

U.S. Trade Policies in a Changing World Economy

edited by Robert M. Stern

The MIT Press
Cambridge, Massachusetts
London, England

Contents

Foreword vii

Harold T. Shapiro

Preface ix

1 Introduction 1

Robert M. Stern

2 Current Issues in Trade Policy: An Overview 15

Alan V. Deardorff and Robert M. Stern

Comments

Ronald W. Jones 69

Ronald Findlay 73

3 Macroeconomics and Protection 77

Rudiger Dornbusch and Jeffrey A. Frankel

Comments

William H. Branson 131

Rachel McCulloch 137

4 Endogenous Protection in the United States, 1980–1984 145

Stephen P. Magee and Leslie Young

Comments

Edward E. Leamer 196

J. Peter Neary 201

5 Strategic Sectors and International Competition 207

Paul Krugman

- Comments
Marina v.N. Whitman 233
Gary R. Saxonhouse 239
- 6 How Should the United States Respond to Other Countries' Trade Policies? 245
Avinash Dixit
- Comments
Robert Axelrod 283
J. David Richardson 287
- 7 Trade Policy as Foreign Policy 291
Richard N. Cooper
- Comments
Gary Clyde Hufbauer 323
Stephen D. Krasner 327
- 8 The National Defense Argument for Government Intervention in Foreign Trade 337
T. N. Srinivasan
- Comments
Michael D. Intriligator 364
Elhanan Helpman 370
- Postscript
T. N. Srinivasan 374
- 9 Multilateral and Bilateral Negotiating Approaches for the Conduct of U.S. Trade Policies 377
John H. Jackson
- Comments
Robert O. Keohane 402
Gardner Patterson 408
- 10 On Making Rules for the International Trading System 413
W. Max Corden
- Participants 427
Subject Index 431
Name Index 435