

GERMAN VOLKSKUNDE

---

A Decade of Theoretical
Confrontation, Debate, and
Reorientation (1967–1977)

Edited and Translated by
James R. Dow and Hannjost Lixfeld

Indiana University Press • BLOOMINGTON

CONTENTS

James R. Dow and Hannjost Lixfeld	Introduction	1
Hermann Bausinger	A Critique of Tradition: Observations on the Situation of Volkskunde	26
Dieter Kramer	Who Benefits from Folklore?	41
Martin Scharfe	A Critique of the Canon	54
Rudolf Schenda	"Popular" Wall Decoration and the Com- munication Process	62
Ingeborg Weber-Kellermann	Toys—Reflections on a Marburg Exhibi- tion: Toys as an Indicator of a Social System	71
Andreas C. Bimmer	The Marburg Toy Exhibition as Judged by the Visitor	84
Martin Scharfe	Scholarship Visualized: On the Exhibi- tions at the Ludwig-Uhland-Institut	89
Karl-Sigismund Kramer	Toward an Understanding of the Tensions between Estate Lord and Estate Sub- jects: Attempt at an Interpretation of Documents of a Ring Ride at Schön- weide on the 23rd of June 1811	97
Hermann Bausinger	Toward a Critique of Folklorism Criticism	113
Utz Jeggle and Gottfried Korff	On the Development of the Zillertal Re- gional Character: A Contribution to Cultural Economics	124
Rudolf Schenda	Folk Medicine—What Is It Today?	140
Peter Assion	A Critique of Parapsychological Folklore	157
Ingeborg Weber-Kellermann	Problems of Interethnic Research in Southeast Europe: A Consideration of Method	172
Ernst Klusen	The Group Song as Object	184
Rolf Wilhelm Brednich	The Song as a Commodity	203
Elfriede Moser-Rath	Some Thoughts on Historical Narrative Research	212
Hannjost Lixfeld	Jokes and Aggression: Toward a Determi- nation of the Concept and the Function of a Text Type	229
Klaus F. Geiger	Young People Read "Landsers" Books: In- dications of the Functions and the Effects of Reading Materials	244

Martin Scharfe	Toward a Cultural History: Notes on Contemporary Volkskunde in German-Speaking Countries	265
	BIBLIOGRAPHY	278
	CONTRIBUTORS	341