

Lullabies of Hollywood

MOVIE MUSIC AND THE MOVIE MUSICAL,
1915-1992

by Richard Fehr and Frederick G. Vogel

McFarland & Company, Inc., Publishers
Jefferson, North Carolina, and London

Contents

Preface	vii
ONE • OVERTURE	1
A Two-Way Street	3
TWO • IN THE BEGINNING: 1915-1927	9
Singing Commercials	14
Serenades to the Stars	17
An All-American Pursuit	19
Search for Synchronization	22
Vitaphone Enters the Picture(s)	26
“You Ain’t Heard Nothin’ Yet!”	29
The Movies’ Coloring Book	33
THREE • MUSIC, MUSIC EVERYWHERE: 1928-1929	37
The Sounds of Music	40
Musical-Production Pitfalls	44
Hitting High C	49
FOUR • THE FIRST GOLDEN AGE OF FILM MUSIC: 1929-1930	53
Wall Street Tumbles	56
Upstaging Broadway	61
Branching Out	64
Big and Bountiful	69

FIVE • THE LEAN AND MEAN YEARS: 1930-1933	75
Belt-Tightening	78
A Paper Moon, a Dream, and a Wolf	83
Meanwhile, in the Background . . .	88
A Girl Named Mimi	91
Sons of Blockbuster	96
The Dancing Gangster	100
Wings on His Shoes	105
SIX • AN EARFUL OF MUSIC: 1934	107
Shaking Hands with Oscar	110
Grace Personified	115
A Triumph of Familiarity	117
The Rhymers	119
The Songs That Got Away	120
SEVEN • THE SECOND GOLDEN AGE—THE CHILD STARS: 1935-1940	127
The Big Crackdown	131
The Million-Dollar Baby	135
“Polka Dots and Moonbeams”	138
“Dance, Little Lady”	141
“Stay as Sweet as You Are”	142
Other Helpful Hopefuls	147
Family Togetherness	148
EIGHT • THE SECOND GOLDEN AGE—THE ADULT STARS: 1935-1940	153
“I’ll Sing You a Thousand Love Songs”	156
New Kids on the Block	160
The High Road to War	163
“A Touch of Class”	165
New Status for Women	167
“You Can’t Have Everything”	169
Familiar Refrains . . .	173

... And a Few Departures	177
"It Don't Mean a Thing . . ."	178
NINE • THE THIRD GOLDEN AGE: 1942-1945	183
Something Borrowed, Something New	186
Eliminating the Negatives	192
Expanding the Balladeer Ranks	197
Music, Maestro, Please	200
More Broadway Melodies	205
Non-Musical Music	207
TEN • DAYS OF WINE AND ROSES: 1946-1965	211
Remembrances of Things Past	214
Day by Day	219
The Fantastic Fifties	222
"There Goes That Song Again"	227
"Too Late Now"	231
The Stunted Sixties	234
Broadway Borrowings	237
ELEVEN • FADEOUT: 1966-1991	241
"The Age of Not Believing"	246
Dimming of the Great White Way	255
Coda	259
Appendix	263
Bibliography	331
Index	333