Employment Forecasting

The Employment Problem in Industrialised Countries

Edited by M.J.D. Hopkins

A study prepared for the International Labour Office within the framework of the World Employment Programme

Contents

List of Tables and Figures			x
Preface
Acknowledgements
1	Intro	oduction Michael Hopkins	1
	Ove	rview of chapters and policy conclusions	1
2	The Cambridge multisectoral dynamic model and alternative strategies for full employment in the United
		dom Terry Barker	10
	2.1	-	10
	2.2	Forecasting with the Cambridge multisectoral
	2.3	dynamic model The dimensions of the unemployment problem in the	10
	2.3	United Kingdom	16
	2.4	The United Kingdom medium-term financial strategy	10
	2.1	and the alternatives	19
	2.5	An analysis of the alternatives	31
	2.6	•	35
	2.7	Major policy conclusions of the study	37
3	The forecasting of employment and unemployment using
	the	French model DMS Jean-Pierre Puig	43
	3.1	İntroduction	43
	3.2	The DMS model	43
	3.3	The formalisation of labour demand in the DMS model	46
	3.4	•• •
		unemployment in the DMS model	57
	3.5	Recent trends in employment and unemployment and
		medium-term prospects	66
	3.6	Conclusion	75
4	Unemployment, employment and forecasting models: The
	Belgian experience Marc Vanden Boer
	4.1	The evolution of real unemployment in Belgium,
		1970–1981/82	78
	4.2
		problem in Belgium	86
	4.3	The economic dimension of the unemployment
		problem in Belgium	88

 B.H. Hasselmann, J.H.M. Kok and V.R. Okker 5.1 Introduction 5.2 The current economic situation in the Netherlands 5.3 The FREIA model in a nutshell 5.4 Employment in the FREIA model 5.5 Some simulations on employment policy 5.6 Final remarks 6 Labour market simulations for six OECD countries using interlink with a three-factor putty-clay supply block: Results and their limitations Peter H. Sturm 6.1 Introduction 6.2 Model structure 6.3 Model simulations 6.4 Model limitations 6.5 Plans for improvement
 4.5 Economic aspects of reductions in working time 4.6 The Belgian model simulations of reductions in working time 4.7 Sectoral employment forecasts for Belgium, 1982-90 5 FREIA and employment policies in the Netherlands B.H. Hasselmann, J.H.M. Kok and V.R. Okker 5.1 Introduction 5.2 The current economic situation in the Netherlands 5.3 The FREIA model in a nutshell 5.4 Employment in the FREIA model 5.5 Some simulations on employment policy 5.6 Final remarks 6 Labour market simulations for six OECD countries using interlink with a three-factor putty-clay supply block: Results and their limitations Peter H. Sturm 6.1 Introduction 6.2 Model structure 6.3 Model simulations 6.4 Model limitations 6.5 Plans for improvement 7 Unemployment prospects for the OECD area: Alternative scenarios with the Project LINK system Peter Pauly 7.1 Introduction 7.2 The LINK model 7.3 The LINK model 7.3 The LINK baseline forecast 7.4 Domestic policies for industrialised countries 7.5 Worldwide development strategies 7.6 Summary 8 Employment and output in a semi-ndustrial economy: Modelling alternative policy options in Mexico Ajit Singb 8.1 Introduction 8.2 Mexico as a semi-industrial economy 8.4 Oil and alternative economic strategies 8.4 Planning and policy analysis of the Mexican models 8.5 Oil, industrialisation and employment: Policy analysis 		4.4	• • • • •	89
 4.6 The Belgian model simulations of reductions in working time 4.7 Sectoral employment forecasts for Belgium, 1982–90 5 FREIA and employment policies in the Netherlands B.H. Hasselmann, J.H.M. Kok and V.R. Okker 5.1 Introduction 5.2 The current economic situation in the Netherlands 5.3 The FREIA model in a nutshell 5.4 Employment in the FREIA model 5.5 Some simulations on employment policy 5.6 Final remarks 6 Labour market simulations for six OECD countries using interlink with a three-factor putty-clay supply block: Results and their limitations Peter H. Sturm 6.1 Introduction 6.2 Model structure 6.3 Model simulations 6.4 Model limitations 6.5 Plans for improvement 7 Unemployment prospects for the OECD area: Alternative scenarios with the Project LINK system Peter Pauly 7.1 Introduction 7.2 The LINK model 7.3 The LINK model 7.3 The LINK baseline forecast 7.4 Domestic policies for industrialised countries 7.5 Worldwide development strategies 7.6 Summary 8 Employment and output in a semi-industrial economy: Modelling alternative policy options in Mexico Ajit Singb 8.1 Introduction 8.2 Mexico as a semi-industrial economy 8.3 Oil and alternative economic strategies 8.4 Planning and policy analysis of the Mexican models 8.5 Oil, industrialisation and employment: Policy analysis		45	-	92 working time 4.7 Sectoral employment forecasts for Belgium, 1982-90 5 FREIA and employment policies in the Netherlands B.H. Hasselmann, J.H.M. Kok and V.R. Okker 5.1 Introduction 5.2 The current economic situation in the Netherlands 5.3 The FREIA model in a nutshell 5.4 Employment in the FREIA model 5.5 Some simulations on employment policy 5.6 Final remarks 6 Labour market simulations for six OECD countries using interlink with a three-factor putty-clay supply block: Results and their limitations Peter H. Sturm 6.1 Introduction 6.2 Model simulations 6.4 Model limitations 6.5 Plans for improvement 7 Unemployment prospects for the OECD area: Alternative scenarios with the Project LINK system Peter Pauly 7.1 Introduction 7.2 The LINK model 7.3 The LINK baseline forecast 7.4 Domestic policies for industrialised countries 7.5 Worldwide development strategies 7.6 Summary 8 Employment and output in a semi-industrial economy: Modelling alternative colory options in Mexico Ajitt Singb 8.1 Introduction 8.2 Mexico as a semi-industrial economy 8.3 Oil and alternative economic strategies 8.4 Planning and policy analysis of the Mexican models 8.5 Oil, industrialisation and employment: Policy analysis				-
 4.7 Sectoral employment forecasts for Belgium, 1982-90 5 FREIA and employment policies in the Netherlands B.H. Hasselmann, J.H.M. Kok and V.R. Okker 5.1 Introduction 5.2 The current economic situation in the Netherlands 5.3 The FREIA model in a nutshell 5.4 Employment in the FREIA model 5.5 Some simulations on employment policy 5.6 Final remarks 6 Labour market simulations for six OECD countries using interlink with a three-factor putty-clay supply block: Results and their limitations Peter H. Sturm 6.1 Introduction 6.2 Model structure 6.3 Model simulations 6.4 Model limitations 6.5 Plans for improvement 7 Unemployment prospects for the OECD area: Alternative scenarios with the Project LINK system Peter Pauly 7.1 Introduction 7.2 The LINK baseline forecast 7.4 Domestic policies for industrialised countries 7.5 Worldwide development strategies 7.6 Summary 8 Employment and output in a semi-industrial economy: Modelling alternative policy options in Mexico Ajit Singb 8.1 Introduction 8.2 Mexico as a semi-industrial economy 8.3 Oil and alternative economic strategies 8.4 Planning and policy analysis of the Mexican models 8.5 Oil, industrialisation and employment: Policy analysis 			-	93
 5 FREIA and employment policies in the Netherlands B.H. Hasselmann, J.H.M. Kok and V.R. Okker 5.1 Introduction 5.2 The current economic situation in the Netherlands 5.3 The FREIA model in a nutshell 5.4 Employment in the FREIA model 5.5 Some simulations on employment policy 5.6 Final remarks 6 Labour market simulations for six OECD countries using interlink with a three-factor putty-clay supply block: Results and their limitations Peter H. Sturm 6.1 Introduction 6.2 Model structure 6.3 Model simulations 6.4 Model limitations 6.5 Plans for improvement 7 Unemployment prospects for the OECD area: Alternative scenarios with the Project LINK system Peter Pauly 7.1 Introduction 7.2 The LINK baseline forecast 7.4 Domestic policies for industrialised countries 7.5 Worldwide development strategies 7.6 Summary 8 Employment and output in a semi-industrial economy: Modelling alternative policy options in Mexico Ajitt Singb 8.1 Introduction 8.2 Mexico as a semi-industrial economy 8.3 Oil and alternative economic strategies 8.4 Planning and policy analysis of the Mexican models 8.5 Oil, industrialisation and employment: Policy analysis		4.7		99
 B.H. Hasselmann, J.H.M. Kok and V.R. Okker 5.1 Introduction 5.2 The current economic situation in the Netherlands 5.3 The FREIA model in a nutshell 5.4 Employment in the FREIA model 5.5 Some simulations on employment policy 5.6 Final remarks 6 Labour market simulations for six OECD countries using interlink with a three-factor putty-clay supply block: Results and their limitations Peter H. Sturm 6.1 Introduction 6.2 Model structure 6.3 Model simulations 6.4 Model limitations 6.5 Plans for improvement 7 Unemployment prospects for the OECD area: Alternative scenarios with the Project LINK system Peter Pauly 7.1 Introduction 7.2 The LINK model 7.3 The LINK baseline forecast 7.4 Domestic policies for industrialised countries 7.5 Worldwide development strategies 7.6 Summary 8 Employment and output in a semi-industrial economy: Modelling alternative policy options in Mexico Ajit Singb 8.1 Introduction 8.2 Mexico as a semi-industrial economy 8.3 Oil and alternative economic strategies 8.4 Planning and policy analysis of the Mexican models 8.5 Oil, industrialisation and employment: Policy analysis
 B.H. Hasselmann, J.H.M. Kok and V.R. Okker 5.1 Introduction 5.2 The current economic situation in the Netherlands 5.3 The FREIA model in a nutshell 5.4 Employment in the FREIA model 5.5 Some simulations on employment policy 5.6 Final remarks 6 Labour market simulations for six OECD countries using interlink with a three-factor putty-clay supply block: Results and their limitations Peter H. Sturm 6.1 Introduction 6.2 Model structure 6.3 Model simulations 6.4 Model limitations 6.5 Plans for improvement 7 Unemployment prospects for the OECD area: Alternative scenarios with the Project LINK system Peter Pauly 7.1 Introduction 7.2 The LINK model 7.3 The LINK baseline forecast 7.4 Domestic policies for industrialised countries 7.5 Worldwide development strategies 7.6 Summary 8 Employment and output in a semi-industrial economy: Modelling alternative policy options in Mexico Ajit Singb 8.1 Introduction 8.2 Mexico as a semi-industrial economy 8.3 Oil and alternative economic strategies 8.4 Planning and policy analysis of the Mexican models 8.5 Oil, industrialisation and employment: Policy analysis 	5	FRE	A and employment policies in the Netherlands
 5.1 Introduction 5.2 The current economic situation in the Netherlands 5.3 The FREIA model in a nutshell 5.4 Employment in the FREIA model 5.5 Some simulations on employment policy 5.6 Final remarks 6 Labour market simulations for six OECD countries using interlink with a three-factor putty-clay supply block: Results and their limitations Peter H. Sturm 6.1 Introduction 6.2 Model structure 6.3 Model simulations 6.4 Model limitations 6.5 Plans for improvement 7 Unemployment prospects for the OECD area: Alternative scenarios with the Project LINK system Peter Pauly 7.1 Introduction 7.2 The LINK model 7.3 The LINK model 7.4 Domestic policies for industrialised countries 7.5 Worldwide development strategies 7.6 Summary 8 Employment and output in a semi-industrial economy: Modelling alternative policy options in Mexico Ajit Singb 8.1 Introduction 8.2 Mexico as a semi-industrial economy 8.3 Oil and alternative economic strategies 8.4 Planning and policy analysis of the Mexican models 8.5 Oil, industrialisation and employment: Policy analysis	-			103
 5.2 The current economic situation in the Netherlands 5.3 The FREIA model in a nutshell 5.4 Employment in the FREIA model 5.5 Some simulations on employment policy 5.6 Final remarks 6 Labour market simulations for six OECD countries using interlink with a three-factor putty-clay supply block: Results and their limitations Peter H. Sturm 6.1 Introduction 6.2 Model structure 6.3 Model simulations 6.4 Model limitations 6.5 Plans for improvement 7 Unemployment prospects for the OECD area: Alternative scenarios with the Project LINK system Peter Pauly 7.1 Introduction 7.2 The LINK model 7.3 The LINK baseline forecast 7.4 Domestic policies for industrialised countries 7.5 Worldwide development strategies 7.6 Summary 8 Employment and output in a semi-industrial economy: Modelling alternative policy options in Mexico Ajitt Singb 8.1 Introduction 8.2 Mexico as a semi-industrial economy 8.3 Oil and alternative economic strategies 8.4 Planning and policy analysis of the Mexican models 8.5 Oil, industrialisation and employment: Policy analysis 				102
 5.3 The FREIA model in a nutshell 5.4 Employment in the FREIA model 5.5 Some simulations on employment policy 5.6 Final remarks 6 Labour market simulations for six OECD countries using interlink with a three-factor putty-clay supply block: Results and their limitations Peter H. Sturm 6.1 Introduction 6.2 Model structure 6.3 Model simulations 6.4 Model limitations 6.5 Plans for improvement 7 Unemployment prospects for the OECD area: Alternative scenarios with the Project LINK system Peter Pauly 7.1 Introduction 7.2 The LINK model 7.3 The LINK model 7.4 Domestic policies for industrialised countries 7.5 Worldwide development strategies 7.6 Summary 8 Employment and output in a semi-ndustrial economy: Modelling alternative policy options in Mexico Ajitt Singb 8.1 Introduction 8.2 Mexico as a semi-industrial economy 8.3 Oil and alternative economic strategies 8.4 Planning and policy analysis of the Mexican models 8.5 Oil, industrialisation and employment: Policy analysis 		-		103
 5.4 Employment in the FREIA model 5.5 Some simulations on employment policy 5.6 Final remarks 6 Labour market simulations for six OECD countries using interlink with a three-factor putty-clay supply block: Results and their limitations Peter H. Sturm 6.1 Introduction 6.2 Model structure 6.3 Model simulations 6.4 Model limitations 6.5 Plans for improvement 7 Unemployment prospects for the OECD area: Alternative scenarios with the Project LINK system Peter Pauly 7.1 Introduction 7.2 The LINK model 7.3 The LINK baseline forecast 7.4 Domestic policies for industrialised countries 7.5 Worldwide development strategies 7.6 Summary 8 Employment and output in a semi-industrial economy: Modelling alternative policy options in Mexico Ajit Singb 8.1 Introduction 8.2 Mexico as a semi-industrial economy 8.3 Oil and alternative economic strategies 8.4 Planning and policy analysis of the Mexican models 8.5 Oil, industrialisation and employment: Policy analysis				103
 5.5 Some simulations on employment policy 5.6 Final remarks 6 Labour market simulations for six OECD countries using interlink with a three-factor putty-clay supply block: Results and their limitations Peter H. Sturm 6.1 Introduction 6.2 Model structure 6.3 Model simulations 6.4 Model limitations 6.5 Plans for improvement 7 Unemployment prospects for the OECD area: Alternative scenarios with the Project LINK system Peter Pauly 7.1 Introduction 7.2 The LINK model 7.3 The LINK baseline forecast 7.4 Domestic policies for industrialised countries 7.5 Worldwide development strategies 7.6 Summary 8 Employment and output in a semi-ndustrial economy: Modelling alternative policy options in Mexico Ajit Singb 8.1 Introduction 8.2 Mexico as a semi-industrial economy 8.3 Oil and alternative economic strategies 8.4 Planning and policy analysis of the Mexican models 8.5 Oil, industrialisation and employment: Policy analysis 				106
 5.6 Final remarks 6 Labour market simulations for six OECD countries using interlink with a three-factor putty-clay supply block: Results and their limitations Peter H. Sturm 6.1 Introduction 6.2 Model structure 6.3 Model simulations 6.4 Model limitations 6.5 Plans for improvement 7 Unemployment prospects for the OECD area: Alternative scenarios with the Project LINK system Peter Pauly 7.1 Introduction 7.2 The LINK model 7.3 The LINK baseline forecast 7.4 Domestic policies for industrialised countries 7.5 Worldwide development strategies 7.6 Summary 8 Employment and output in a semi-ndustrial economy: Modelling alternative policy options in Mexico Ajit Singb 8.1 Introduction 8.2 Mexico as a semi-industrial economy 8.3 Oil and alternative economic strategies 8.4 Planning and policy analysis of the Mexican models 8.5 Oil, industrialisation and employment: Policy analysis 				111
 6 Labour market simulations for six OECD countries using interlink with a three-factor putty-clay supply block: Results and their limitations Peter H. Sturm 6.1 Introduction 6.2 Model structure 6.3 Model simulations 6.4 Model limitations 6.5 Plans for improvement 7 Unemployment prospects for the OECD area: Alternative scenarios with the Project LINK system Peter Pauly 7.1 Introduction 7.2 The LINK model 7.3 The LINK baseline forecast 7.4 Domestic policies for industrialised countries 7.5 Worldwide development strategies 7.6 Summary 8 Employment and output in a semi-industrial economy: Modelling alternative policy options in Mexico Ajit Singb 8.1 Introduction 8.2 Mexico as a semi-industrial economy 8.3 Oil and alternative economic strategies 8.4 Planning and policy analysis of the Mexican models 8.5 Oil, industrialisation and employment: Policy analysis 				119
 interlink with a three-factor putty-clay supply block: Results and their limitations Peter H. Sturm 6.1 Introduction 6.2 Model structure 6.3 Model simulations 6.4 Model limitations 6.5 Plans for improvement 7 Unemployment prospects for the OECD area: Alternative scenarios with the Project LINK system Peter Pauly 7.1 Introduction 7.2 The LINK model 7.3 The LINK baseline forecast 7.4 Domestic policies for industrialised countries 7.5 Worldwide development strategies 7.6 Summary 8 Employment and output in a semi-ndustrial economy: Modelling alternative policy options in Mexico Ajit Singb 8.1 Introduction 8.2 Mexico as a semi-industrial economy 8.3 Oil and alternative economic strategies 8.4 Planning and policy analysis of the Mexican models 8.5 Oil, industrialisation and employment: Policy analysis		5.6	Final remarks	129
 interlink with a three-factor putty-clay supply block: Results and their limitations Peter H. Sturm 6.1 Introduction 6.2 Model structure 6.3 Model simulations 6.4 Model limitations 6.5 Plans for improvement 7 Unemployment prospects for the OECD area: Alternative scenarios with the Project LINK system Peter Pauly 7.1 Introduction 7.2 The LINK model 7.3 The LINK baseline forecast 7.4 Domestic policies for industrialised countries 7.5 Worldwide development strategies 7.6 Summary 8 Employment and output in a semi-ndustrial economy: Modelling alternative policy options in Mexico Ajit Singb 8.1 Introduction 8.2 Mexico as a semi-industrial economy 8.3 Oil and alternative economic strategies 8.4 Planning and policy analysis of the Mexican models 8.5 Oil, industrialisation and employment: Policy analysis	4	Labo	we market simulations for six OECD countries using
 Results and their limitations Peter H. Sturm 6.1 Introduction 6.2 Model structure 6.3 Model simulations 6.4 Model limitations 6.5 Plans for improvement 7 Unemployment prospects for the OECD area: Alternative scenarios with the Project LINK system Peter Pauly 7.1 Introduction 7.2 The LINK model 7.3 The LINK baseline forecast 7.4 Domestic policies for industrialised countries 7.5 Worldwide development strategies 7.6 Summary 8 Employment and output in a semi-industrial economy: Modelling alternative policy options in Mexico Ajit Singb 8.1 Introduction 8.2 Mexico as a semi-industrial economy 8.3 Oil and alternative economic strategies 8.4 Planning and policy analysis of the Mexican models 8.5 Oil, industrialisation and employment: Policy analysis 	0	-
 6.1 Introduction 6.2 Model structure 6.3 Model simulations 6.4 Model limitations 6.5 Plans for improvement 7 Unemployment prospects for the OECD area: Alternative scenarios with the Project LINK system Peter Pauly 7.1 Introduction 7.2 The LINK model 7.3 The LINK baseline forecast 7.4 Domestic policies for industrialised countries 7.5 Worldwide development strategies 7.6 Summary 8 Employment and output in a semi-industrial economy: Modelling alternative policy options in Mexico Ajit Singb 8.1 Introduction 8.2 Mexico as a semi-industrial economy 8.3 Oil and alternative economic strategies 8.4 Planning and policy analysis of the Mexican models 8.5 Oil, industrialisation and employment: Policy analysis
 6.2 Model structure 6.3 Model simulations 6.4 Model limitations 6.5 Plans for improvement 7 Unemployment prospects for the OECD area: Alternative scenarios with the Project LINK system Peter Pauly 7.1 Introduction 7.2 The LINK model 7.3 The LINK baseline forecast 7.4 Domestic policies for industrialised countries 7.5 Worldwide development strategies 7.6 Summary 8 Employment and output in a semi-industrial economy: Modelling alternative policy options in Mexico Ajit Singb 8.1 Introduction 8.2 Mexico as a semi-industrial economy 8.3 Oil and alternative economic strategies 8.4 Planning and policy analysis of the Mexican models 8.5 Oil, industrialisation and employment: Policy analysis		RCSI	its and their initiations Feler II. Starm	132
 6.3 Model simulations 6.4 Model limitations 6.5 Plans for improvement 7 Unemployment prospects for the OECD area: Alternative scenarios with the Project LINK system Peter Pauly 7.1 Introduction 7.2 The LINK model 7.3 The LINK baseline forecast 7.4 Domestic policies for industrialised countries 7.5 Worldwide development strategies 7.6 Summary 8 Employment and output in a semi-ndustrial economy: Modelling alternative policy options in Mexico Ajit Singb 8.1 Introduction 8.2 Mexico as a semi-industrial economy 8.3 Oil and alternative economic strategies 8.4 Planning and policy analysis of the Mexican models 8.5 Oil, industrialisation and employment: Policy analysis 		6.1	Introduction	132
 6.4 Model limitations 6.5 Plans for improvement 7 Unemployment prospects for the OECD area: Alternative scenarios with the Project LINK system Peter Pauly 7.1 Introduction 7.2 The LINK model 7.3 The LINK baseline forecast 7.4 Domestic policies for industrialised countries 7.5 Worldwide development strategies 7.6 Summary 8 Employment and output in a semi-ndustrial economy: Modelling alternative policy options in Mexico Ajit Singb 8.1 Introduction 8.2 Mexico as a semi-industrial economy 8.3 Oil and alternative economic strategies 8.4 Planning and policy analysis of the Mexican models 8.5 Oil, industrialisation and employment: Policy analysis 		6.2	Model structure	133
 6.5 Plans for improvement 7 Unemployment prospects for the OECD area: Alternative scenarios with the Project LINK system Peter Pauly 7.1 Introduction 7.2 The LINK model 7.3 The LINK baseline forecast 7.4 Domestic policies for industrialised countries 7.5 Worldwide development strategies 7.6 Summary 8 Employment and output in a semi-ndustrial economy: Modelling alternative policy options in Mexico Ajit Singb 8.1 Introduction 8.2 Mexico as a semi-industrial economy 8.3 Oil and alternative economic strategies 8.4 Planning and policy analysis of the Mexican models 8.5 Oil, industrialisation and employment: Policy analysis 		6.3	Model simulations	142
 7 Unemployment prospects for the OECD area: Alternative scenarios with the Project LINK system Peter Pauly 7.1 Introduction 7.2 The LINK model 7.3 The LINK baseline forecast 7.4 Domestic policies for industrialised countries 7.5 Worldwide development strategies 7.6 Summary 8 Employment and output in a semi-ndustrial economy: Modelling alternative policy options in Mexico Ajit Singb 8.1 Introduction 8.2 Mexico as a semi-industrial economy 8.3 Oil and alternative economic strategies 8.4 Planning and policy analysis of the Mexican models 8.5 Oil, industrialisation and employment: Policy analysis 		6.4	Model limitațions	150
 scenarios with the Project LINK system Peter Pauly 7.1 Introduction 7.2 The LINK model 7.3 The LINK baseline forecast 7.4 Domestic policies for industrialised countries 7.5 Worldwide development strategies 7.6 Summary 8 Employment and output in a semi-ndustrial economy: Modelling alternative policy options in Mexico Ajit Singb 8.1 Introduction 8.2 Mexico as a semi-industrial economy 8.3 Oil and alternative economic strategies 8.4 Planning and policy analysis of the Mexican models 8.5 Oil, industrialisation and employment: Policy analysis 		6.5	Plans for improvement	153
 scenarios with the Project LINK system Peter Pauly 7.1 Introduction 7.2 The LINK model 7.3 The LINK baseline forecast 7.4 Domestic policies for industrialised countries 7.5 Worldwide development strategies 7.6 Summary 8 Employment and output in a semi-ndustrial economy: Modelling alternative policy options in Mexico Ajit Singb 8.1 Introduction 8.2 Mexico as a semi-industrial economy 8.3 Oil and alternative economic strategies 8.4 Planning and policy analysis of the Mexican models 8.5 Oil, industrialisation and employment: Policy analysis 	-	T - a	malaumant prospects for the OECD area. Alternative
 7.1 Introduction 7.2 The LINK model 7.3 The LINK baseline forecast 7.4 Domestic policies for industrialised countries 7.5 Worldwide development strategies 7.6 Summary 8 Employment and output in a semi-ndustrial economy: Modelling alternative policy options in Mexico Ajit Singb 8.1 Introduction 8.2 Mexico as a semi-industrial economy 8.3 Oil and alternative economic strategies 8.4 Planning and policy analysis of the Mexican models 8.5 Oil, industrialisation and employment: Policy analysis 	/			157
 7.2 The LINK model 7.3 The LINK baseline forecast 7.4 Domestic policies for industrialised countries 7.5 Worldwide development strategies 7.6 Summary 8 Employment and output in a semi-ndustrial economy: Modelling alternative policy options in Mexico Ajit Singb 8.1 Introduction 8.2 Mexico as a semi-industrial economy 8.3 Oil and alternative economic strategies 8.4 Planning and policy analysis of the Mexican models 8.5 Oil, industrialisation and employment: Policy analysis 		SCCI	ands with the Project Link system Feler Fully	1)/
 7.3 The LINK baseline forecast 7.4 Domestic policies for industrialised countries 7.5 Worldwide development strategies 7.6 Summary 8 Employment and output in a semi-ndustrial economy: Modelling alternative policy options in Mexico Ajit Singb 8.1 Introduction 8.2 Mexico as a semi-industrial economy 8.3 Oil and alternative economic strategies 8.4 Planning and policy analysis of the Mexican models 8.5 Oil, industrialisation and employment: Policy analysis 		7.1	Introduction	157
 7.4 Domestic policies for industrialised countries 7.5 Worldwide development strategies 7.6 Summary 8 Employment and output in a semi-ndustrial economy: Modelling alternative policy options in Mexico Ajit Singb 8.1 Introduction 8.2 Mexico as a semi-industrial economy 8.3 Oil and alternative economic strategies 8.4 Planning and policy analysis of the Mexican models 8.5 Oil, industrialisation and employment: Policy analysis 		7.2	The LINK model	158
 7.5 Worldwide development strategies 7.6 Summary 8 Employment and output in a semi-ndustrial economy: Modelling alternative policy options in Mexico Ajit Singb 8.1 Introduction 8.2 Mexico as a semi-industrial economy 8.3 Oil and alternative economic strategies 8.4 Planning and policy analysis of the Mexican models 8.5 Oil, industrialisation and employment: Policy analysis 		7.3	The LINK baseline forecast	160
 7.6 Summary 8 Employment and output in a semi-ndustrial economy: Modelling alternative policy options in Mexico Ajit Singb 8.1 Introduction 8.2 Mexico as a semi-industrial economy 8.3 Oil and alternative economic strategies 8.4 Planning and policy analysis of the Mexican models 8.5 Oil, industrialisation and employment: Policy analysis 		7.4	Domestic policies for industrialised countries	165
 8 Employment and output in a semi-ndustrial economy: Modelling alternative policy options in Mexico Ajit Singb 8.1 Introduction 8.2 Mexico as a semi-industrial economy 8.3 Oil and alternative economic strategies 8.4 Planning and policy analysis of the Mexican models 8.5 Oil, industrialisation and employment: Policy analysis 		7.5	Worldwide development strategies	179
 Modelling alternative policy options in Mexico Ajit Singb 8.1 Introduction 8.2 Mexico as a semi-industrial economy 8.3 Oil and alternative economic strategies 8.4 Planning and policy analysis of the Mexican models 8.5 Oil, industrialisation and employment: Policy analysis 		7.6	Summary	181
 Modelling alternative policy options in Mexico Ajit Singb 8.1 Introduction 8.2 Mexico as a semi-industrial economy 8.3 Oil and alternative economic strategies 8.4 Planning and policy analysis of the Mexican models 8.5 Oil, industrialisation and employment: Policy analysis 	~	-
 Ajit Singb 8.1 Introduction 8.2 Mexico as a semi-industrial economy 8.3 Oil and alternative economic strategies 8.4 Planning and policy analysis of the Mexican models 8.5 Oil, industrialisation and employment: Policy analysis 	8
 8.1 Introduction 8.2 Mexico as a semi-industrial economy 8.3 Oil and alternative economic strategies 8.4 Planning and policy analysis of the Mexican models 8.5 Oil, industrialisation and employment: Policy analysis
 8.2 Mexico as a semi-industrial economy 8.3 Oil and alternative economic strategies 8.4 Planning and policy analysis of the Mexican models 8.5 Oil, industrialisation and employment: Policy analysis 		Ajit Singb
 8.3 Oil and alternative economic strategies 8.4 Planning and policy analysis of the Mexican models 8.5 Oil, industrialisation and employment: Policy analysis 		8.1	Introduction	184
8.4 Planning and policy analysis of the Mexican models8.5 Oil, industrialisation and employment: Policy analysis		8.2	Mexico as a semi-industrial economy	184
8.4 Planning and policy analysis of the Mexican models8.5 Oil, industrialisation and employment: Policy analysis		8.3	Oil and alternative economic strategies	186
8.5 Oil, industrialisation and employment: Policy analysis		8.4	Planning and policy analysis of the Mexican models	187
of long-term issues		8.5	Oil, industrialisation and employment: Policy analysis
			of long-term issues	189

.

.

	8.6	The modelling of the impending economic crisis and
		of the short- and medium-term policy issues	199
	8.7	Conclusion	206
9	Employment forecasting and the employment problem:
	Con	clusion Michael Hopkins	210
	.9.1	Introduction	210
	9.2	Treatment of the labour market in the models
		presented	211
	9.3	What variables to forecast and for whom?	222
•	9.4	Reliability of forecasts	224
	9.5	Employment policies in industrialised countries	234
	9.6	Some alternative scenarios to reduce unemployment	239
	9.7	An evaluation of the scenarios suggested	241
	9.8	Conclusion	243
Index			248

۰,

•