

Andreas Schlegel & Joachim Lüdtké

Die Laute in Europa 2

Lauten, Gitarren,
Mandolinen
und Cistern

The Lute in Europe 2

*Lutes, Guitars,
Mandolins,
and Citterns*

Mitarbeiter:

Pedro Caldeira Cabral: Guitarra Portuguesa

Peter Forrester: Cittern

Carlos González: Vihuela de mano

Lorenz Mühlemann: Schweizer Halszithern

Pepe Rey: Bandurria

Renzo Salvador: Baroque guitar

Kenneth Sparr: Swedish lute

Michael Treder: Lautenmusik der Habsburger Lande

Roman Turovsky: Torban

Contents

A gallery of instruments	8
Which instrument do you mean?	24
SYSTEMATIC SECTION
How does the lute work?	30
The hard work of reclaiming old, lost knowledge	34
Lute building as the expression of an epoch's values	36
An example: The so-called "Presbyter lute"	38
Music and proportion	42
Commata – The system's bugs	46
Pythagorean and meantone tuning	48
Meantone and equal temperament	54
The crunch: The system of fretting	58
Tablature – The notation of lute, guitar, and cittern	66
The interdependency of string material, string length and pitch	76
Developments in string making	80
... and their consequences for lute building	86
The specification of tunings	92
HISTORICAL SECTION
How to deal with history	94
Individual instrument types
The descant instruments of the lute family and the mandolin	98
Colascione, Gallichon, Mandora	112
The Vihuela de mano (Carlos González)	116
Renaissance and Baroque guitar (Renzo Salvador)	128
The Bandurria (Pepe Rey)	136
The Cittern family to 1700 (Peter Forrester)	144
The Cittern from the 18th century to our days (Lorenz Mühlemann & Andreas Schlegel)	158
The flourishing of the Halszither in Switzerland	164
Halszithers in Germany	164
The history of the Guitarra Portuguesa (Pedro Caldeira Cabral)	166
The Svenskluta (Swedish lute or Swedish theorbo) (Kenneth Sparr)	176
The Torban (Roman Turovsky)	182
The History
C. 1200 – The early spring of the lute in Europe	188
1450 – The end of the Middle Ages and the rise of domestic lute playing	200
Around 1500 – The rise of the lute	208
1580 – From Renaissance to Baroque	228
1640 – Flowering in France	260
Lute music of the Habsburg territories (Michael Treder & Andreas Schlegel)	288
1710 – Flowering of the aristocratic lute	300
1760 – Cittern, Mandora and Guitar	312
The Guitar, 1810 to the present day	332
Rediscovery of the lute in the 19th and early 20th century	341
The lute – An instrument of the Early Music movement	347
The construction of the lute	360
The parts of the modern classical guitar	363
Nomenclature of instruments	364
Notes	382
Index of names	437
Acknowledgements / Copyright	447