

The Atlantic Alliance and the Middle East

Edited by Joseph I. Coffey

Distinguished Service Professor Emeritus of Public and International Affairs University of Pittsburgh

and Gianni Bonvicini

*Director
Istituto Affari Internazionali
Rome*

M
MACMILLAN PRESS

Contents

Notes on the Contributors	viii
Preface	xi
1 Out-of-Area Issues: A New Challenge to the Atlantic Alliance	1
Gianni Bonvicini
I Out-of-Area: A History Which Starts with the Signing of the North Atlantic Treaty	2
II Out-of-Area Experiences	4
III The Middle East and the Out-of-Area Issue	12
2 Levels of Conflict in the Middle East	17
Richard W. Cottam
I The Intra-State Level of Conflict	17
II The Inter-Regime Level of Conflict	27
III Conflict at the Level of the International System	45
IV Trends in the Bases of Conflict in the Middle East	58
V Applications to the Future	66
3 The Uses of Force in the Middle East	73
Anthony H. Cordesman
I Forces in, and Available for Deployment to, the Middle East	74
II Using and Supporting Western Power Projection Capabilities	104
III Regional Scenarios for the Use of Force	117
IV Libya: A Case Study of Counter-Terrorist Operations	128
V The Forces of Military Change	136
VI Issues But No Answers	141

4	Do-it-Yourself: The National Approach to the Out-of-Area Question	147
	Maurizio Cremasco
	I The Political Framework	148
	II National Positions on the Out-of-Area Question	157
	III Western Forces in Yesterday's Crises	171
	IV The Limits to Western Action	186
5	Political Perceptions and Military Responses to Out-of-Area Challenges	193
	Reinhardt Rummel
	I Factors Influencing Policy on the Use of Force	194
	II Assessment of the Nature and Scope of the Threat	198
	III Public Opinion and the Use of Force in the Middle East	204
	IV Military Forces as a Regional Deterrent Factor	206
	V Public Opinion in Previous Cases of the Use of Force	209
	VI Organising the Western Response	215
	VII The Limits to Consensus	218
6	Multilateral Coordination of Out-of-Area Activities	227
	Geoffrey Edwards
	I Bilateral and Multilateral Approaches to Coordination	229
	II The European Community	233
	III The European Political Cooperation	237
	IV The Western European Union	240
	V The Atlantic Alliance	242
	VI The Western Economic Summits	251
	VII Multinational Coordination in Past Crises	253
	VIII Towards More Effective Cooperation	259
7	Conclusions and Recommendations	268
	Joseph I. Coffey
	I Western Interests in the Middle East	269

II	Threats to Western Interests	270
III	The Uses of Force: An Overview	272
IV	Reconciling National Approaches	273
V	Agreeing on Responses	278
VII	Organising for Decision Making	281
VIII	Controlling Military Operations	284
IX	Lessons From the Past	286
X	Applications to the Future	291
XI	'To Do or Not To Do . . .'	301
XII	What To Do?	303
	Index	308