

THE CAPITALIST IMPERATIVE

Territory, Technology, and Industrial Growth

Michael Storper and Richard Walker

Basil Blackwell

Contents

Preface	ix
Introduction	1
1. The Inconstant Geography of Capitalism	6
1.0 Geographical industrialization	6
1.1 Expansion	10
1.2 Differentiation	19
1.3 Instability	24
1.4 The need for an alternative theoretical framework	34
2. Industrialization as Disequilibrium Growth	36
2.0 The production of growth	36
2.1 Investment and growth	40
2.2 The two faces of competition	44
2.3 Technological change and industrialization	50
2.4 Price and profit in a dynamic setting	58
2.5 The rhythms of growth	66
3. How Industries Produce Regions	70
3.0 The spatial dynamics of industry growth	70
3.1 Accelerated growth and locational windows	70
3.2 Returns to scale and the development of territorial growth centers	76
3.3 Dispersal of established industries	83
3.4 Restructuring and shifting centers of industry	90
3.5 The production of regional resources	94
3.6 Conclusion	97
4. Technological Change and Geographical Industrialization	99
4.0 Introduction	99
4.1 Practice, structure, and technology	100

4.2	Localization, clustering, and the mastery of technology	106
4.3	Place-specific innovation and the rise of new industry centers	114
4.4	Technology and industrial dispersal	118
4.5	Conclusion	123
5.	The Territorial Organization of Production	125
5.0	A unified approach to organization and location	125
5.1	The organization of production	126
5.2	Territorial production complexes	138
5.3	Dynamics of territorial organization	144
6.	Labor – The Politics of Place and Workplace	154
6.0	The labor “factor” in location	154
6.1	The unique character of labor supplies	155
6.2	Labor demand: payment, performance, and control	158
6.3	The employment relation	166
6.4	The geographical dynamics of employment relations	175
6.5	Conclusion: the inconstant spatial division of industrial labor	181
7.	The Process of Territorial Development	183
7.0	Industrialization and regional growth	183
7.1	The expansion of new territorial complexes	184
7.2	The redevelopment of old cores	189
7.3	Waves of territorial industrialization	199
7.4	Conclusion: geographical industrialization and territorial growth	208
8.	Economy, Society, Territory	210
8.0	Introduction	210
8.1	The macroeconomics of the territorial division of labor	210
8.2	Territorial industrialization and class relations	216
8.3	Conclusion: the geographical constitution of society	226
	Bibliography	228
	Names Index	265
	Subject Index	267