

THE M. & E. HANDBOOK SERIES

ORGANISATION AND METHODS

R. G. ANDERSON, F.C.M.A.,
M.INST.A.M.(Dip.), A.M.B.I.M., F.O.M.S.

*Senior Lecturer in O. and M. and Data Processing,
West Bromwich College of Commerce and Technology
Management Services Division*

MACDONALD & EVANS LTD

8 John Street, London WC1N 2HY

1973

CONTENTS

		PAGE
	Preface . . . . .	v
	Acknowledgments . . . . .	vii
	List of illustrations . . . . .	xv
CHAP.
I.	Introduction to Organisation and Methods
	What is Organisation and Methods? . . . . .	1
	The need for Organisation and Methods . . . . .	5
	The functions of Organisation and Methods specialists . . . . .	6
II.	A specification for effective Organisation and Methods
	Acceptance and support . . . . .	8
	Possible positions of the Organisation and Methods department in the organisation structure . . . . .	9
	The manager of the Organisation and Methods department . . . . .	13
	The investigators in the Organisation and Methods department . . . . .	15
	Allocation of staff within the Organisation and Methods department . . . . .	16
III.	The objectives and advantages of Organisation and Methods
	Elimination of effort . . . . .	19
	Standardisation . . . . .	20
	Specialisation . . . . .	21
	Integration of systems and data processing . . . . .	23
	Information and control . . . . .	27
	Quality control in the office . . . . .	28
IV.	The sources and selection of assignments
	Sources of assignments . . . . .	34
	Selection of assignments . . . . .	35
	Key factors . . . . .	37

CHAP.		PAGE
V.	The preparatory work on an O. & M. assignment
	Preliminary survey and terms of reference . . . . .	43
	Types of assignment . . . . .	45
	Planning the assignment . . . . .	48
VI.	Collecting the facts
	The existing situation . . . . .	55
	Methods of collecting facts . . . . .	62
	Circumstances when a detailed analysis of sys- tems is unnecessary . . . . .	66
VII.	Recording the facts
	Charting . . . . .	69
	Flow charts . . . . .	71
	Other charting and recording techniques . . . . .	90
VIII.	Verifying and examining the facts and develop- ing alternative procedures or methods
	Verifying and examining the facts . . . . .	107
	Developing alternative procedures or methods . . . . .	109
	Feasibility study—machines . . . . .	114
	Feasibility study—electronic digital computer . . . . .	122
	Choice of alternative procedure or method . . . . .	126
IX.	Comparison of costs and benefits of alternative procedures or methods
	Return on investment—techniques . . . . .	128
	Cost comparison statement—project No. 15 . . . . .	131
	Interest on capital . . . . .	133
	Depreciation of machines . . . . .	133
	Cost comparison statement—project No. 16 . . . . .	137
	Discounted cash flow—present value of money . . . . .	140
X.	Presenting, selling, planning and implementing recommendations
	Techniques of presentation and report writing . . . . .	146
	Responsibility for implementing recommen- dations . . . . .	153
	Factors to consider when implementing recommendations . . . . .	154
	Planning and implementation of recommen- dations . . . . .	155

CHAP.	PAGE
Instruction manuals . . . . .	158
The change-over period . . . . .	159
The follow-up period . . . . .	160
Procedure changes which prove unsatisfactory after implementation . . . . .	161
XI. Organisation, delegation and working groups
Organisation structure . . . . .	166
Types of organisation structure . . . . .	167
Organisation relationships . . . . .	171
Organisation principles . . . . .	173
Delegation and the span of control . . . . .	177
The levels of management . . . . .	180
Size of working groups . . . . .	184
The organisation of working groups . . . . .	187
XII. Centralisation and decentralisation
Introduction . . . . .	193
Office services . . . . .	194
Centralisation and the electronic computer . . . . .	199
Administrative changes and the electronic computer . . . . .	201
Organisation charts . . . . .	204
Types of organisation chart . . . . .	206
XIII. Office planning
General considerations . . . . .	212
Office layout . . . . .	215
Office furniture . . . . .	221
Reduction of noise . . . . .	222
Lighting . . . . .	223
Heating and ventilation . . . . .	224
Open plan offices . . . . .	225
Panoramic office planning . . . . .	228
Modules . . . . .	230
Location of offices . . . . .	231
Single-storey and multi-storey offices . . . . .	232
XIV. Methods of producing systems documentation
The metal plate system—basic features . . . . .	235
Attachments . . . . .	236
Systems applications—wages system . . . . .	237

CHAP.		PAGE
	Invoicing system . . . . .	239
	Batch production documentation system . . . . .	240
	Advantages and disadvantages of metal plate data writing systems . . . . .	242
	Systems documentation by dyeline process . . . . .	243
	Systems applications—sales ledger . . . . .	244
	Order/invoicing . . . . .	247
	Purchase orders . . . . .	248
	Systems documentation by spirit duplication . . . . .	250
	Advantages and disadvantages of spirit duplication . . . . .	252
XV.	Clerical work measurement—productivity improvement in the office
	The need for productivity improvements . . . . .	254
	Objectives and problems of clerical work measurement . . . . .	254
	Outline of work measurement methods . . . . .	257
	V.F.P. (Variable Factor Programming)— Wofac Corporation . . . . .	271
	Stages of a V.F.P. installation . . . . .	272
	Operational features of V.F.P. . . . .	273
	C.W.I.P. (Clerical Work Improvement Pro- gramme)—W. D. Scott & Co. Ltd. . . . .	274
	Stages in a typical C.W.I.P. survey . . . . .	274
	G.C.A. (Group Capacity Assessment)—Arthur Young & Co. . . . .	276
	Stages of a G.C.A. installation . . . . .	276
	Incentive schemes in the office—payment by results (P.B.R.) . . . . .	278
	Problems, advantages and disadvantages of incentive schemes . . . . .	280
XVI.	Forms design and control
	Basic considerations . . . . .	283
	Standard forms . . . . .	285
	Printing considerations . . . . .	286
	Qualities and types of paper . . . . .	289
	Substance and equivalent weights of paper . . . . .	290
	Types of paper for use with office machines . . . . .	293
	Post Office preferred envelopes (POP) . . . . .	298
	Forms control . . . . .	299

CONTENTS

xiii

CHAP.	PAGE
XVII. Internal and external form printing
Internal printing department . . .	305
Types of machine required . . .	306
Internal and external forms . . .	308
APPENDIXES
I. Examination Technique . . . .	311
II. Extracts from British Standards . . .	313
III. Critical facts analysis sheet . . . .	324
IV. Office equipment and machines control register	325
V. Quality control charts . . . .	326
VI. Work stations balancing . . . .	328
INDEX . . . . .	329