

Toward World Prosperity

Reshaping the Global Money System

by

IRVING S. FRIEDMAN

Lexington Books

D.C. Heath and Company • Lexington, Massachusetts • Toronto

Contents

Prologue ix

PART I

Introduction and Statement of the Problem

1. Introduction 3
2. Breakdown of the System: Unresolved Issues 7
3. The World Economy and the Mixed International Financial System 15

PART II

Sources of International Finance

4. International Banking: Conceptions and Misconceptions 33
An International Loan: What It Is 33 • What Constitutes International Debt 34 • Risks in Lending 35 • Special Risks in International Lending and Offsets 38 • Repayment of Loans and Reduction of Debt 41 • The "What If" Syndrome 46 • Domino and Imitation Effects: A Lender's Perspective 51 • Over the Barrel: Debtor versus Lender 55 • Domino and Imitation Effects: A Borrower's Perspective 57 • The Umbrella Concept 63 • Concluding Remarks 66
5. Other Sources of International Finance 73
The International Monetary Fund 73 • International Capital Markets for Debt and Equity 80 • Official Development Assistance: Bilateral and Multilateral Aid 90 • Export Credit Agencies 96

PART III

The International Debt Problem

6. Origins of the Debt Crisis of the 1980s 103
 Setting and Theme 103 • Historical Experience with Lending and Crises 109 • Commercial Bank Lending amid the Shocks of the 1970s 117 • The Onset of the Current Crisis: What Went Wrong? 123
7. Responses to the Crisis 131
 External Debt 131 • Mexico and Brazil 133 • Borrowing Countries and Banks 136 • The Spread of Debt Restructuring 141 • The Changed Role of the International Monetary Fund 145 • Expanded Lending by the International Monetary Fund 149

PART IV

Ending the Crisis

8. Restoration of Creditworthiness: Implications of the Current Crisis 155
 The Need for Other Approaches 155 • Implications of the Spread of Crisis 166
9. Preconditions for the Restoration of Creditworthiness 169
 Optimal and Minimal Conditions 169 • The Search for Solutions 175 • What the Borrowing Countries Must Do 180 • The Role of the International Monetary Fund 188 • The Role of the Multilateral Development Banks 198 • The Role of Commercial Banks 205 • The Role of Bilateral Aid Programs 217 • Implications for Borrowing Countries 220

PART V

Proposals for Strengthening the International Financial System

10. Ways and Means 227
 Commercial Banks 227 • A New Finance Institution 230 • A Safety Net 232 • An International Banking Council: An

Improved Country Risk Management System 232 • Handling Debts 234 • New Forms of Lending 236 • Multilateral Institutions 238 • The International Monetary Fund 238 • Relations among Multilateral Institutions 242 • The World Bank: A Supplementary Finance Scheme 243 • The Baker Proposal 249 • Primary Product Issues 252 • Cooperation between Multilateral Institutions and Private Institutions 253 • Private New International Development Finance Institutions 255

11. Summary of Proposals 269

PART VI Epilogue

12. A New Bretton Woods? 283
The Analogy to Bretton Woods 286 • The Need for a New Bretton Woods 289 • The Agenda for a New Bretton Woods 291

Bibliographical Note 295

Appendix: Glossary of Selected Terms 297

Index 309

Acknowledgments 319

About the Author 321