

The New Service Economy

The Transformation of Employment in Industrial Societies

J. I. Gershuny

I. D. Miles A. N. E.

Frances Pinter (Publishers), London

Contents

Preface and Acknowledgements	xi
PART I INTRODUCTION
1 Services and the Future	1
Introduction	1
An Overview	3
PART II UNDERSTANDING EMPLOYMENT IN THE SERVICES
2 What is 'Employment in the Services'?	9
The Problem	9
On Defining the 'Services'	11
Trends in Service Employment	15
The Four Meanings of 'Services'	17
3 The Rise of the 'Service Economy'	26
Explaining the Growth of Service Activity	26
Service Sector Growth	29
Service Sector Productivity	33
Differential Productivity Growth and Modes of Service Provision	40
Rethinking the 'Service Economy'	43
4 Service Industries and Service Occupations	47
Industries and Occupations	47
Employment in Service Industries	49
Employment in Service Occupations	57
From Trend Analysis to Forecasting	69
Appendix Tables	72
5 Social Innovation and the Services	83
Introduction	83
Modal Choice and Innovation in Service Provision	84
An Example: The UK Open University	85

	Process and Product Innovation in the Service Sector	87
	A Process of Socio-technical Change	91
6	An Accounting Model for Service Innovation and Employment	95
	Introduction	95
	The Commodity/Function Matrix	96
	The Commodity/Industrial Value Added Matrix	107
	From Industrial Value Added to Industrial Employment	110
	Conclusions: Results of the Accounting Exercise	110
	Appendix Tables	112
PART III THE FUTURE OF SERVICES
7	The Importance of Service Innovations	121
	The Post-war Boom	121
	A 1980s Wave of Social Innovation?	126
8	Forecasting Service Employment	131
	Information Technology and the Future of Services	131
	Innovation and the Organisation of Services	135
	Conclusions: A Framework for Assessing Prospects for Innovation	143
9	New Technologies and Services Employment	147
	Service-type Occupations	148
	Job Displacement, New Occupations, and Social Interests	157
	Social and Technological Choice for Service Industries: General Comments	161
	Marketed Services	162
	Non-marketed Services	183
	Appendix Tables	199
PART IV CONCLUSIONS
10	Present and Future Services	231
	A Leap in the Dark?	231
	Three Scenarios	233
	Comparing the Three Scenarios	240
	Critical Issues for an 'Information Society'	243

11	A New Theory of Structural Change	247
	The Three-sector Model	247
	The Revised Sequence	248
	Broader Implications	254
	 Appendix: Implications for European Research and Development	 257
	 Bibliography	 269
	Index	279