4 PRICE LEVEL CHANGES95

General and Specific Prices, 95/ Abandonment of Historical Costs, 97/ Matching Current Costs Against Revenues, 98: Adjusted Lifo Method, 98; Accelerated Depreciation, 100/ Price Level—Index Adjustments, 101/ The Character of Assets and Equities, 102: Monetary Items, 102; Nonmonetary Items, 103/ Financial Statements and Index Conversions, 103/ The Price Level and Investment Policy, III/ Dividend Policy, III.

5 FINANCIAL STATEMENT ANALYSIS—RATE OF RETURN127

Applications of the Rate-of-Return Concept, 127/ Rate of Return—Assets, 128: Net Income, 129; The Asset Base, 130; Asset Turnover and Rate of Return, 131; Net Plant Assets, 133; Gross Plant Assets, 134; Annuity Method of Depreciation, 135; Annuity Method and Rate of Return, 137/ Leverage, 139/ Earnings and Market Value of Stock, 143: Price Earnings Ratio, 144; Book Value and Market Value, 145; Earnings and Dividends, 145.

6 FINANCIAL STATEMENT ANALYSIS—STATEMENT RELATIONSHIPS158

The Importance of Statement Analysis, 158/ The Element of Risk, 159/ Interlocking Data, 160/ Comparability, 160: Variations in Accounting Methods, 161; Variations in Estimates and Changes in Accounting Methods, 162/ Need for Use of Averages, 163/ Shortcomings of Financial Data, 164/ Common-Size Statements, 164/ Analysis of Trends, 167/ A Review of Earning Power, 168: Income Statement Relationships, 169; Return on Assets and Equities, 170/ Circulation of Current Assets and Current Liabilities, 170: Current Asset Turnover, 171; Current Ratio, 172; Acid Test Ratio, 172; Accounts Receivable Turnover, 173; Inventory Turnovers, 174/ The Equity Relationships, 175/ Net Income and Fixed Charges, 176/ An Evaluation of the Company, 177/ Short-Term Credit Planning, 178.

7 CHANGES IN NET WORKING CAPITAL AND FINANCIAL POSITION196

Flow Statements, 196/ The Significance of Net Working Capital Flows, 201/ A Statement of Changes in Net Working Capital, 202/ Net Working Capital Flows, 203: Sources of Net Working Capital, 205; Uses of Net Working Capital, 206/ A Comprehensive Illustration—Sources and Uses of Net Working Capital, 207/ The Demand for Net Working Capital, 213.

8 A STATEMENT OF CASH RECEIPTS AND DISBURSEMENTS 231

Cash Flow Analysis and Net Working Capital Analysis Compared, 232/
Cash and Operations, 233: A Summary Analysis, 234; A Detailed Analysis, 236/ A Comprehensive Illustration, 236/ The Value of Cash Analysis, 242.

PART II—OPERATIONS PLANNING AND CONTROL9 COST CONCEPTS OF PLANNING AND CONTROL 258

Costs, 258: Period Costs, 259; Product Costs, 259; Cost Accounting
Beyond the Manufacturing Area, 260; Cost Transitions, 260; The Cost
Elements, 261; The Costing Procedure, 262; Fixed and Variable Costs, 262; The Troublesome Fixed Costs, 263/ Costs and Control, 265: Direct and Indirect Costs, 265; Controllable and Noncontrollable Costs, 266/
Responsibility Accounting, 267: Cost Reports, 267; Control Features, 270/
Costs and Planning, 271: Differential Costs, 272; Sunk Costs, 273; Opportunity Costs, 275; An Illustration of Decision-Making Costs, 275.

10 ESTIMATING AND CONTROLLING COSTS 288

Technique of Cost Estimation, 288/ Cost Segregation, 289: The High-Low
Point Method, 289; The Line of Regression, 290; Least Squares, 291; *Control
Limits*, 293; Graphic Presentation, 296/ Correlation, 296/ Multiple Regression, 299/ An Optimum Solution, 299/ Sensitivity Analysis, 303.

11 ACCOUNTING FOR PRODUCT COSTS 311

The Job Order Cost System, 311: Costing Direct Materials and Direct Labor, 312; Costing the Manufacturing Overhead, 312; Normal Capacity, 315/ A Job Order Cost Illustration, 316/ The Process Cost System, 319:
The Departmental Production Report, 320; A Process Cost Flow, 321; The Equivalent Unit Concept, 322; The Cost Elements, 323/ Process Cost Illustrated, 324: A Quantity Report, 324; The Unit Costs, 325; A Cost Report, 326/ Process Cost Accounting Problems, 326: Joint Product Costing, 327;
The Product Mix Decision, 328.

12 CONTROL: MATERIALS AND LABOR 343

The Acquisition of Materials, 343: Purchase Discounts, 344; Additions to Materials Costs, 344; The Inventory Level, 346; Balancing Order and Storage
Costs, 347; Shipping Routes, 349; Materials in Production, 351; Standard
Costs, 352; Materials Price Variance, 352; Materials Quantity Variance, 353/
Labor Cost Control, 355: Additions to Labor Costs, 355; Incentives, 356/
The Use of Standards, 358/ Advantages of Standard Cost Accounting, 359:
The Quality of Standards, 360/ Revising the Standards, 362: Labor Price
Variance, 363; Labor Efficiency or Quantity Variance, 364/ Summary of Variances, 365.

13 CONTROL: OVERHEAD375

The Manufacturing Overhead Budget, 375/ The Overhead Variance and Cost Control, 377: The Budget or Spending Variance, 377; The Efficiency Variance, 377; A Variance Report by Cost Classification, 378/ A Standard Cost System for Product Costing, 378: The Capacity Variance, 379; Summary of Overhead Variances, 381/ Plant Utilization, 381/ A Standard Cost Illustration, 383/ Nonmanufacturing Costs, 387.

14 VARIABLE COSTING400

The Concept of Variable Costing, 401/ Absorption and Variable Costing Compared, 402/ A Balance of Sales and Production, 404/ Sales and Production Out of Balance, 405/ Emphasis on Production or Sales, 408/ The Advantages of Variable Costing, 410/ The Disadvantages of Variable Costing, 411/ Variable Costing in Planning and Decision Making, 411/ Variable Costing and Budget Variances, 413.

15 COST-VOLUME-PROFIT RELATIONSHIPS425

Break-Even Analysis, 425: The Break-Even Chart, 426; Cost Detail on the Break-Even Chart, 428; Curvature of Revenue and Cost Lines, 428; An Alternative Form of Break-Even Analysis, 430/ The Profit-Volume Graph, 432: Sales Volume, 433; The Variable Costs, 433; Price Policy, 435; The Fixed Costs, 438; Changes in the Sales Mix, 439/ Short-Term and Long-Term Plans, 442: Sharing Cost Savings with Customers, 442; Passing Cost Increases to Customers, 433/ Planning Future Profits, 445.

PART III—LONG-RANGE PLANNING16 COSTS AND MANAGERIAL DECISIONS*455

Quantitative Analysis in Decision Making, 455: Decision Making—A Process of Abstraction, 456; Relaxing the Assumptions and Changing the Parameters—The Power of Experimentation, 458/ Relevant Cost Data for Decision Making, 460/ Costs and Decisions—An Illustration, 460/ Opportunity Cost, 461/ Combination Decisions, 462: Process or Sell, 462; Product Combinations, 463; Two Products, No Constraints, 464; Two Products, One Constraint, 464; Two Products, Many Constraints, 466; Many Products, Many Constraints, 468; Make or Buy Decision, 470/ Curtailment Decisions, 472: The Elimination of a Product Line, 472; Temporary Shutdown, 474.

17 THE PRICING DECISION486

The Economics of the Price Decision, 487/ Limitations of the Marginal Analysis Model, 492/ Price Based on Full Cost, 494: The Fixed Cost Problem, 495; The Allocation Problem, 497; The Basis of Allocation, 498; Adjusting the Full Cost, 498; The Wide Acceptance of Full Cost Pricing, 499/ Variable Cost Pricing, 500: Distress and Special-Order Pricing, 500; Regular Products, 502/ Outside Influences on Price, 503.

18 THE CAPITAL INVESTMENT DECISION514

The Investment Problem, 514/ Factors in the Investment Decision, 515: The Net Investment, 515; The Net Returns, 516; The Lowest Acceptable Rate of Return, 516/ Rating the Investment Alternatives, 517: The Payback Method, 517; The Discounted Rate-of-Return Method, 518; The Excess Present Value Method, 520/ Refining the Investment, 520: The Avoidable Costs, 521; Additional Investment in Current Assets, 521; The Net Proceeds from the Sale of Other Properties, 522/ Depreciation and Income Taxes, 524/ Accelerated Depreciation, 525/ Incremental Returns, 527/ A Graphic Solution, 529/ The Evaluation Process, 530/ The Post Audit, 530.

19 THE CONTROL OF DECENTRALIZED OPERATIONS542

The Criteria Needed for a Control System, 543/ The Profit Index, 545: Division Net Profit, 546; Division Direct Profit, 547; Division Controllable Profit, 547; Division Contribution Margin, 548/ Some Problems in Using Division Controllable Profit as an Evaluation Index, 549/ Determining Division Investment, 550/ The Intracompany or Transfer Pricing Problem, 553: Market Price, 554; Negotiated or Bargained Market Price, 555; Transfer Prices Based on Cost, 557/ Transfer Prices for Decision Making—A System of Information and Communication, 557: The Intermediate Market Case, 559; The No Intermediate Market Case, 563/ The Evaluation Criterion or Standard, 564.

20 BUDGETS—SALES AND PRODUCTION578

The Advantages of Budgets, 579/ The Scope of Budgeting, 580: Project or Product Budgets, 580; The Human Factor, 581; Master Budget Plan, 581/ The Budget Period, 582/ The Timing Concept, 583/ Preparation of the Budgets, 584/ Sales Forecasting and the Sales Budget, 585/ Profit Estimation, 587/ The Sales Budget Illustrated, 589/ Sales and Production, 591/ Inventories and Production, 592/ The Production Budget Illustrated, 593.

21 THE COORDINATED BUDGET598

Budget Relationships, 598/ The Manufacturing Cost Budget, 600: The Direct Materials Budget, 600; The Purchases Budget, 601; The Direct Labor Budget, 602; The Manufacturing Overhead Budget, 604/ The Selling Expense Budget, 606/ The General and Administrative Expense Budget, 607/ The Capital Budget, 609/ The Cash Receipts Budget, 610/ The Cash Payments Budget, 611/ Financial Planning, 613/ The Estimated Income Statement, 615/ The Estimated Balance Sheet, 616/ Working Papers, 617/ The Use of Budgets, 619.
