

Energy Choices in Russia

Robert E. Ebel

THE CENTER FOR STRATEGIC & INTERNATIONAL STUDIES
Washington, D.C.

Contents

Tables vii

Maps ix

About the Author x

Preface xi

1

Introduction 1

2

The Oil Industry 7

The Decline and Fall of the Oil King 8

Who Produces What 20

Well Restoration 26

Oil Refining 30

Russia as an Oil Consumer 33

Russia as an Oil Exporter 35

Capital Requirements 40

Russia's Privatization Program 42

Loss of Faith 45

3

Natural Gas 49

Problems in the Fields 54

Decisions 57

The Export Trade 59

Post-Soviet Years 61

4

The Nuclear Power Industry 65

- Nuclear Energy in the Soviet Union, 1954–1986 68
- The Impact of Chernobyl 71
- Chernomyrdin's Vision 74
- A New Long-Term Plan 79
- Helping Out: Why It's in U.S. Interests 80
- The G-7 at Odds over Nuclear Assistance 83

5

Coal 87

- An Industry in Crisis 88
- An Unpromising Future 89

6

External Financial Assistance 95

- Bilateral and Multilateral Lending Facilities 97
- Summits and Ministers' Meetings 104
- Translating Financial Aid: What Does It All Mean? 106

7

Choices 108

- An Energy Strategy for Russia 111
- Russian Energy Policy 117
- Losing Out 130
- Summing Up 131

Endnotes 136

Select Bibliography 150