

International Money

---

Theory, Evidence and Institutions

Paul Hallwood and Ronald MacDonald
with contributions from Robert Shaw

Basil Blackwell

Contents

---

1	Introduction	1
	'Shocks' and instability	2
	The following chapters	8
2	Basic Exchange Rate Concepts and Some Early Balance of Payments Analysis	13
	Section 1: Exchange Rates	13
	The spot exchange rate	13
	The forward exchange rate	15
	Section 2: The Balance of Payments by Robert Shaw	19
	The elasticities approach	20
	The foreign trade multiplier	23
	The absorption approach	24
	Money and the balance of payments	26
3	Macroeconomics in an Open Economy by Robert Shaw	28
	An early view of economic management	28
	A more complete model	30
	An amendment to the model	34
	The relative effectiveness of monetary and fiscal policy under fixed and flexible exchange rates	36
	The principle of effective market classification and the assignment problem	39
4	Purchasing Power Parity: Theory and Evidence	48
	Section 1: The Absolute and Relative Purchasing Power Parity Concepts	48
	'Law of one price'	48
	Absolute ppp	49
	Relative ppp	50
	Section 2: Intertemporal Purchasing Power Parity	51
	Section 3: ppp, A Long or Short Run Concept?	53
	Section 4: Criticisms of Purchasing Power Parity	54
	The price index issue	55
	Section 5: The Empirical Validity of ppp	59
	Concluding comments	62

5	The Monetary Approach to the Balance of Payments	64
	Section 1: What's So Different About the Monetary Approach?	65
	Section 2: The Global Monetarist Model	68
	Short-run dynamics	72
	The policy implications of the MABP	75
	Section 3: Sterilization and the Reserve Offset Coefficient	77
	Empirical framework	77
	Problems with the empirical implementation of the MABP
	reduced form equation	81
	Section 4: The International Transmission of Inflation:
	Some Evidence	82
6	The Monetary View of Exchange Rate Determination	85
	Introduction	85
	The asset approach to the exchange rate	86
	The flex-price monetary approach to the exchange rate	88
	Introducing expectations	90
	The fix-price monetary approach	94
	The hybrid fix-flex price monetary model	98
	Currency substitution	101
	Concluding comments	105
7	The Portfolio Balance Approach to the Determination of the Exchange Rate
	Whither the current account?	108
	The current account, stock-flow interaction and portfolio diversification: a simple example and a basic framework	109
	Summary and conclusions	112
8	The Efficient Markets Hypothesis, Spot and Forward Exchange Rates and the Role of New Information in Foreign Exchange Markets	132
	Introduction	132
	Section 1: Some Empirical Regularities of Spot and Forward Exchange Rates	132
	Section 2: The EMH and Spot and Forward Exchange Markets	134
	Section 3: Some Weak Tests: The Forward Rate as an Unbiased Predictor of Future Spot Rates	139
	Weak form error orthogonality tests	143
	Some semi-strong form tests	144
	Bivariate autoregression approach	144
	Issues raised by the empirical evidence	145
	Section 4: The Impact of 'News' in Foreign Exchange Markets	147
	Section 5: Summary and Conclusions	152

9	Recent International Monetary Arrangements	154
	Introduction	154
	Section 1: The Bretton Woods System to 1971	155
	The early role of the IMF	156
	The heyday of the Bretton Woods system	157
	The introduction of Special Drawing Rights	158
	Section 2: The Dollar Standard	159
	Early views on the dollar standard	160
	Criticisms of the 'financial intermediary' view	161
	Another view of the dollar standard	162
	The demand for dollars	163
	The supply of dollars	165
	Reserve creation and US and world price levels	165
	The dollar standard 'On the booze'	166
	Section 3: The IMF Tries to Pick Up the Pieces	168
	The failure of the 'Grand Design' (1972-4)	168
	The evolving roles of gold and the SDR	169
	The role of the IMF after the abandonment of the adjustable peg	171
	Section 4: The Optimal Volume of Liquidity in the World by Robert Shaw	172
	The optimal volume of liquidity: two qualifications	175
	The desirable characteristics of a reserve asset	176
10	The Eurocurrency System	178
	Introduction	178
	Eurobanking defined	178
	The origin of the Eurodollar market	179
	The Eurodollar credit multiplier	183
	Money and credit creation again	192
	Summing up on Eurodollars and inflation	193
	Euromarkets and the move to floating exchange rates	194
	Conclusions	195
11	The IMF and the Third World	197
	Ldc exchange rate arrangements	198
	The IMF: its role	198
	The IMF's monetary approach to the balance of payments	200
	Structuralist arguments against IMF adjustment policies	205
	Structuralists versus the IMF: the case of devaluation	206
	Adjustment and income distribution	211
	Distortions and economic performance	214
	Price-distortions and economic performance: evidence	216
	The order of liberalization	217

12 International Debt	223
Some theory	224
Measuring the debt burden	225
Growth of non-oil less developed countries' debt 1973-82	228
Comecon debt	230
The transfer problem and the first oil shock (1973)	230
The second oil shock (1979-80) and its aftermath	231
Foreign borrowing and capital 'flight'	233
The 'lenders' trap'	235
Nineteenth and twentieth century debt management arrangements	236
Solving the debt crisis: some proposals	236
13 The European Monetary System	240
Introduction	240
The origins of the European Monetary System	241
Operation of the EMS	244
Objectives	247
Theory: the optimum currency area	249
The EMS: how efficient is it?	254
References	258
Index	273