

FOURTH EDITION | PETER DICKEN

GLOBAL SHIFT

RESHAPING THE GLOBAL ECONOMIC MAP
IN THE 21ST CENTURY

SAGE Publications

London • Thousand Oaks • New Delhi

CONTENTS

List of Abbreviations	xiv
Preface	xv
Acknowledgements	xix
1 Introduction	1
PART I: THE SHIFTING CONTOURS OF THE GEO-ECONOMY	5
2 A New Geo-Economy	7
Something is happening out there – but what is it?	7
A ‘new’ geo-economy? The globalization debate	10
A new geo-economy: unravelling the complexity	14
Even in a globalizing world, economic activities are geographically localized	22
The geo-economy and the environment	25
Conclusion	29
Notes	30
3 The Changing Global Economic Map	32
The imprint of history	32
The roller-coaster ride: aggregate trends in global economic activity	33
Changing contours of the global economic map: global shifts in production and trade	36
Changing contours of the global economic map: global shifts in foreign direct investment	51
Changing the lens: the macro-, micro- and meso-scale geography of the global economy	72
Conclusion: a multi-polar, kaleidoscopic global economy	79
Notes	81
PART II: PROCESSES OF GLOBAL SHIFT	83
4 Technology: The ‘Great Growling Engine of Change’	85
Technology and economic transformation	85
Processes of technological change: an evolutionary perspective	86
The ‘space-shrinking’ technologies	89

	Technological changes in products and processes	104
	Geographies of innovation	115
	Conclusion	119
	Notes	120
5	'The State is Dead ... Long Live the State'	122
	'Contested territory': the state in a globalizing economy	122
	States as containers of distinctive cultures, practices and institutions	126
	States as regulators of trade, foreign investment and industry	129
	States as competitors	140
	States as collaborators : the proliferation of regional economic blocs	144
	Conclusion	161
	Notes	162
6	Doing Things Differently: Variations in State Economic Policies	164
	From the general to the specific	164
	A degree of convergence	164
	The older industrialized economies of Europe and the United States	166
	Japan	171
	The newly industrializing and emerging market economies	175
	Conclusion	195
	Notes	196
7	Transnational Corporations: The Primary 'Movers and Shapers' of the Global Economy	198
	The significance of the TNC	198
	Why ( not ) transnationalize? Some general explanations	199
	A diversity of organizational architectures: how transnational operations are coordinated	212
	The myth of the 'placeless' TNC	221
	Conclusion	235
	Notes	236
8	'Webs of Enterprise': The Geography of Transnational Production Networks	238
	The geography of the TNC: configuring the firm's internal production network	238
	TNCs within networks of externalized relationships	253
	Synthesis: connecting the organizational and geographical dimensions of transnational production networks	265
	Conclusion	271
	Notes	272

9	Dynamics of Conflict and Collaboration: Both Transnational Corporations and States Matter	274
	The ties that bind	274
	TNCs and host economies	278
	TNCs and home economies	300
	The bargaining relationship between TNCs and states	304
	Conclusion	311
	Notes	313
PART III	GLOBAL SHIFT: THE PICTURE IN DIFFERENT SECTORS	315
10	'Fabric-ating Fashion': The Textiles and Garments Industries	317
	The textiles–garments production chain	318
	Global shifts in the textiles and garments industries	320
	The dynamics of the market	327
	Production costs and technology	330
	The role of the state and the Multi-Fibre Arrangement	336
	Corporate strategies in the textiles and garments industries	339
	Regionalizing production networks in the textiles and garments industries	346
	Conclusion	353
	Notes	354
11	'Wheels of Change': The Automobile Industry	355
	The automobile production chain	355
	Global shifts in the automobile industry	357
	The dynamics of the market	362
	Production costs, technology and the changing organization of production	363
	The role of the state	369
	Corporate strategies in the automobile industry	372
	Regionalizing production networks in the automobile industry	386
	Conclusion	397
	Notes	397
12	'Chips With Everything': The Semiconductor Industry	399
	Semiconductors within the electronics production chain	400
	Global shifts in the semiconductor industry	401
	The dynamics of the market	403
	Production costs, technology and the changing organization of semiconductor production	405

	The role of the state	410
	Corporate strategies in the semiconductor industry	419
	Regionalizing production networks in the semiconductor industry: the case of East Asia	433
	Conclusion	434
	Notes	435
13	'Making the World Go Round': The Financial Services Industries	437
	Money matters	437
	The structure of the financial services industries	439
	The dynamics of the market for financial services	441
	Technological innovation and the financial services industries	442
	The role of the state: regulation and deregulation in financial services	447
	Corporate strategies in financial services	449
	Geographical structures of financial services activities	458
	Conclusion	468
	Notes	469
14	'Making the Connections, Selling the Goods': The Distribution Industries	471
	'Whatever happened to distribution in the globalization debate?'	471
	The structure of the distribution industries	472
	The dynamics of the market	475
	Technological innovation and the distribution industries	475
	The role of the state: regulation and deregulation in the distribution industries	481
	Corporate strategies in the distribution industries	485
	Conclusion	504
	Notes	504
	PART IV: WINNERS AND LOSERS IN THE GLOBAL ECONOMY	507
15	Winners and Losers: An Overview	509
	From processes to impacts	509
	The contours of economic development	512
	Making a living in the global economy	521
	Notes	523
16	Making a Living in Developed Countries: Where Will the Jobs Come From?	524
	Increasing affluence – but not everybody is a winner	524
	The jobs scene	525
	Why is it happening?	538

Policy responses	544
Conclusion	550
Notes	550
17 Making a Living in Developing Countries: Sustaining Growth, Enhancing Equity, Ensuring Survival	552
Some winners – but mostly losers	552
Heterogeneity of the developing world	553
Sustaining economic growth and ensuring equity in newly industrializing economies	562
Ensuring survival and reducing poverty in the least developed countries	570
To be ‘globalized’, or not to be ‘globalized’?	573
Notes	576
18 Making the World a Better Place	577
‘The best of all possible worlds’?	577
Globalization and its ‘discontents’	578
Global governance structures	579
Two key concerns: labour standards and environmental regulation	592
What might the future be? What should the future be?	598
Notes	600
Bibliography	602
Index	622