

Culture and the politics of Third World nationalism

Dawa Norbu

London and New York

Contents

List of figures	x
List of tables	xi
Preface: field experience and social theory	xiii
1 Introduction: western concepts and non-western realities	1
The structure of Third World nationalism	1
A critique of the Eurocentric theory of nationalism	5
Methodology for voluntaristic theory	13
Some correlates of the Third World concept	18
2 Towards a new definition of Third World nationalism	22
An examination of existing concepts	22
A sociological definition of nationalism	25
3 The stages of proto-nationalism: tribalism, ethnicity and patriotism	31
Integration, involvement and consciousness	31
Political evolution and concomitant types of social consciousness	33
Patriotism and nationalism differentiated	37
Political feudalism and state formation in the Third World	42
4 Social structure of the nation: the ordering principle of national attributes	47
Cohesive properties of nationhood	47
Race and language as means of cultural differentiation	49
Society and nation	52
The pattern of nation formation in the Third World	58
5 The evolution of religious sects and the emergence of national identities	64
Religion's potential for complex culture formation	64
National identity in the context of multiple identities	71

The domestication of world religions and the origins of national identities	76
The sacralization of race and territory: clues to emotionalism in nationalism	81
6 Modern nationalism and egalitarian ideology	88
National consciousness	88
Traditional and modern nationalisms differentiated	91
Intellectual mobilization and the diffusion of political consciousness in society	99
Imperialism and the objectification of social self-hood	102
7 The politics of nationalism: mass mobilization, linguistic transformation and nationalist movements	108
Mass politics	108
Social carriers of nationalist ideas	111
Linguistic transformation and social communication	115
The state and national economy	117
Nationalist and social movements differentiated	126
8 The mechanism of mass mobilization: symbol manipulation and identity assertion	130
Brahminic symbols and Hindu nationalism	131
'The true Muslim' myth and Jihad in Arab nationalism	135
Uncertain counterracialism in African nationalism	140
Territoriality and power in Han nationalism	145
Peasant culture and mass nationalism	152
9 Nationalism as social power: restructuring egalitarian systems	157
Social origins of political power	157
Fascist tendency in the structure of nationalism: race	161
Nationalism's normative legacy: freedom and equality	163
State nationalism and regional organization	174
10 The monoethnic state and polyethnic social system: the rise of ethnic nationalism	181
Ethnic groups and nationalism	181
Ethnic identity and the monoethnic state	187
National integration and the rise of ethnic nationalism	196
The 'modernization' of ethnicity	200
Social prerequisites of ethnic nationalism	205

11 Conclusion: cultural differentiation and political rationalization	210
Dual tendencies in nationalism	210
The paradigm and prediction	221
12 Epilogue: the rise of Slavic nationalisms and the collapse of transnational ideocracy	228
The collapse of transnational ideocracy	228
The Nature of Slavic nationalism	231
Tradition in the family	235
Russofication and non-Russian identities	236
References	240
Index	248