

Thomas Austin O'Connor

Love in the "Corral"

Conjugal Spirituality
and Anti-theatrical Polemic
in Early Modern Spain

PETER LANG

New York • Washington, D.C./Baltimore • Boston • Bern
Frankfurt am Main • Berlin • Brussels • Vienna • Canterbury

Table of Contents

Preface	xi
Introduction	1
I. A. A. Parker's Approach to Love in Spanish Literature	1
II. Love, the Individual, and the Western Tradition	3
III. Individuals Versus Types	5
IV. Theatrical, Dramatic, and Cultural Codes: The Codes of Honor and Love in the Comedia	7
A. Foucault's Episteme and the Sense of Order in the Comedia	8
B. Dramatic Systematicities	9
C. The Code of Honor	12
D. The Code of Love	15
E. Religious and Secular Ethics	18
F. The Dynamics of Social Action and Courtship	20
 Part 1: Social Discourse on the Comedia
Introduction: The Legitimacy of Public Theater in Spain	29
I. The Spanish Comedia as an Historico-Theatrical Event	36
A. The Context of Theatrical Performances	37
B. Dramatic Plots in the Comedia Nueva	42
1. What Constitutes "cosas lascivas y amores deshonestos"?	44
2. What Are "buenas costumbres"?	47
3. The Cape-and-Sword Plays and Their Amatory Material	49
4. Matrimony as Justification for Amatory Plays	52
C. The Moral State of the Comedia	57
1. Effect of the Comedia on the Public	66
2. Responsibility of Fathers	71
3. Effect of the Comedia on Marriage	73
4. Innocence of Youth	75
5. Cautionary Tales	77
D. The Moral State of Actors	78
1. The Civil State of Actors and Acting	79
2. May Actors Receive the Sacraments?	81
3. The Actors' Lifestyle	81
4. The Mixing of Men and Women in Theaters, Churches, and other Public Places	84
E. The Question of Women on Stage	87
1. The Appropriateness of Women as Cómicas , Representantas ,

	and Comediantas	89
2.	The Replacement of Boys by Women in Female Roles	95
3.	Women Dressed in Male Attire	96
4.	The Mixing of Actors and Actresses in Dressing Rooms, in Rehearsals, and on Tour	100
5.	Only Married Women Permitted on Stage	102
6.	Actresses as Daughters of Eve and as Sirens	105
7.	Actresses as Public Prostitutes	110
8.	Women's Nature	112
F.	Patristic Attitudes and Opinions on Theater	119
1.	The Applicability of the Church Fathers' Opinions on Theater to the Spanish Comedia	119
2.	Women, Sexuality, Obscenity, and Perdition	123
3.	The Question of Temporal Appropriateness	128
4.	Reason and the Church Fathers	130
G.	The Conflict of Traditions: Ancient and Modern; Secular and Religious	131
II.	The Two Poles of Human Happiness: Religion and Civil Government	143
A.	The Relationship of Civil to Ecclesiastical Authority	143
1.	The Connection with Charity: The Spanish Comedia and Public Hospitals	149
2.	The Exercise of Ecclesiastical Authority	150
3.	The Sacraments as Weapons of Moral Enforcement	152
4.	What Constitutes Christian Dogma?	153
5.	The Double-Edged Sword of Ecclesiastical Censorship	155
B.	Lay Judgment and the Moral Maturity of Christians	156
C.	Leisure and the Use of Time	160
III.	Christian Empire and the Ideal/"Christianized" Society	167
A.	Two Distinct Classes of Christian	167
1.	Striving for or Imposing Perfection	169
2.	Backlash from the Mediocre	171
B.	Profane versus Divine Love	172
C.	The "Conventualized" Model of Spanish Society	177
1.	The "Monasticization of the Laity"	178
2.	Misogyny, Monasticism, and the Segregation of the Sexes	179
3.	Religious Zeal Versus Political Ambition and Human Reality	182
D.	Clerics and the Religious in Theaters and Plays Staged in Convents and Monasteries	184
E.	Public Theater and the Society of Jesus	188

1. Jesuits Versus Augustinians	189
2. Traditional Jesuit Discourse on Public Theater	192
3. The Guerra Affair or the Spirit of Partisanship: Jesuits Rally Round P. Hurtado de Mendoza	195
4. Licitness Redux: The Gaspar Díaz Affair	201
5. Licitness Revisited: The Pinedo Affair	203
IV. Secularization Versus "Theocraticization": The Laicization of Spanish Society	209
A. Spain as the Refuge of Catholicism	210
B. The Case for Moral Degeneration	211
C. The Forum for Debate on Politico-Moral Issues	213
V. Perceptions of Human Nature and the "Natural"	217

Part 2: Discourse on Love in the Comedia

Introduction: The Dramatic Representation of Subjectivity. The Validation, Correction, or Rejection of Individual Experience (Fuente Ovejuna [The Sheep Well], La dama boba [Lady Nitwit], El villano en su rincón [The Peasant Master of His Domain])	225
I. The Meaning of Conformidad /Conformity: A Tragicomic Depiction (El mejor mozo de España [The Best Bachelor in Spain])	255
A. Dramatic Nature of El mejor mozo de España	257
B. Confluence of Poetry and History	259
C. "Mythologized" Matrix of the Plot	264
D. Ir a vistas : The Proper Role of Gusto , Even in Affairs of State	267
E. History Revealed through Poetry	271
II. The Meaning of Conformidad /Conformity: The Mythic Perspective (Salazar y Torres: Loa [Prelude] to El encanto es la hermosa/La segunda Celestina [Beauty Is Enchanting/The Second Celestina]; Sor Juana: Sarao de cuatro naciones [Dance of the Four Nations] from Los empeños de una casa [One House's Troubles] and Loa to Amor es más laberinto [Love Is More Like a Labyrinth]; Calderón de la Barca: La estatua de Prometeo [Prometheus's Statue])	283
III. The Meaning of Conformidad /Conformity: Comic Depictions (Miguel de Cervantes: Don Quijote ; Ruiz de Alarcón: Las paredes oyen [The Walls Have Ears] and La verdad sospechosa [Suspect Truth]; Calderón de la Barca: La dama duende [The Phantom Lady] and No hay burlas con el amor [Love Is No Laughing Matter]; Salazar y Torres, Vera

Tassis, and sor Juana Inés de la Cruz: El encanto es la hermosura/La segunda Celestina ; sor Juana: Los empeños de una casa)	289
A. A Mythic and Cervantine Excursus on the Importance of Parthenoi	289
B. A Sampling of the Spanish Comedia 's Comic Mode	295
C. The Bowdlerization of the Comedia de capa y espada : The Case of No hay burlas con el amor	307
D. An Afterword on No hay burlas con el amor and Spanish Drama in the 1670s and Early 1680s	322
IV. The Meaning of Conformidad /Conformity: Tragic Depictions (Calderón de la Barca: A secreto agravio secreta venganza [Secret Vengeance for a Secret Injury], El médico de su honra [The Surgeon of His Honor], and El pintor de su deshonor [The Painter of His Dishonor]; La estrella de Sevilla [The Star of Seville]; Vélez de Guevara: Reinar después de morir [Reigning after Death]; Tirso de Molina: El burlador de Sevilla [The Mockers of Seville])	343
A. Calderón de la Barca's Wife-Murder Plays	343
1. The Ideal of Conjugal Love	345
2. The Realization or Contradiction of That Ideal	350
3. Does Love Owe a Debt to Honor?	352
4. The Consequences of Transgressing el código del honor	356
5. The Mysterious Role of Heaven(s) in Human Affairs	357
6. The Virgin-Whore Syndrome in the Wife-Murder Plays	358
B. The Politics of Betrothal and Marriage	359
C. A Brief Afterword on El burlador de Sevilla	364
Bibliography	369
Index	385