

DIRECTIONS IN DEVELOPMENT

Africa's International Rivers

An Economic Perspective

Claudia W. Sadoff
The World Bank

Dale Whittington
University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill

David Grey
The World Bank

THE WORLD BANK
Washington, D.C.

Contents

| | |
|--|------------|
| Foreword | vii |
| Abstract | ix |
| Acknowledgments | x |
| Introduction | 1 |
| I. Africa's International Rivers | 3 |
| Unique Legacies | 3 |
| Riparian Dynamics | 10 |
| II. The Economics of Shared Waters | 15 |
| Hydrologic Risk and Economic Growth | 15 |
| Water as an Economic Good: Values and Costs | 17 |
| III. Crafting Cooperative Solutions | 35 |
| Externalities on Africa's International Rivers | 35 |
| Assessing Cooperative Benefits and Opportunities | 37 |
| Sharing Benefits | 43 |
| Conclusion | 55 |
| Annex: International Rivers by Country | 59 |
| Notes | 77 |
| Bibliography | 79 |

Tables

- 1. Countries with Shared River Basins8
- 2. International River Basins and Country Statistics12
- 3. Selected International Boundary Rivers37
- 4. Selected Shared Lakes38
- 5. Principles for Allocating Shared Waters46
- 6. Benefit-Sharing Mechanisms in Treaties52

Figures

- 1. Values of Water.....20
- 2. Costs of Water.....23
- 3. River Basin System with Irrigation and Hydropower28
- 4. Two-Riparian System with Irrigation and Hydropower30
- 5. User and System Values and Cooperative Linkages.....33
- 6. Riparians’ Payoff Matrix40
- 7. Riparians’ Payoff Matrix after Threat41
- 8. Riparians’ Payoff Matrix after Promise42