MULTIMEDIA AND HYPERTEXT

The Internet and Beyond

Jakob Nielsen
SunSoft
Mountain View, California

AP PROFESSIONAL
AP PROFESSIONAL is a division of Academic Press
Boston San Diego New York
London Sydney Tokyo Toronto

Contents

Preface ix
A Multitude of Hypertext and Multimedia xi
Acknowledgments xii

1. Defining Hypertext, Hypermedia, and Multimedia 1
Narrower Definitions of Hypertext 3
Hypermedia: Multimedia Hypertext 5
Hypertext and Regular Computer Applications 11
The Hype about Hypertext 14

2. An Example of a Hypertext System 19

3. The History of Hypertext 33
Memex (1945) 33
Augment/NLS (1962–1976) 36
Xanadu (1965) 37
Hypertext Editing System (1967) and FRESS (1968) 40
Aspen Movie Map (1978) 40
KMS (1983) 44
Hyperties (1983) 45
NoteCards (1985) 47
Symbolics Document Examiner (1985) 50
Intermedia (1985) 51
Guide (1986) 54
HyperCard (1987) 57
Hypertext Grows Up 62

4. Applications of Hypertext 67
Computer Applications 67
Business Applications 75
Intellectual Applications 90
Educational Applications 101
Entertainment and Leisure Applications 113
5. The Architecture of Hypertext Systems 131
Nodes 136
Links 138
Hypertext Engines 145
Open Hypertext 146
Integrating Hypertext Ideas into Other Environments 150
6. Hardware Support for Hypertext 153
Problems with the Computer Screen 153
Pointing Devices 157
Can Text-Only Computers Be Used for Hypertext? 159
CD-ROM as a Storage Device 160
7. Hypertext on the Internet 165
Accessing Hypertext Through the Internet 170
The World Wide Web and Mosaic 178
HTML 191
Hyper-G and Harmony 200
Half-Dead Hypertext and the Electronic Business Card 208
8. Coping with Information Overload 217
Information Retrieval 224
Human Editing 234
Interest Voting and Readwear 238
The n of 2*n* Approach 242
9. Navigating Large Information Spaces 247
Overview Diagrams 258
Navigational Dimensions and Metaphors 272
10. Hypertext Usability 279
Usability Parameters for Hypertext 280
Survey of Benchmark Research 285
Non-Benchmark Studies 300
The Larger Picture 307

11. Multimedia Authoring 309
Usability for Authors 310
Separate Interfaces for Writers 312
Cooperative Authoring 320
The Authority of the Author 321
12. Repurposing Existing Content 323
Conversion 324
The Manual of Medical Therapeutics 329
Oxford English Dictionary 330
13. The Future of Multimedia and Hypertext 333
What Happened to the Predictions from my Earlier Book? 337
Short-Term Future: Three to Five Years 338
Medium-Term Future: Five to Ten Years 342
Long-Term Future: Ten to Twenty Years 346
Hypermedia Publishing: Monopoly or Anarchy? 353
A Summary: Hypertext versus the Competition 360
Appendix: Annotated Bibliography 363
Surveys 363
Societies 364
Compendium 365
Conferences 365
Journals and Magazines 370
Videotapes 372
Books about the Internet 373
Classics 376
Alphabetical Listing of Papers and Books 377
Far Out Stuff 448
Index 451