Theory	163
3. Sraffa's System and Equilibrium Models	167
Chapter 9. Philosophical Assessment of Sraffa's System	174
1. Does Sraffa Explain Exchange Values?	175
2. Sraffa and the Separate Science of Economics	180
3. What Sraffa Has To Offer	184
4. Marx and Sraffa	187
5. Normative Factors	189
Chapter 10. Conclusions	191
1. Assessing the Specific Theories	191
2. Strategies of Economic Theorizing and Their Implications	194
3. Philosophical Theses and Puzzles	202
4. Ideological Criticisms	209
5. Capital Theory and Liberal Ideology	211
Methodological Postscript	215
1. Empirical Philosophy of Science	215
2. The Epistemological Circle	217
3. Philosophy of Science as a Social Science	221
4. Method and Presuppositions	222
Bibliography	227
Index	245