

Afro-Brazilians

Cultural Production in a Racial Democracy

Niyi Afolabi

UNIVERSITY OF ROCHESTER PRESS

Contents

Notes on Yoruba Orthography	viii
Preface	ix
Acknowledgments	xi
Introduction: Negotiating Cultural Production in a Racial Democracy	1
1 Two Faces of Racial Democracy	22
2 Quilombhoje as a Cultural Collective	51
3 Beyond the Curtains: Unveiling Afro-Brazilian Women Writers	80
4 (Un)Broken Linkages	108
5 The Tropicalist Legacy of Gilberto Gil	127
6 Afro-Brazilian Carnival	151
7 Film and Fragmentation	169
8 Ancestrality and the Dynamics of Afro-Modernity	193
9 The Forerunners of Afro-Modernity	207
10 (Un)Transgressed Tradition	239
11 Ancestrality, Memory, and Citizenship	267
12 Quilombo without Frontiers	302
13 Ancestral Motherhood of Leci Brandão	357
Conclusion: The Future of Afro-Brazilian Cultural Production	376
Notes	381
Bibliography	397
Index	417