

Science and Necessity

John Bigelow

La Trobe University

Robert Pargetter

Monash University

Cambridge University Press

Cambridge

New York Port Chester Melbourne Sydney

Contents

Preface	page vii
List of symbols	x
1 Realism and truth	1
1.1 Scientific Platonism	1
1.2 Scientific realism	2
1.3 Metaphysical realism	8
1.4 Modal realism	15
1.5 Semantic realism	21
1.6 Realism misconstrued	33
2 Quantities	38
2.1 A hierarchy of universals	38
2.2 Sets: who needs them?	44
2.3 Same yet different	48
2.4 Determinates and determinables	51
2.5 Relational theories	55
2.6 Vectors and change	62
2.7 Structural universals	82
3 Modal language and reality	93
3.1 Rules and reference	93
3.2 Modal axiomatics	102
3.3 Modal semantics	120
3.4 Completeness, correspondence, and realism	131
3.5 Extensions	140
3.6 Probability	147
3.7 Higher-order quantifiers and metaphysical realism	159
4 Modal ontology	165
4.1 Taxonomy of modal realisms	165

4.2	Against modalism	172
4.3	Complete books	176
4.4	Against replicas	182
4.5	World properties	203
5	Laws of nature	214
5.1	Laws as necessities	214
5.2	Relative necessities	223
5.3	Regularity theories	227
5.4	The modal theory	245
5.5	The logic of nomic necessity	258
6	Causation	263
6.1	Accessibility, causation, and necessity	263
6.2	Neither necessary nor sufficient conditions	267
6.3	Causal talk	275
6.4	The Hume world and causation	279
6.5	Forces and causes	282
6.6	Explaining some details and detailing some explanations	286
7	Explanation	295
7.1	How and why	295
7.2	Laws and explanation	299
7.3	Causing and tracking	310
7.4	Functional explanation	323
7.5	Realism and explanation	341
8	Mathematics in science	346
8.1	Mathematical realism	346
8.2	Numbers as relations	352
8.3	Ratios and the continuum	358
8.4	Equations and sets	363
8.5	Sets as universals	366
8.6	Mathematical reflexivity	376
8.7	Abstractions and explanations	380
8.8	Mathematics and modality	383
	Coda: scientific Platonism	387
	Bibliography	389
	General index	399
	Index of examples, illustrations, and stories	409