

S
1772

AFTER THE END

Making U.S. Foreign Policy in the Post-Cold War World

Edited by James M. Scott

Duke University Press Durham and London 1998

Contents

List of Tables and Figures ix

Preface xi

- X 1 Out of the Cold: The Post-Cold War Context of U.S.
Foreign Policy
James M. Scott and A. Lane Crothers 1

I ACTORS AND INFLUENCE

- X 2 The Presidency and U.S. Foreign Policy after the Cold War
Jerel Rosati and Stephen Twing 29
- 3 The Foreign Policy Bureaucracy in a New Era
Christopher M. Jones 57
- 4 Foreign Economic Policy Making under Bill Clinton
I. M. Destler 89
- ? 5 Congress and Post-Cold War U.S. Foreign Policy
Ralph G. Carter 108
- ? 6 Public Opinion and U.S. Foreign Policy after the Cold War
Ole Holsti 138
- 7 Interest Groups and the Media in Post-Cold War U.S.
Foreign Policy
James M. McCormick 170

II CASES

- 8 Making U.S. Foreign Policy toward China in the Clinton Administration
John T. Rourke and Richard Clark 201
- 9 American Assistance to the Former Soviet States in 1993-1994
Jeremy D. Rosner 225

viii Contents

- 10 The Promotion of Democracy at the End of the Twentieth Century: A New Polestar for American Foreign Policy?
Rick Travis 251
- X 11 Between a Rock and a Hard Place: Assertive Multilateralism and Post-Cold War U.S. Foreign Policy Making
Jennifer Sterling-Folker 277
- 12 The White House, Congress, and the Paralysis of the U.S. State Department after the Cold War
Steven W. Hook 305
- 13 From Ally to Orphan: Understanding U.S. Policy toward Somalia after the Cold War
Peter J. Schraeder 330
- 14 NAFTA and Beyond: The Politics of Trade in the Post-Cold War Period
Renee G. Scherlen 358

III AFTER THE END

- X 15 Interbranch Policy Making after the End
James M. Scott 389
- Notes on Contributors 409
- Index 411