

Cultures of Secrecy

REINVENTING RACE IN
BUSH KALIAI CARGO CULTS

Andrew Lattas

THE UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN PRESS

Contents

Preface	xi
Introduction	xxi
Reanalyzing Cargo Cults	xxvii
Toward a Black Theology in Melanesia	xxxii
1. Traditional Bush Kaliai Society and the Arrival of Oi Waitskin	3
Gender Relations and Social Organization	8
The Symbolism of Gender, Exchange, and Moieties	10
A Brief History of Contact	15
First Perceptions of Europeans	21
Recent Church History	24
Gardens, Bodies, and Politics	26
2. The Early History of Cargo Cults in the Kaliai Area	31
The Japanese and the Batari Cult	32
Intersecting Forms of Mimesis	37
Women and the Batari Cult's Militarization of Men's Cults	40
The Madness of Mimesis	43
Swapping Souls and Bodies	46
Names, Coincidences, and Truth	48
Tigi: Policing the Police	51
Koriam: Politics, Money, and Trickery	58
Aikele: Development and Narratives of Transgression	65
God Goes to America	75
Titikolo: The Kaliai Trickster God	80
Akono: The Rubbishman and The Power of a Dirty Skin	85
Censure's Cult	88
Domesticating the Landscape	95

3. Punishment and Utopia: Death, Cargo Cult Narratives, and the Politics of the Underground	97
Toward a History of Heaven in Melanesia	99
Identity and Geography	101
Death and Cargo Cults	102
Prayers at Graves and the Resurrection of Money	104
Mailing Letters to the Dead	107
Losing Control of the Space of Death	110
The Meitavale Cult: Women and the Creation of New Geographies	119
Spirit Beings and the New Laws of Existence	122
Schooling the Underground	129
Straightening the Dead	133
The Politics of Space	145
Intersecting Spaces, Intersecting Narratives	146
The Space of Death and the Space of Creativity	149
4. Race, Gender, and Geographies of Guilt: Christianity and Kaliai Myths of Matriarchy	152
The Femaleness of the Earth and of Creation	152
Men Outraged by Women's Claim to Power	160
Catholic Church Representations of Christ	162
The Queen and Kaliai Myths of Matriarchy	163
Gentility, Civilization, and the Feminine	164
The Mothers in the Earth Who Need to Be Straightened	167
5. Sexuality, Reproduction, and the Utopia of Mirror Worlds	176
The Schooling of Women	180
Telephoning Christ	181
The Reproductive Powers of Women in the Earth	185
Mother Earth	188
Underground Desires	189
Producing a New Line of People Through the Underground	195
Bringing the Underground to the Surface	198
6. Androgynous Imagery, Sexuality, and the Procreative Powers of the Imagination	202
Koriam and the Feminization of Men	206
Censure and the Process of Becoming Woman	208
Melo: Becoming White and Male	218
Imokeh's Sexuality	226

7. Mimesis, Transgression, and the Raising of White Children	232
Mimesis and the Body of the White Man in Malour's Cult	238
Miming Whites Through One's Children: The Mapilu Cult	244
Blood and the Disciplining of Women's Bodies	253
Mimesis and Cargo	259
Miming What Whites Want to Hear: Subjectifying the World of Spirituality	261
Colonialism, Mimesis, and Processes of Becoming	266
8. Kaliai Cargo Cults and the New Tribes Mission	271
Satan and Hell in the Kaliai Area	273
Cargo Cults and the New Tribes Mission	277
Sin and the Past	281
Cargo Cults Try to Appropriately the New Tribes Mission	284
Remembering the Past	290
Christianity and Paradoxes of Memory	291
Subversion from Within	293
The Magic of Crucifixions	296
Living with the Dead Through Photographs	298
The New Gods on Earth	302
Development, Christianity, and Regional Forms of Nationalism	304
Individuation and the New Tribes Mission	308
Christian Hegemony and What It Means to Eat off One's Host	311
Notes	319
Select Glossary of Frequently Used Melanesian Pisin and Mouk Terms	339
Bibliography	343
Index	353