

THE CHALLENGE OF RADICAL POLITICAL ECONOMY

An Introduction to the Alternatives to Neo-Classical Economics

MALCOLM C. SAWYER

*Professor of Economics
University of York*

Harvester Wheat sheaf

New York London Toronto Sydney Tokyo

CONTENTS

PREFACE

xiii

PART 1 INTRODUCTION TO RADICAL POLITICAL ECONOMY

CHAPTER 1 RADICAL POLITICAL ECONOMY

1.1 Introduction	3
1.2 Schools of thought within radical political economy	4
1.3 General themes of radical political economy	10
1.4 The scope of economics and political economy	18
1.5 Methodology	23
1.6 Economic analysis and ideology	28
1.7 An overview of the book	30
Notes	33

PART 2 LABOUR

CHAPTER 2 THE LABOUR PROCESS

2.1 Technical and social aspects of production	39
2.2 Variable productivity	43
2.3 X-inefficiency	45
2.4 Conflict and the labour process	50
2.5 The division of labour	53

2.6 Braverman and the de-skilling argument	59
2.7 Critiques of Braverman	64
2.8 'Hearts and minds' and labour productivity	66
2.9 Concluding remarks	73
Notes	74

CHAPTER 3 LABOUR MARKETS

3.1 Introduction	76
3.2 Conceptions of the labour market	77
3.3 Segmented labour markets	82
3.4 Internal labour markets	88
3.5 Some evidence on segmented labour markets	92
3.6 Evolution in the labour market	96
3.7 Segmented labour markets and inequality	102
3.8 Discrimination	105
3.9 Concluding remarks	114
Notes	115

PART 3 COMPETITION, RIVALRY AND FIRMS

CHAPTER 4 THE NATURE OF FIRMS

4.1 Concepts of firms	121
4.2 Firm as a 'black box'	124
4.3 Firm as a complex social organisation	127
4.4 Firms as 'blocs of capital'	135
4.5 Concluding remarks	137
Notes	138

CHAPTER 5 COMPETITION AND RIVALRY

5.1 Introduction	140
5.2 The meaning of competition	141
5.3 Classical/Marxian competition further explored	147
5.4 Monopoly capitalism	152
5.5 Competition rules?	163

5.6 Concluding remarks	168
Appendix	168
Notes	170

CHAPTER 6 CORPORATE CAPITALISM

6.1 The significance of joint stock companies	172
6.2 Marx, Hilferding and Marshall on corporations	174
6.3 Managerial capitalism	179
6.4 Investment and profits	183
6.5 Critique of the managerialist thesis	188
6.6 Competitive pressures?	195
6.7 Concluding remarks	199
Notes	200

PART 4 VALUES, PRICES, WAGES AND PROFITS

CHAPTER 7 VALUE

7.1 Value and prices	205
7.2 Origins of the labour theory of value	207
7.3 Some difficulties with the labour theory of value	212
7.4 Marx and the labour theory of value	214
7.5 Debates on the labour theory of value	220
7.6 Subjective or objective?	224
7.7 Value as a metaphysical concept	226
Notes	227

CHAPTER 8 AN INTRODUCTION TO SRAFFIAN ECONOMICS

8.1 Introduction	229
8.2 A simple example	231
8.3 A modified numerical example	235
8.4 General features of the Sraffian approach	237
8.5 A further example involving labour	241
8.6 The standard commodity	244

8.7 Basic and non-basic commodities	249
8.8 Prices of production and labour values	250
8.9 The measurement of 'capital'	253
8.10 Final discussion on the Sraffian approach	260
Notes	263

CHAPTER 9 THEORIES OF INCOME DISTRIBUTION

9.1 Introduction	265
9.2 Degree of monopoly	266
9.3 Differential savings behaviour	270
9.4 Marx's theory of distribution	275
9.5 The nature and source of profits	278
9.6 Movements in the rate of profit	281
9.7 Explaining movements in the rate of profit	286
9.8 Concluding remarks	293
Notes	293

PART 5 THE STATE

CHAPTER 10 THE POLITICAL ECONOMY OF THE STATE

10.1 Introduction	297
10.2 The scale and nature of State activity	301
10.3 State activity in conventional economics	303
10.4 Views of the New Right	311
10.5 Marxian and similar approaches to the State	315
10.6 The State and the economy	323
10.7 Welfare State	326
10.8 Taxation	331
10.9 Concluding remarks	335
Notes	336

PART 6 UNEMPLOYMENT, GROWTH AND DISPARITIES

CHAPTER 11 UNEMPLOYMENT AND INFLATION

11.1 Introduction	341
-------------------	-----

11.2 Savings and investment	347
11.3 Unemployment and excess capacity	350
11.4 More on unemployment and excess capacity	355
11.5 Unemployment and labour market discipline	356
11.6 Inflation	359
11.7 Concluding remarks	372
Notes	372

CHAPTER 12 INVESTMENT, GROWTH AND TECHNICAL CHANGE

12.1 Introduction	375
12.2 The nature of capital equipment	376
12.3 The determinants of investment expenditure	379
12.4 Investment, growth and business cycles	383
12.5 Investment and profits	385
12.6 Technical change and investment	387
12.7 The nature of technical change	389
12.8 Post-Keynesian perspective on growth and technical change	396
12.9 The pace of technical change and long waves in economic activity	409
12.10 Other views on long waves and their generation	415
Notes	417

CHAPTER 13 CUMULATIVE CAUSATION AND UNEQUAL DEVELOPMENT

13.1 Introduction	420
13.2 Success breeds success, and failure breeds failure	422
13.3 Centre and periphery	428
13.4 Disparities within developed economies	429
13.5 Development, undevelopment and underdevelopment	433
13.6 Exchange relationships between industrialised and non-industrialised economies	440
13.7 Concluding considerations	447

Appendix	453
Notes	456
Bibliography	458
Index	475