

CONTEXTUALIZING THE MUSLIM OTHER IN MEDIEVAL
CHRISTIAN DISCOURSE

Edited by

Jerold C. Frakes

palgrave
macmillan

CONTENTS

|   |     |
|---|-----|
| Foreword   | xi  |
| 1. Medieval Miscegenation: Hybridity and the Anxiety of InheritanceLynn Ramey  | 1   |
| 2. Celts Seen as Muslims and Muslims Seen by Celts in Medieval LiteratureMatthieu Boyd   | 21  |
| 3. Prester John, Christian Enclosure, and the Spatial Transmission of Islamic Alterity in the Twelfth-Century WestChristopher Taylor | 39  |
| 4. Mapping the Muslims: Images of Islam in Middle High German Literature of the Thirteenth CenturyDavid F. Tinsley                   | 65  |
| 5. Conflicted Coexistence: Christian-Muslim Interaction and Its Representation in Medieval ArmeniaSergio La Porta                    | 103 |
| 6. Don Quijote Attacks His Muslim Other: The Maese Pedro Episode of Don QuijoteBaltasar Fra-Molinero                          | 125 |
| 7. From Medieval to Modern: The Myth of Kosovo, "The Turks," and Montenegro (A Lacanian Interpretation)Zdenko Zlatar                 | 139 |

|                             |     |
|-----------------------------|-----|
| Afterword                   | 171 |
| John Tolan           |     |
| List of Contributors | 179 |
| Index                | 181 |