

The Privatization of the Russian Economy

Joseph R. Blasi,
Maya Kroumova, and Douglas Kruse

Foreword by Andrei Shleifer

with the research assistance of

Daria Panina, Ekaterina Grachova,
Elena Zakrevskaya, Tatyana Voronina,
Aleksii Krivolapov, Joanne Mangels, Iuliia Cole, and Ekaterina Dementieva

Contents

Foreword	Andrei Shleifer	ix
Chronology of Major Events		xiii
Introduction: The Bolshevik Biscuit Company Goes Private		1
1 Privatization		13
Russia's Past: The Context for Economic Reforms	13
From Gorbachev to Yeltsin	17
Some Facts on Russia	23
The Starting and Ending Points for This Story	25
Why Was Privatization Necessary?	26
The Fight over Privatization	35
The Privatization Program	39
How the Program Worked	41
2 Ownership		50
The Initial Division of Ownership	51
Ownership in 1996	53
Russian Ownership in International Perspective	56
Majority Employee Ownership	58
Majority Management Ownership	61
Majority Outside Ownership	67
No Majority Ownership	70
The Struggle for Ownership	72
How Much Property Did Citizens Get?	76
Next Steps	82
3 Power		86
The Initial Transition, 1993 and 1994	88
Governance in 1996	96
Workers as Shareholders and Employees	105
The Mafia as a Corporate Power	114

4 Restructuring	122
What Is True Restructuring?	124
The Companies' Initial Responses, 1993 and 1994	126
Restructuring in 1995 and 1996	133
Restructuring Management and Control	135
Restructuring Business Operations	137
Social Services for Employees	142
Access to Capital	143
Barriers to Restructuring	145
Restructuring Strategies	150
The Emerging Russian Stock Market	160
5 The Future of Reform	167
Was There Another Way?	173
Will Russia Restructure?	176
The Next Reforms	181
The Reality from Which There Is No Escape	183
Russia after the 1996 Presidential Election	185
Tables: The Russian Business Economy and Companies	189
1. Number of private and privatized enterprises, 1991–1995	189
2. What has happened in the economy as a whole, 1991–1995	190
3. Voucher auctions, December 1992–June 1994	192
4. Inside and outside ownership of enterprises, 1994–1996	193
5. Majority owners of private-sector corporations, 1995 and 1996	193
6. Details of inside and outside shareholders in corporations, 1995 and 1996	194
7. Ownership of common stock in the United States, Japan, and Germany, 1990	196
8. The top 100 Russian companies, by market capitalization, 1996	197
9. The important numbers on governance, 1994–1996	200
10. The important numbers on restructuring, 1996	203
11. Barriers to corporate governance in companies in which several blockholders own a majority of shares, 1996	205
Notes	209
Acknowledgments	231
Contributors	234
Research on Russian Reform on the Internet	235
Index	237
Maps
Russian Federation	6
Russian Federation: Republics, krajs, oblasts, okrugs	8