

CITIZENS WITHOUT SOVEREIGNTY

EQUALITY AND SOCIABILITY IN FRENCH THOUGHT, 1670-1789

Daniel Gordon

PRINCETON UNIVERSITY PRESS

PRINCETON, NEW JERSEY

CONTENTS

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS vii

Introduction 3

1

Absolutism and the Ideal Types of Sociability 9

The Well-Policed State 9

Sociability and Democracy 24

Five Ideal Types 33

2

The Language of Sociability 43

The Enlightenment as a Lexicon 43

Historical Semantics 48

The Rise of "Society" 51

The Concept of Latent Sociability in Natural Law 54

The Amalgamation of Natural Law and Politeness 61

Self-Centered Cosmopolitanism 73

The Religion of Society 76

3

The Civilizing Process Revisited 86

The Varieties of Civility 86

The Rules of Irrelevance 94

The Public Sphere in Apolitical Form 107

The Douceur of the Gentleman 116

Politeness and the Lineage of the Enlightenment 126

4

Sociability and Universal History: Jean-Baptiste Suard and the Scottish Enlightenment in France 129

Universal History 129

France and the Scottish Enlightenment 133

Storm over Suard 137

The Virtues of Being Lazy 141

Ossian: The Savage Poet 145

Robertson: The Progress of Refinement 150

Hume: The Elimination of Politics 160

vi CONTENTS

5

André Morellet and the End of the Enlightenment 177

Form versus Substance 177

The Rules of Criticism 182

The Quest for Integration 189

Public Opinion and Civility 199

The Philosophy of Grain 208

Revolution and the New Liberalism 226

Conclusion 242

SELECT BIBLIOGRAPHY 247

INDEX 267