

The International Economic Order

Essays on Financial Crisis and International Public Goods

Charles P. Kindleberger

Ford International Professor of Economics Emeritus Massachusetts Institute of Technology

HARVESTER · WHEATSHEAF

NEW YORK LONDON TORONTO SYDNEY TOKYO

Contents

List of Tables	vi
Introduction	vii
Part I Financial Crises	1
1 Is There Going to be a Depression?	3
2 Overtrading, Sometimes Followed by Revulsion and Discredit	16
3 Reflections on Current Changes in National and International Capital Markets	29
4 International Capital Movements and Foreign Exchange Markets in Crisis: the 1930s and 1980s	49
5 Bank Failures: The 1930s and 1980s	69
6 Reversible and Irreversible Processes in Economics	94
7 A View from Experience	107
8 Distress in International Financial Markets	110
Part II International Public Goods	121
9 International Public Goods without International Government	123
10 Economic Development and International Responsibility	143
11 Hierarchy Versus Inertial Cooperation	153
12 The European Community: Hierarchy or Federation?	161
13 Standards as Public, Collective and Private Goods	162
14 Dominance and Leadership in the International Economy	185
15 Economic Responsibility	196
16 Government and International Trade	211
Index	231