

Be 10

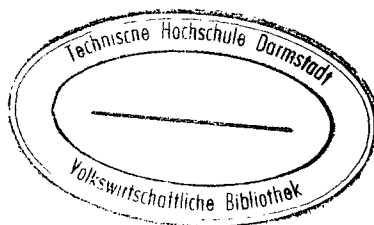

12

GERMAN DEVELOPMENT INSTITUTE

Building Systemic Competitiveness
Concept and Case Studies from Mexico,
Brazil, Paraguay, Korea and Thailand

Tilman Altenburg
Wolfgang Hillebrand
Jörg Meyer-Stamer

Reports and Working Papers 3/1998

Berlin 1998

Contents

Abbreviations

Summary

	I
1	The Concept of Systemic Competitiveness	1
1.1	Definition and Scope of the Concept	2
1.2	The Roots of the Concept of Systemic Competitiveness	4
1.3	The Four Levels of Systemic Competitiveness	7
2	Linking Small and Medium-Sized Enterprises to Large Export Companies in Mexico	16
2.1	Stagnant Inward-Oriented SMEs vs. Dynamic Large-Scale Exporters	16
2.2	Reorientation at the Macrolevel – Neglect of the Mesolevel	17
2.3	Toward Dynamic Comparative Advantages and SME Integration	17
2.4	Supplier Relations as Part of a "High Road" Strategy	18
2.5	A Systemic Approach to the Promotion of Small and Large Firm Linkages	19
3	The Complicated Path from Centralized Industrial Policy to Decentralized Locational Policies: Experiences from Brazil	23
3.1	Locational Policies for Increased Competitiveness: Cases from Santa Catarina	24
3.2	The Role of the Central State in an Open Economy	29
4	Obstacles to Systemic Competitiveness in Paraguay	30
4.1	Structure and Importance of Industry	31
4.2	Obstacles to Industrial Development in Paraguay: An Overview	31
4.2.1	Meta- and Macrolevel Factors	32
4.2.2	Mesolevel Factors	33
4.2.3	Microlevel Factors	34
4.3	Systemic Competitiveness in Paraguay: Elements of an Industrial Strategy	35
4.3.1	Stimulating Firm-Level Competitiveness	37
4.3.2	Stimulating New Governance Patterns	39
4.4	Conclusion	40
5	Retreat of the Development State? New Directions in Korean Industrial and Technology Policymaking	41
5.1	The Challenges to Korean Industry and Policymakers Ahead	41
5.2	Toward Effective Forms of Selective Industrial and Technology Policies	45

6	Balancing Economic and Environmental Performance – Prospects for Eco-efficient Industrialization in Thailand	50
6.1	Moves to Cleaner Production in Thai Industry – Optimist and Pessimist Views	51
6.2	Challenges for and Responses of Proactive Companies	51
6.3	Toward a Systemic Approach to Eco-efficient Industrialization in Thailand	55
	Bibliography	59
Figure 1:	Determinants of Systemic Competitiveness	1
Figure 2:	Selective Policies and Specialized Factors: Which Institutions and Orientations Constitute the Mesolevel?	11
Figure 3:	A Systemic Approach to the Promotion of Small and Large Firm Linkages	22
Figure 4:	Systemic Competitiveness: Obstacles in Paraguay	32
Figure 5:	Elements of a Systemic Competitiveness Strategy for Paraguay: Three Pillars of Industrial Development	36
Figure 6:	Elements of a Systemic Competitiveness Strategy: Sequence of the Formulation of a Sectoral Industrial Strategy	38
Figure 7:	Elements of a Systemic Competitiveness Strategy for Paraguay: Structure of Pilot Projects to Increase Firms' Competitiveness	38
Figure 8:	Elements of a Systemic Competitiveness Strategy for Paraguay: Attracting Foreign Direct Investment	40
Table 1:	A Swot Analysis of Industrial Development in Paraguay	35
Table 2:	Highly Advanced National Projects	46
Box 1:	Government Activity Calendar for Formulation of "Biotech 2000" Program	48