

A User's Guide
to
German Cultural Studies

Edited by
SCOTT DENHAM,
IRENE KACANDES, and
JONATHAN PETROPOULOS

Ann Arbor

THE UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN PRESS

Contents

Preface	xi
Part 1. Why German Cultural Studies?	1
Chapter 1. German Cultural Studies: What Is at Stake?	3
Irene Kacandes
Part 2. What Is German Cultural Studies?	29
Chapter 2. Interrogating Germanness: What's Literature Got to Do with It	31
Angelika Bammer
Chapter 3. Who's Afraid of Cultural Studies? Taking a "Cultural Turn" in German History	45
David F. Crew
Chapter 4. Multiculturalism and the Study of German Literature	63
Arlene A. Teraoka
Chapter 5. Cultural Studies and Foreign Policy in a Strategic Alliance, or Why Presidents of the United States Should Learn German	79
Jeffrey M. Peck
Part 3. Who Practices German Cultural Studies?	91
Chapter 6. Learning to Stop Hating Germans: The Challenge of Journalistic Objectivity	93
Deidre Berger
Chapter 7. Born Later: On Being a German Germanist in America	113
Christian Rogowski
Chapter 8. Asking the Questions/Telling a Story	127
Norma Claire Moruzzi
Part 4. What Was "German" in the Past?	137
Chapter 9. Bach Revival, Public Culture, and National Identity: The St. Matthew Passion in 1829	139
Celia Applegate

Chapter 10. A Nation for the Masses: Production of German Identity in the Late-Nineteenth-Century Popular Press Kirsten Belgum	163
Chapter 11. Consumer Culture Is in Need of Attention: German Cultural Studies and the Commercialization of the Past Alon Confino	181
Chapter 12. Colonial Legends, Postcolonial Legacies Susanne Zantop	189
Part 5. What Is “German” Now?	207
Chapter 13. “Seit die Juden weg sind . . .”: Germany, History, and Representations of Absence Omer Bartov	209
Chapter 14. Schinkel and the Politics of German Memory: The Life of the Neue Wache in Berlin Wallis Miller	227
Chapter 15. Stones Set Upright in the Winds of Controversy: An Austrian Monument against War and Fascism John Czaplicka	257
Chapter 16. Economic Influences on Constructions of German Identity Robert Mark Spaulding	287
Chapter 17. Living with Which Past? National Identity in Post-Wall, Postwar Germany Laurence McFalls	297
Chapter 18. Dis-Membering the Past: The Politics of Memory in the German Borderland Daphne Berdahl	309
Chapter 19. How American Is It? The United States as Queer Utopia in the Cinema of Monika Treut Gerd Gemünden	333
Part 6. How Do We Mediate the German Case to the Public?	355
Chapter 20. The Future of Auschwitz: A Case for the Ruins Michael R. Marrus	357
Chapter 21. The First Draft: Writing History for the General Public Timothy W. Ryback	367

Chapter 22. Who Owns the Past? The Surrender of the Berlin Document Center Geoffrey J. Giles	377
Part 7. Teaching German Cultural Studies	389
Chapter 23. Translation in Cultural Mediation and Pedagogy A. Leslie Willson	391
Chapter 24. Cultural Studies, the Eighteenth Century, and the Uses of the German Classics Burkhard Henke	399
Chapter 25. Interdisciplinary Teaching with the Case Study Method Louis L. Ortmyer	417
Chapter 26. Teaching Students and Teachers of German Cultural Studies Richard M. Hunt	431
Chapter 27. The Pragmatics of Studying the “German” at the Turn of the Century Sander L. Gilman	439
Part 8. Tools	449
Chapter 28. “How to . . .” Classroom Handouts	451
A. How to Read a Poem (Judith Ryan)	452
B. How to View a Building (Wallis Miller and Scott Denham)	456
C. How to View a Film (Gerd Gemünden)	458
D. How to Listen to Western Music (Jean H. Leventhal)	461
E. How to View a Painting (Jonathan Petropoulos)	464
F. How to Read a Play (Christian Rogowski)	467
G. How to View Performance (Heidi Gilpin)	469
H. How to Read a Novel (Scott Denham and Irene Kacandes)	474
I. How to Read History (Omer Bartov)	477
J. How to Read Statistics (Laurence McFalls)	479
K. How to Use an Archive (Geoffrey J. Giles)	483
Chapter 29. German Cultural Studies Course Syllabi: Sources and Examples	489
A. German Studies and the General Culture Course: The Stanford Curriculum (Russell A. Berman)	491
B. Culture and Society in Weimar and Nazi Germany: Harvard University Core Program (Richard M. Hunt)	497

C. The Rapprochement of History and Anthropology in Germany (University of Chicago) (Daphne Berdahl and Drew Bergerson)	502
D. Survivors, Victims, and Perpetrators: The Literature of the Holocaust (University of Texas at Austin) (Irene Kacandes)	508
Chapter 30. German Cultural Studies and the Internet Daniel E. Rogers	515
Chapter 31. Practicing German Cultural Studies	521
A. Directories, Resources, Journals	521
B. Funding and Agencies	522
Chapter 32. Selected, Annotated Bibliographies on German Cultural Studies and on Cultural Studies in General	529
Notes on Contributors	537
Index	545