

Tropicalizations

Transcultural Representations of Latinidad

Edited by Frances R. Aparicio and Susana Chávez-Silverman

Dartmouth College

Published by University Press of New England

Hanover and London

Contents

Acknowledgments	vii
Frances R. Aparicio and Susana Chávez-Silverman Introduction	I
I. Tropical Refractions: Latinidad under the Dominant Gaze
Beatriz Urraca — A Textbook of Americanism: Richard Harding Davis's Soldiers of Fortune	21
Stephen Benz Through the Tropical Looking Glass: The Motif of Resistance in U.S. Literature on Central America	51
Debra A. Castillo The Tropics of the Imagination: "Quetzalcoatl and All That"	67
II. In the Heat of the Night: Sexuality (South) of the Border
Susana Chávez-Silverman Tropicalada: Inside the U.S. Latino/a Gender B(l)ender	101
David Román Tropical Fruit	119
III. Relocating Hegemony: Tropicalizing Cuba from the United States
María Teresa Marrero Historical and Literary Santería : Unveiling Gender and Identity in U.S. Cuban Literature	139

Silvia Spitta Transculturation, the Caribbean, and the Cuban-American Imaginary	160
--	-----

IV. Si(gh)ting Latinidad: Tropicalized Cultural Locations

Juan Flores The Latino Imaginary: Dimensions of Community and Identity	183
Frances R. Aparicio On Sub-Versive Signifiers: Tropicalizing Language in the United States	194
Juan León Tropical Overexposure: Miami's "Sophisticated Tropics" and the Balseiro	213
Notes on Contributors	229