CAL

Classical and Neoclassical Theories of General Equilibrium

Historical Origins and Mathematical Structure

VIVIAN WALSH HARVEY GRAM

New York Oxford OXFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS 1980

Contents

| | Introduction, Joan Robinson | xi |
|----|---|-----|
| 1 | Prologue | 3 |
| 2 | The Roots of Classical Theory | 9 |
| 3 | Adam Smith: The Beginning of Mature Classicism | 48 |
| 4 | The Full Flowering: Nineteenth Century Classical English Political Economy | 83 |
| 5 | The Founding of Neoclassical Allocation Theory | 121 |
| 6 | Walrasian General Equilibrium Theory | 142 |
| 7 | Models of General Equilibrium Theory | 166 |
| 8 | The Neoclassical Theory of Resource Allocation: Quantity Relations | 179 |
| 9 | The Neoclassical Theory of Resource Allocation: Dual Price Relations | 204 |
| 10 | A General Equilibrium of Supply and Demand | 245 |
| 11 | The Classical Theory of Surplus and the Accumulation of Capital: Quantity Relations | 269 |
| 12 | The Classical Theory of Surplus and the Accumulation of Capital: Dual Price Relations | 294 |
| 13 | Wages and Profits in Classical Theory | 317 |
| 14 | Choice of Technique in a Neoclassical Model | 344 |
| 15 | Choice of Technique in a Classical Model | 371 |
| 16 | A Concluding Assessment of the Two Theories | 397 |
| | Author Index | 413 |
| | Subject Index | 417 |
| | | |