

MARKETING

essential principles, new realities

JONATHAN GROUCUTT PETER LEADLEY PATRICK FORSYTH

Technische Universität Darmstadt
Fachbereich 1
Betriebswirtschaftliche Bibliothek
Inventar-Nr.:	54.689
Abstell-Nr.:	A 08/3102
.....
.....
.....

London and Sterling, VA

Contents

List of figures xi
List of tables xiii
The authors xvii
Acknowledgements xix

Introduction 1

1. What is marketing? 5

Introduction 5; Learning objectives 5; How to define marketing 6; Defining marketing 8; Marketing's relationship to other functional units 11; The 20th century and the development of marketing thought 12; The marketing mix framework 17; Relationship marketing – relationship building and management 22; Future evolutions 25; Chapter summary 25; Exercises and questions for review and critical thinking 25

2 The business and marketing environment 27

Introduction 27; Learning objectives 27; The business and marketing environment 28; Micro environmental forces 28; Macro environmental forces 34; Politics 34; Economics 40; Fiscal policies 43; Societal and cultural factors 45; Technology (and science) 49; The environment/ecology 54; Legal frameworks 54; Analysing the environment 59; Chapter summary 59; Exercises and questions for review and critical thinking 60

3 Ethical marketing and social responsibility 61

Introduction 61; Learning objectives 61; How we define ethics 62; Boycotts: the power of the consumer 63; Why ethics is important to marketing 65; Potential ethical problems associated with marketing 66; Ethical codes of practice 78; The consumer's role in ethical marketing 79; An ethical framework 85; Chapter summary 86; Exercises and questions for review and critical thinking 90

4 Buyer behaviour 91

Introduction 91; Learning objectives 91; Who or what is a customer 91; Types of buyer 92; The buying decision process 94; The recognition of an unsatisfied need/want/desire 94; The level of involvement 96; Identification of the alternatives 96; Evaluation of the alternatives 97; Purchasing decisions 97; Post-purchase behaviour 98; Business to consumer (B2C) 100; Consumerism 102; Consumers and ethics 104; Why do consumers buy? 106; People 106; Culture 110; Lifestyles 110; Economic and financial issues 116; Media 117; Necessities 118; General 118; Organizational buying 121; Chapter summary 124; Exercises and questions for review and critical thinking 125

5 Segmenting, positioning and targeting 127

Introduction 127; Learning objectives 128; What is a market? 128; Segmenting markets 130; The advantages of segmentation 133; Methods of segmenting consumer markets 133; B2B segmentation 140; Conditions for segmentation 142; Marketing strategies available 144; Real-time segmentation 144; Targeting 145; Positioning 146; Why segmentation fails 148; Chapter summary 149; Exercises and questions for review and critical thinking 152

6 Marketing research 153

Introduction 153; Learning objectives 153; Marketing information 154; What marketing research is 154; The market for research 155; The potential benefits of marketing research 156; Who uses marketing research? 157; The drivers for the development of marketing research 158; What marketing research can do 159; The marketing research process 159; Establishing the need for marketing research 160; Problem definition 161; The research objective 162; The research brief: determining research design 162; Identifying information types and sources: secondary and primary data 162; Sampling 173; Data collection 175; Questionnaire design 176; Data analysis 181; The final research report 181; Using a research agency 184; Ethical issues in marketing research 184; Chapter summary 185; Exercises and questions for review and critical thinking 185

7 Marketing and strategy 187

Introduction 187; Learning objectives 187; Defining strategy 188; The relationship between marketing strategy and corporate strategy 190; Situational analysis: the marketing audit 193; Product–service positioning 195; SWOT analysis 198; Industry life cycle 203; Product life cycle 205; Portfolio analysis 212; Profit impact of marketing strategy (PIMS) 214; Boston Consulting matrix: the growth-share matrix 215; GE variant: the General Electric business screen 218; Porter's five forces model 220; Competitive advantage: generic strategies 226; Porter's value chain model 231; The balanced scorecard 233; Competitive market positioning strategies 236; Market leader strategies 240; Market challenger strategies 243; Market follower strategies 246; Niche market strategies 246; Environmental dynamics: forecasting and scenarios 247; Strategic marketing plans 248; Chapter summary 252; Exercises and questions for review and critical thinking 252

8 Products and brands 253

Introduction 253; Learning objectives 253; What is a product? 254; Market classifications 256; New product development (NPD) 262; Risks associated with NPD 269; Minimizing the risk of failure 272; Brands and branding 275; What is a brand? 275; Business brands 278; How branding started 279; The world's most valuable brands 280; Why companies and organizations brand themselves and their products 282; Building brands 285; Brand types 287; Brand extensions (also known as brand elasticity) 292; Brand image 292; Co-branding (dual branding) 292; Rebranding 294; The lifespan of brands 294; Brand culling or termination 294; Chapter summary 299; Exercises and questions for review and critical thinking 299

9 Price and pricing strategies 301

Introduction 301; Learning objectives 301; Organizational policy 302; An organization's pricing objectives 302; Key factors that influence price 303; Price setting tactics 306; Business-to-business pricing 311; Price setting models 312; Pricing: a systematic approach 316; Chapter summary 318; Exercises and questions for review and critical thinking 318

10 Promotion 1 321

Introduction 321; Learning objectives 321; What promotion and marketing communications are 321; Communications theory 322; The marketing communications mix 324; Advertising 325; Forms of advertising 328; Business-to-business advertising 330; Advertising objectives 331; Types of advertising 337; Types of advertising media 337; Advertising: general points 343; Measurement 344; Direct marketing 345; What direct marketing is 346; Creating lifetime values (LTVs) 347; A brief history of direct marketing 348; Reasons for the expansion of direct marketing 350; The customer database: data warehousing and data mining 353; Direct marketing techniques 357; Direct response advertising 359; Kiosks 362; The future 362; Selling and the sales force 364; Definition and functions of the sales process 364; Selling channels 366; Types of selling 367; Personal selling skills 369; Key account handling 370; Current and potential trends 371; Chapter summary 374; Exercises and questions for review and critical thinking 374

11 Promotion 2 377

Introduction 377; Learning objectives 377; Sales promotion 377; Types of promotion 379; Public relations 382; The scope of public relations 382; Trends in PR analysis 383; Sponsorship 383; Product placement 390; Merchandising 392; Exhibitions 394; Word of mouth: viral marketing 394; Chapter summary 397; Exercises and questions for review and critical thinking 398

12 People, physical evidence and process 401

Introduction 401; Learning objectives 401; The debate between services and products 401; People (participants) 402; Physical evidence (also known as physicality) 405; Process 412; Types of process 413; Chapter summary 417; Exercises and questions for review and critical thinking 418

13 Placement, distribution and logistics 419

Introduction 419; Learning objectives 419; Placement 420; Logistics 420; Channel principles 420; Organizing distribution: channel management 422; What channels of distribution a company should choose 428; Distribution management 433; Vertical marketing systems (VMS) 433; Channel management 434; Logistics and physical distribution 437; Retailing 444; Issues for retailers 446; Product considerations 448; Non-store retailing 449; The future 451; Chapter summary 451; Exercises and questions for review and critical thinking 452

14 Marketing across borders: the international dimension 453

Introduction 453; Learning objectives 454; Definitions 454; The global village and globalization 454; The differences between domestic and international marketing 455; Why market internationally or globally? 455; Changes that have affected international marketing 455; Market entry strategies 463; The impact of macro factors 465; Trade control: tariff and non-tariff barriers 471; The marketing mix 474; International marketing failures 485; Chapter summary 487; Exercises and questions for review and critical thinking 487

15 Application: bringing the elements together 489

Introduction 489; Learning objectives 489; The product life cycle 489; Research and development phase 491; Introduction phase 491; Growth phase 494; Maturity phase 497; Product modifications: advantages and disadvantages 502; Decline phase 502; Restaging, product rejuvenation and revitalization 508; Death, extinction or termination of a product 508; Chapter summary 515

Notes 517

References 521

Index 531