

Multinationals and the Growth of The Singapore Economy

HAFIZ MIRZA

CROOM HELM
London & Sydney

CONTENTS

PAGE

Tables, Maps and Figures

Dedication

Preface

Chapters

One	INTRODUCTION	1
	An Internationalised Economy	2
	General Characteristics of Foreign Investment	5
	Concluding Remarks	14
	Notes	15
Two	THE POLITICS OF ECONOMIC TRANSFORMATION : AN HISTORICAL OVERVIEW	22
	Early History	23
	From Insurrection to Independence	26
	The People's Action Party	27
	The Winsemius Mission	29
	The Federation of Malaysia	33
	Miracle by Design	35
	The Taming of the Unions	38
	International Relations and World-Wide Sourcing	40
	The Creation of a Garrison State	48
	The Role of the State	49
	Towards a Second Industrial Revolution	58
	Singapore as an International Business Centre	62
	Education and Training	65
	The Japanisation Programme	66
	The Plan for the Eighties : an Initial Assessment	69

Contents

	Concluding Remarks	72
	Notes	75
Three	MULTINATIONAL ENTERPRISE IN THE MANUFACTURING SECTOR	83
	Free Zones and the Investment Climate	83
	Foreign Investment and the Growth of The Manufacturing Sector	94
	The Productivity and Profitability of Foreign Firms	101
	The Relative Contribution of Indigenous and Foreign Firms to Singapore's Manufacturing Sector	104
	Foreign Capital Dominated Industries	105
	Local Capital Dominated Industries	108
	Concluding Remarks : The Significance of State Owned Enterprises	109
	Notes	111
Four	THE ROLE OF MULTINATIONAL COMPANIES IN BANKING, FINANCE AND THE SERVICES	120
	Banking and Finance	123
	The Monetary Authority of Singapore	124
	The Overall Expansion of Financial Services	126
	Commercial Banks	129
	Asian Currency Units and the Asiacurrency Market	136
	Merchant Banks and the Asiabond Market	140
	Insurance Companies	145
	The Interbank Market and Simex	147
	Singapore as an International Financial Centre : The Competitors	149
	Manila, Sydney and Taipei	150
	Tokyo	151
	Hong Kong	152
	Other Producer Services	154
	Distributive Services	166
	Social and Personal Services	166
	Concluding Remarks	177
	Notes	180

Contents

Five	SINGAPORE AND THE EMERGING INTERNATIONAL ECONOMIC ORDER	190
	Peripheral Intermediation and the Emerging International Economic Order	192
	Singapore as an Intermediate Economy	203
	ASEAN	209
	The Pacific Community	214
	Intermediation in Selected Industries	221
	Concluding Remarks	244
	Notes	245
Six	THE FUTURE OF SINGAPORE	256
	Singapore and the Multinationals	256
	Technology and Skill Transfer	257
	Vertical Linkages and Competitive Effects	260
	Towards Disintermediation	262
	The PAP and the Populace	264
	Singapore and ASEAN	271
	Concluding Remarks	273
	Notes	273
	SELECT BIBLIOGRAPHY	280
	INDEX AND GLOSSARY OF ACRONYMS	285